Hawks, Champion Flier. Brains Will Rule. He Will Steal No More. To Make Opera Pay.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CAPT. HAWKS is now the world's champion flier, and has beaten all records across this continent westward and back again.

Flying from Los Angeles to New York in 12½ hours, he beat Col. Lindbergh's record by two and one-half hours, and his engine was never "wide open" on the trip.

DESCRIBING HOW he "loped along at 250 miles an hour" between Albuquerque and Wichita before a tail wind, he said he hoped to make the crossing in shorter time later this fall, when conditions are better. Three thousand miles in 12½ hours is not bad. At that rate of speed, you could fly around the world in less than five days. Jules Verne never thought of that.

THE BRITISH dirigible R-100 is off on her homeward trip.

Jackson and O'Brine, continuing their non-stop endurance record, have flown without stopping for 24 days. They promise to go on for at least 20 days longer.

The Prince of Wales in the air watching the British Royal Air maneuvers was mistaken by his own fliers for "an enemy" bomber, savagely pursued and driven to the ground.

Mr. Insull might have replied "A skull full of brains controls your whole body."

The individual body will always be controlled by a small skull full of brains. And nations will be controlled, at least for many centuries, by small groups of men.

IN ANCIENT DAYS food was usually given to anyone in need. The law allowed an expectant mother to take fruit from any orchard. None could interfere with her. Customs and laws have changed. Near Toledo, O., Elmer Tilton, 45 years old, out of work for seven months, went out with his eldest son, Lewis, aged 17, to get some food.

UNFORTUNATELY they tried the farm of Lester Coy, 23 years old, who farms single-handed, supporting a blind father, and is frequently annoyed by crop thieves. He was sitting up late with a gun, when Tilton and his son began digging his potatoes. Father and son were both shot dead.

Someone else will have to supply food for Tilton's six other children.

SAMUEL INSULL and other Chicagoans who can afford it learn that grand opera last year cost them a loss of $558,526.26.

It seems a good deal for opera, but it would be only small change for the radio.

Mr. Aylesworth, who runs the National Broadcasting Company, which you probably hear every day, pays more than $20,000,000 a year for "talent."

And great industrial concerns, like General Electric, spend many other millions for talent to make their advertising announcements attractive.

CHICAGO OPERA might easily make up its deficit by letting Mr. Aylesworth broadcast the performance, with short advertising talks between the acts. The audience in the opera house need not hear the advertising, and the public would be edified. Why not combine business with opera?

DR. SWALLOW is dead, aged 91. Formerly a Methodist preacher, he ran for president, as a prohibition candidate, in 1904, and was ridiculed. But he lived to see prohibition the law and to see Herbert Hoover, as a prohibition candidate, get about 20,000,000 votes, Gov. Smith, on a wet platform, getting about 15,000,000 votes, many millions more than any other Democrat ever got. The improbable happens.

NAPLES, ALREADY cruelly punished, was about to celebrate with religious and other rejoicing the cessation of the earthquake visitation yesterday, when suddenly a large section of the city was struck by a savage tornado. Four are dead, six dying, many injured.

Fortunately the tornado struck early, at 6:30 a. m., while the streets were almost empty. The frightened population crowded the churches when the tornado subsided, seeking protection, while church bells were tolled loudly, warning and summoning the people.

IT WAS STATED here, in haste, that something is the matter with the country and nobody knows what it is. Telegrams from many places mention gentlemen who know what the matter is and how to cure the trouble.

Florida, Washington, California, each have several individuals prepared to "put the nation back in its stride." The statement that nobody knows is withdrawn.

WEDNESDAY BEING the thirteenth, unlucky day, Mr. William Slater, driving with his wife, turned out sharply to avoid hitting a black cat. To hit such a cat on the thirteenth would be most unlucky. Mr. Slater hit a telegraph pole instead of the cat, and was cut and bruised. His wife was cut on the head. The cat was not hurt.

'3-GUN' WILSON MAY GO

ORDER GIVEN FOR VOTING MACHINES

Armstrong, Babcock Ignore Citizens' Protest in Buying Device Still Experiment

Ignoring the recommendation of the Citizens Voting Machine Committee headed by State Senator Frank J. Harris, County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock voted to award the voting machine contract to the Poole Engineering Company of Baltimore.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern did not vote on the award. He pleaded for further consideration, or splitting the contract between the two bidders.

Immediately after the commissioners' action, Senator Harris directed the secretary of the Citizens' Committee to call a meeting. He was plainly nettled at the result of the hearing. Asked if he cared to make any comment, he said:

"No, let the commissioners do the talking now."

RIVALS APPEAR

The award was made after officials of the Poole company and the Automatic Voting Machine Company of Jamestown had appeared before the board and answered questions concerning the financial standing of their companies and their ability to deliver voting machines.

The Poole Company representatives told the commissioners that they would probably be able to deliver 300 machines by October 15 and at the rate of 300 a month thereafter. Its president said that they had been in business 58 years, have never failed to fulfill a contract and will post a surety bond to guarantee deliveries.

The report of the Citizens Committee which recommended purchase of the Jamestown Voting Machine, was read by Attorney W. B. McFall.

The report states:

"We believe that it would be false economy to consider the matter of price. We belive that the Automatic Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., is the better voting machine. The installation of voting machines which will restore the confidence of our citizens in the elections of their public officers would be an accom-

FOG AND RAIN SLOW DASH BY R-100

Crew Hopeful of Record; Rumors of Mishap Denied; Dirigible Nearing Europe

International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Plunging through fog and rain, the British dirigible R-100 approached European shores today, well past the half-way mark on its second trans-Atlantic crossing.

At 4:11 p. m. British summer time (11:11 a. m. Pittsburgh time), the Cunard liner Cameronia sighted the huge airship 70 miles south-southwest of 53.58 north, 27.07 west.

This position was approximately 1,516 miles east of Belle Isle, where the dirigible left the American mainland and struck out over the ocean. At this time, the R-100 had covered almost 2,000 miles of the homeward journey from Montreal to Cardington.

The dirigible was encountering very unsettled weather, the air ministry reported.

Advices received here from the airship's commander, Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, indicated the officers entertained every hope of breaking the America-to-Europe crossing record. The air ministry was informed the giant dirigible might be expected at Cardington

'AMEN' RAID HEAD FACES TRANSFER

Pittsburgh Dry Chief's Fate Left to Pennington by Authorities at Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Harold D. (Three-Gun) Wilson will be transferred from Pittsburgh as deputy dry chief if John D. Pennington, administrator for the Pittsburgh district, recommends it, Howard T. Jones, assistant director of prohibition, said today.

But so far, Pennington has made no such recommendation, Jones said. He declared:

"It is entirely up to Pennington. If he recommends that Wilson be transferred, then we will o. k. that recommendation."

KNOWS OF NO BREAK

Jones said that he knew nothing of any difficulties between Pennington and Wilson. The assistant director pointed out that the fate of dry agents is chiefly in the hands of their immediate superiors in their respective districts, the office in Washington merely approving their recommendations.

LED 'AMEN' RAID

"Three-Gun" Wilson led the prohibition squad that raided the Amen Corner picnic in McKees Rocks at the Hipper Dipper Club, in which two bartenders were arrested and quantities of beer, allegedly of illegal alcoholic content, were seized.

Furore was created in local political circles at the time, when it was discovered the picnic was attended by many prominent officials, politicians and business men of the district. It has been known for some time that Wilson desired to be transferred to the East.

Removal to Philadelphia of three truck loads of files Sunday will mark the virtual passing of the industrial alcohol permit section of the Treasury Department from this city which numbers some of the largest users of industrial alcohol in the country.

WORKERS TRANSFERRED

Thirty-five office workers, mostly young women, also will be transferred to Philadelphia under orders of S. O. Wynne, newly appointed supervisor of permits in the Third District, including Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

The shift will mean a delay of 48 hours in obtaining industrial alcohol permits for the large manufacturing industries of this district, it is said.

Employes who will remain here will be principally warehouse watchmen and guagers.

HILL FIRE ROUTS 40 FAMILIES

Forty families were ordered from their homes in the Hill district this morning when flames virtually destroyed the three-story plant of the National Extract Company, 1958-64 Enoch street, causing damage estimated at $20,000.

Three firemen were injured fighting the flames.

The building, an old brick structure, was a landmark in the district. At one time it was occupied by the Bedford Athletic Club.

The fire was spectacular, the flames breaking through the roof and leaping high into the air, attracting the attention of residents in all parts of the city. Three alarms were sounded.

3 HURT, FIGHT ON

The injured firemen are Anthony McDonald, of No. 4 Engine Company, and Edward Worthy and John Peterson, of No. 58 Engine Company. McDonald stepped on a nail and the others were cut by flying glass. They returned to work after being treated by Chief Fire Surgeon Daniel E. Sable.

The firemen were endangered when a portion of a rear wall collapsed. Chief Richard Smith ordered the men from the fire es-

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 15.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The old frontiers and back country of our nation have vanished. We do not have any longer a strictly rural population. It is difficult to find any region that lives unto itself. Wherever we go we find similar brands of ready made clothing and shoes worn by both men and women. And standard house furnishings. But the change of even greater importance is the similarity of information and opinions.

Calvin Coolidge

One great factor in this improved condition of the people is good roads. They are a by-product of the automobile. When the motor car brought the increased power to travel people began to insist on adequate highways that were adapted to their needs. Now all kinds of cars with people from all sections are circulating all over the country. Another important influence is the radio. A third is the motion picture.

These influences have supplemented the school house in banishing ignorance. They have stimulated and unified the thought of the people. Broken down sectional prejudices. And welded us all into one nation. They are outstanding examples of how commercial activity ministers to the spiritual welfare of the people. Diligence in business has carried us to a higher mental and moral plane.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

DOG RACES END AT GUYASUTA

John Douglas was named permanent receiver for the Guyasuta Kennel Club's dog track by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court today.

Asked by the court whether it was the intention of the receiver to operate the track, counsel for Douglas replied that a recent attempt to race dogs at the track had been unsuccessful.

Douglas recently announced racing was discontinued because a creditor had taken away the mechanical rabbit.

He said today he informed owners of 200 dogs still at the track that racing had been permanently discontinued.

Douglas said a proposition to turn the track into a rodeo had been made to him by promoters.

Douglas told the court equipment was worth $40,000. The court named Michael Yates and James Reed to appraise it.

The track was built at a cost of $75,000.

Ted Lundgren Ready For Hop to Maine

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The big single-motored monoplane in which Ted Lundgren, Hollywood aviator, plans to fly around the world was out on the field today awaiting favorable weather reports to take off for Old Orchard, Me.

Early reports, however, were not encouraging, and Lundgren was not at all sure he would get away today. He will be accompanied to Old Orchard by Roger Q. Williams, trans-Atlantic flier, who may go with him as co-pilot around the world.

Doctors Keep Close Watch Over Duchess

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Four physicians, supervised by Sir Henry Simmon, kept close watch on the Duchess of York today. Birth of her second child has been expected for several weeks.

Sir Henry, a noted obstetrician, attended the Duchess at the birth of her first child in 1926. He is a noted expert in Caesarian sections.

Mrs. Morrow Leaves For Mexico City

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, wife of the American ambassador to Mexico, was en route to Mexico City today to join her husband. She was accompanied by her daughter, Constance.

WATCH FOR BOY FLIER HERE

Airports here were on the lookout this afternoon for the tiny cabin monoplane in which 18-year-old Eddie Schneider, of Westfield, N. J., is attempting a junior transcontinental record. The youthful flier left Stultz Field, Altoona, at 12:40 p. m., his destination being Columbus, from which port he hoped to continue his tri pacross the continent in easy hops by day.

Schneider took off from the East yesterday, but was forced down in the mountains by rain and fog. He reached Altoona this morning and was kept on the ground for several hours awaiting favorable weather reports.

He said he would continue on through to Columbus without stopping at Pittsburgh if weather conditions were favorable and when he had failed to land at any of the local fields by 2:30 o'clock it was thought likely that he had gone through.

Thick weather existed east of Pittsburgh, according to weather observation stations.

Transfusion Aids Earl of Birkenhead

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—The Earl of Birkenhead, former attorney general and secretary of state for India, who is suffering from pneumonia at his home here, was stronger today following a blood transfusion, it was stated in a bulletin issued by his physicians.

News that a blood transfusion had been resorted to gave the first indication of the extreme gravity of the earl's illness.

Chicago Baby Tangle Flares Anew as Writ is Asked

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The Bamberger-Watkins baby tangle flared again in Chicago courts today, after having been quiescent for a week. Attorneys for the Bambergers asked for a writ restraining the Watkinses from permitting any more scientific tests of the baby which Mrs. Watkins has and which she maintains belongs to the Bambergers.

The attorneys pointed out to the court that if the Watkinses believe the baby they have is not there, but Bamberger's, as they declared in court last week, they should not be allowed to molest it with further scientific examination, which, the Bambergers believe, might endanger its life or health.

The request for the restraining writ is especially aimed to prevent further tests by experts whom the Watkins attorney, Barratt O'Hara, is seeking in New York and Washington.

HUNT FOR EXTORTIONISTS BEGUN AS HOTEL TRAP FAILS

NEW THREAT DEMANDS $10,800

State Troopers, Seeking To Avenge Slain Comrade, Hunt Blackmailers Here

State troopers today were seeking a new clue that would lead them to the extortionists who failed to appear here yesterday after demanding that W. F. Wright, Monessen furniture dealer, bring $10,800 to Hotel William Penn.

The threats that shifted the extortion scene from Monessen to Pittsburgh composed a sequel to a gun battle last month in which a state trooper and an extortionist were killed.

The extortionist did not appear at the William Penn Hotel after instructi..g Wright to cash a bank draft here and register at the hotel. State police, including Pvt. Walter Kunkle, who was at the death scene, assisted by local detectives headed by William Harris, failed to draw the extortionists into the trap.

FOUR MORE LETTERS

Since the slaying of State Trooper Charles L. Stewart, 22, of Troop A, on July 17 at the Grandview Cemetery, Monessen, by the extortionist, killed in the gun battle by Stewart and identified as John Sabo, 21, of Monessen, Wright had received four threatening letters. The latest threat demanded that Wright arrive here and register at the hotel at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

The letter ordered him to bring a bank draft for the money and at 10:30 a. m. go to the Mellon National Bank and cash it. He was ordered to return to the hotel, but the instructions failed to state whether Wright would be stopped on the street or in the hotel.

Wright, in broken health because of continual threats on his life, was unable to make the trip here. However, he left his home in Monessen yesterday morning, driving in his own car toward Pittsburgh.

At a prearranged point a state trooper, dressed in some of Wright's clothing, took the wheel, letting Wright out of the machine, and drove to Pittsburgh.

At the designated hour, Wright's impersonator left the hotel and crossed Oliver avenue to the bank.

The thoroughfare was guarded by nine other state troopers and city detectives.

A draft for the $10,800 was presented to the bank cashier and, as prearranged, counted in full view of anyone in the bank lobby.

Placed in an envelope, the money was switched and a second envelope, stuffed with paper, was passed to the trooper.

No attempt was made to stop Wright's impersonator and the state troopers remained at the hotel throughout the day. It was anticipated that the extortionists would telephone to Wright at the hotel room. It was considered likely that a second extortionist gang had made the demands.

MOB THREATENS 'RED' CAMP

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—A threatening mob of 2,000 men and boys with a sprinkling of women, were held to a deadline today by Sheriff Harry J. Tiff and six deputies, assisted by a dozen state troopers, at the Communist children's camp at Van Etten, following threats last night to burn the camp.

Leaders of a mob of 200 persons from Waverly, N. J., and Sayre and Athens, Pa., last night gave camp heads and the 70 children under their charge a half hour to leave before they set fire to the camp. Authorities arrived just in time to prevent the threat being carried out.

Trouble began last Friday when a society's offer of an American flag was refused by Mabel Husa and Ailene Holmes, leaders of the International Workers' Relief Camp for children at Van Etten.

Miss Husa and Miss Holmes were arrested on a charge of desecrating the flag after a mob had torn a red flag from the entrance and had burned a fiery cross there.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES — By Quin Hall

by 1 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. Friday eastern daylight time).

RARELY GIVES POSITION

The R-100 kept in fairly constant touch with the air ministry here, but with the same reserve that characterized her trip from Europe to Canada, offered positions rarely.

The Air Ministry reported the position of the R-100 at 2 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) as 53:05 north, 39:20 west, which is about 1,555 miles from Montreal and 1,732 from Cardington, the ship's home.

Rumors that the R-100 had met with a slight mishap brought swift denials from the air ministry. An official declared:

"The report is absolutely unfounded. Headwinds are reducing the speed of the R-100 slightly, but there is no trouble. The airship is not expected to arrive at Cardington until 5 a. m. tomorrow (midnight tonight, Pittsburgh time)."

In the six hours since the preceding report, the dirigible's speed had been cut by a cross-head wind from in excess of 60 miles an hour to about 32. The average had fallen to about 55.

It was estimated that the dirigible crossed the half-way mark about 4:45 a. m., Pittsburgh time.

Favored by tailwinds and plunging at times through patches of clouds and mist, the big air liner set a fast pace for the larger part of its initial course. From Montreal to Anticosti Island it averaged 80 miles per hour, slowing up but slightly on the northward trek to the ocean through the Straits of Belle Isle.

SIGHTED ALONG COAST

Several towns and villages along the Newfoundland coast espied the long grey shape coursing toward the ocean. Nearly half a dozen ocean liners reported sighting the dirigible, some on the far horizon while others announced her directly overhead.

Apparently, judging from the colorful reports sent here by correspondents aboard the airship, the 13 passengers and 44 members of the crew were thoroughly enjoying the trip.

As the air monarch reeled off the miles through the night, the British public suddenly developed a marked interest in her progress, avidly following all communications received from aboard.

Governor Misses Meet to Save Party Jobs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(Universal).—Gov. Flem D. Sampson, Republican, of Kentucky, couldn't go to the Hoover drought conference yesterday because in his absence all vacant political offices would have been grabbed by Democrats.

So ran, at least, the explanation of a fellow governor who did come.

"The Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky is a Democrat," he said.

UP 600 HOURS, PAIR FLIES ON

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Determined to establish "a lasting record" for refueling endurance flying, Dale ("Red") Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, recapturers of premier honors in this branch of aviation, continued today to soar over the field here in their monoplane Greater St. Louis after passing the 600-hour mark.

They have announced they will remain aloft 1,000 hours, and perhaps longer. Their earlier record was 420 hours, broken recently by the Hunter brothers, of Sparta, Ill.

Jackson and O'Brine have begun to realize financial returns on their flight, which it seemed for a time would come to a premature end through lack of funds and now receive $100 for every hour they add to the Hunters' record.

Dr. Norris Rites To Be Held Tonight

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 15.—Funeral services will be held tonight for Dr. R. W. Norris, Waynesburg physician whose death occurred suddenly Wednesday. Private burial will take place Saturday morning in Green Mount Cemetery, Waynesburg.

Doctor Kills Self In Office With Gun

RAIN MAY SAVE DISTRICT CROPS

More showers are expected here tomorrow night, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said today. Fair and warmer weather today was to be followed by cloudy weather tomorrow. If the showers expected Saturday night are reasonably heavy, it will mean that much of the local crops might be saved.

The United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics, in a report issued in Washington, announced that fruit trees in Pennsylvania were showing the effects of the dry weather. In some localities apples are shriveled from the excessive heat, the report stated. The situation was regarded as serious in the Cumberland-Shenandoah region, where the drought is severe.

HOOVER GIVES LINDY MEDAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh added another medal to his huge assortment of souvenirs this afternoon.

At a brief ceremony in the executive offices of the White House President Hoover stood in front of his desk and presented to the young man who flew the Atlantic Ocean alone, the $1,500 medal Congress awarded him for his many achievements in aviation.

The President said:

"Col. Lindbergh, it is a great pleasure to present to you this congressional medal in behalf of the Congress and in commemoration of your achievements in aviation.

"I am sure the sentiments expressed by the Congress are shared by the whole American people."

Col. Lindbergh accepted the medal and said:

"Mr. President, I thank you. "I wish to express my thanks to the Congress and my appreciation and thanks to you."

Poland Protests German's Charges

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The Polish Telegraph agency today stated that the government had issued an official communique announcing that Foreign Minister Zaleski had conferred with the German charge d'affaires, regarding a speech made last Sunday by Gottfried Treviranus, German minister of occupied regions, which has aroused the Polish public and press.

The government said that an emphatic protest has been lodged by Poland at "statements aimed at the integrity of the Polish state."

Destitute Family Obtains Work, Food, Clothing

Work for the father and son and a plentiful supply of food and clothing for the Walter Shields family of eight children, married daughter and two grandchildren, destitute in a windowless and doorless log house on the Trafford City-Greensburg road, were provided today through the efforts of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society.

Relief sought by Humane Officer Amos C. Books, revealed through a pictorial story in Wednesday's issue of The Sun-Telegraph, brought an offer of employment for the 51-year-old carpenter from a Trafford City contractor. The oldest boy, Cornelius, 17, who lacked shirt and shoes and so was unable to leave his humble abode in quest of employment, will begin work Monday for the Parkview Construction Company, Inc., of Oakland, through the interest of P. De Pasquale, its treasurer.

News of the family's plight led more than 35 persons to contribute clothing and food. A dealer has assured a supply of coal for the winter, according to Officer Books. The bedroom will be moved from the second floor of an old barn to the log house, with the property's owner providing the materials for repairs to the building.

For doing the work, the Shields family will be rent free for two years.

NATION, STATES SPEEDING AID IN DROUGHT

Hoover, Governors Agree On Program; Immediate Action Needed in Crisis

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Hoover today speeded federal agencies into action to provide relief for farmers in a dozen drought-stricken states, as governors hurried home to launch state and local organizations as a part of a broad-scale relief program.

Confronted with reports that immediate aid is necessary to prevent sacrifice of livestock and perhaps to prevent epidemics of disease in some areas, the President moved swiftly to translate a paper plan into a reality.

The whole program was to be discussed at today's cabinet meeting and later with heads of the three big national farm organizations.

COMMITTEE EXPECTED

The first presidential act was expected to be the setting up of a federal drought relief co-ordination committee composed of Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture; Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the Farm Board; Paul Bester, farm loan commissioner; John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross; Dr. Hugh L. Cumming, of the Public Health Service, and Alfred P. Thom, of the American Railway Association.

The plan, as outlined after the conference with governors, includes:

Setting up of federal co-ordination committee to work with state and local agencies.

Naming of state drought-relief committees by governors who believe there is such need, and naming of county committees.

LOANS PLANNED

Immediate planning to provide relief in loans through the Federal Farm Board. The intermediate credit bank system, or other federal or local agencies.

Organization of committees in drought-ridden counties by the American Red Cross, which has made a preliminary allocation of a fund of $5,000,000.

Collection and dissemination of information concerning sources of feed supply, with Iowa, Nebraska and other states having a surplus of feed setting up committees to insure a steady flow to needy areas.

Department of Agriculture to consider speeding federal-state road building programs and other methods of providing employment.

GOVERNORS OPTIMISTIC

The governors who attended the conference generally said they believed the plan agreed upon would be helpful. President Hoover was insistent upon local and state agencies providing relief, while at least some of the governors declared a very liberal federal loan policy was necessary.

The question of federal loans was left to the federal co-ordination committee. While the Farm Board and intermediate credit banks have announced they had plenty of money to loan, they have insisted they can not loan except upon good security.

Governors Emmerson, of Illinois and Reed, of Kansas, both of whom had declared that such a loan policy could not bring relief, declined to discuss the credit situation after the conference.

SECRET TRIAL FREES FOUR

Forbes street, and carried out the cash register. It was reported that Lieut. William Lavery, after forcing their car to the curb, arrested Blazwich and Turek. Patrolman L. C. Bond said last night that, after a gun battle, he arrested Schroeder and Minasuras at the foot of the Tustin street steps.

Reporters were not permitted to listen to the testimony. A Sun-Telegraph reporter, however, read the following testimony from the official records of Charles Huston, magistrate's clerk:

Blazwich testified:

"The four of us entered Geko's place and played the slot machine. We lost $6 without getting a return for our money and became angry. We talked to Geko about it, and he became angry and threatened to call police to have us put out. We then—"

TESTIMONY SUPPRESSED

The remainder of Blazwich's testimony was not learned, for Huston, seeing the reporter scanning his records, snatched them away and said:

"I'll have you arrested for highway robbery for reading these records."

Magistrate Jones, not knowing that a portion of the testimony had been seen by a reporter, made the following statement:

"I am convinced that officers who arrested the youths have been mistaken in their identity."

EXPERIMENTAL MACHINES

The committee's analysis of the two companies which was embodied in the report states that the Poole Engineering Company proposes to build a machine from the commissioners' specifications and has never actually built a complete voting machine. Special machinery which will be required for the manufacture of the machines is now in storage in a New York warehouse, which the report says:

"Our investigator asked to see these special tools, fixtures, etc., and was told that they are in storage, and that it was proposed to ship them to a Philadelphia stamping concern which would use them in preparing the detail stamped parts necessary. These would be then forwarded to the Poole company and fabricated into the complete machine. This plan involves considerable element of hazard as to prompt delivery."

The Jamestown company, it is said, is ready to deliver 175 machines at once and 500 during October. This machine, according to the committee report, is in use in 18 states. There are 19,000 machines in use in 2,000 cities, towns and villages, Russell Griffen, vice president of the company, told the commissioners, and his company has a complete service department to install and instruct election officers in the operation of the machines.

Asked by Commission Armstrong why his company with all its experience and knowledge of voting machines should be underbid by another company, Griffen said:

"Our company has an established price for voting machines, from which there is no discount except for several large cities, including Pittsburgh. Any bidder could easily underbid us."

After the discussion in which financial standing of the companies was gone into at great length, Armstrong said:

"I don't know whether we want to act now or hold it over until this afternoon."

McGovern said:

"I think we should act now."

Babcock said:

"Before I vote I want to know from the Jamestown man why his company did not submit a list of stockholders."

Griffen answered:

"Because the stock is held by about 8,000 persons. It is listed on the New York Curb and is constantly changing hands."

Babcock then said:

"We have always been careful in throwing out a low bidder for a higher one unless there be some excellent reason for it. In this case I see no reason for not awarding this contract to the low bidder, and I so move it."

McGOVERN PROTESTS

McGovern arose and said:

"Aside from the Flinn and Harris families I have been closer, perhaps, to this voting machine question than anybody else in Allegheny County. This is a terribly important question. It would seem better for the commissioners to divide this contract between the two companies, or rent the machines for a year. I am certain the Poole Company is reliable and in time can produce a satisfactory machine that will meet all conditions.

"We are assuming a tremendous responsibility if we take these machines and they are a failure. I don't mind assuming responsibility but I believe that further consideration should be given. The Jamestown people pioneered these machines. For 10 years they have worked at educating the people to voting machines. I brought the first machine to Pittsburgh. With $1,000,000 of the peoples' money to spend I do not think it is wise to give the contract to one concern.

When McGovern finished Armstrong said:

"We advertised for the machines. The bids have been submitted and there is nothing to do but vote on the resolution.

"All those in favor will say aye."

"Aye," said Babcock.

"Aye," said Armstrong.

McGovern remained silent. Armstrong then declared:

Large Pottery Plant Afire, $500,000 Loss

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Flames that destroyed the buildings of A. H. Hews and Company, Inc., owners of one of the country's largest and oldest pottery plants, were brought under control early today by the combined efforts of Cambridge, Boston, Belmont, Arlington and Somerville firemen. Loss was estimated at $500,000.

QUICKACTION ON BILLINGS' PLEA SEEN

Judges Hear Prisoner Tell Life Story, Deny Bombing And Accuse State Senator

By JAMES ADAM,
International News Service.

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Aug. 15.—Speedy termination of the Warren K. Billings' pardon hearing and an early decision were indicated when California Supreme Court justices left here early today after a dramatic night session behind prison walls.

The hearing will be resumed in San Francisco next Monday morning.

"We will attempt to limit further testimony and bring this case to a swift close," declared Chief Justice William W. Waste.

Billings had sat on a witness chair far into the night telling his own story.

SENATOR ACCUSED

Those present at the hearing interpreted the remark of the chief justice as meaning that the court had reached a definite conclusion on the case, except for minor points.

Two new names, hitherto unrevealed in connection with his activities as a labor agitator and spy, were brought out by Billings.

They were those of Edgar Hurley, now a state senator from Oakland, and John Wilson, of the Electrical Workers' Union in 1913.

He accused Hurley of hiring him to carry a suitcase of explosives from Oakland to Sacramento in 1913. He was arrested in Sacramento with the suitcase, and sentenced to two years in Folsom Prison.

It developed at the hearing that Hurley at the time was head of the strike committee of Electrical Workers' Union.

CLAIMS INNOCENCE

Billings said he understood the explosives were to be used in blowing up towers and other property of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company during a strike then in progress, although he said he thought the suitcase contained narcotics and not explosives.

He denied that Tom Mooney was with him when he was carrying the suitcase, or had any connection with the incident, to his knowledge.

Billings, a clean-cut diminutive prisoner, who entered the penitentiary 14 years ago, frankly admitted that he had engaged in various crimes, but pleaded his innocence of any connection with the San Francisco Preparedness Day bomb explosion in 1916, which took 10 lives and for which he and Tom Mooney are serving life terms.

Millionaire Clerk to Shun Marriage, Adopt Two

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Millionaire by inheritance, $35-a-week office worker by choice, Rex R. Fairbanks, 28, today announced he's going to adopt a couple of children. But as to marriage—not for him.

About six weeks ago an uncle, Andrew Fairbanks, of California, died leaving him $2,000,000. He's going to stay in the adjustment department of the Brooklyn Edison Company because he's interested in electricity.

Asked whether he was engaged to marry, he replied:

"Not any more. I've had that experience, but never again."

Meanwhile, Samuel Cocks, 34, half-Indian house painter, paused in his labors today to aver that a million dollars or thereabouts, inherited from an uncle in Montana, was not going to interfere with his art, declaring:

"I'm going to keep right on painting houses, even if my wife makes me drive to work behind a uniformed chauffeur."

Cocks said a law firm in Butte had informed him that Black Foot, his Sioux Indian uncle, had left an estate consisting of Texas oil land, a sheep ranch and a substantial bank account.

'Czar's Daughter' Faces Deportation After Long Sojourn

FAILS TO ASK EXTENSION PERMIT

'Grand Duchess Anastasia,' Leeds Protege While Here, Still Mysterious Figure

By ARTHUR HACHTEN.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Her permit to remain in the United States having expired August 8, Mme. Anastasia Tchaikovsky, who says she is the Duchess of Anastasia, only surviving daughter of the slain Czar of Russia, may now face deportation, it became known today.

Arriving in this country enshrouded in mystery during July, 1928, her permit to remain already has been extended several times. So far, she has failed to make application to the immigration service for permission to remain longer.

TIME WILL BE ALLOWED

A reasonable time—probably 30 days—will be given her to make application for another extension, after which the government will decide what course to take. Should she fail to make such an application, deportation would be almost certain.

Circulating among the social elite and said by some to entertain hopes of making a fortune in the films, Mme. Tchaikovsky has been under the wing of Mrs. William B. Leeds, wife of the tinplate magnate. Mrs. Leeds is the former Princess Xenia of Greece.

With her husband, Mrs. Leeds actively supported the visitor's claims of royal birth. If Mme. Tchaikovsky is what she claims, she is a first cousin of Mrs. Leeds.

CANNOT PROVE CLAIMS

Leeds has stated they have no way of proving her claims, but he has asserted that the young woman seeks no riches. This statement was evidently directed at rumors she would set up a claim to between $60,000,000 and $80,000,000 of the Czar's funds which, according to rumor, is secreted in London banks.

Mme. Tchaikovsky's story is that when Lettish guards opened fire upon the Czar, the Czarina and his children, she fell to the floor in a swoon and thus escaped the hail of bullets. She was believed dead.

She awakened, desperately wounded, in the wagon of a soldier, trundling across the Siberian steppes. He cared for her, she married him and bore him a son.

TRIED TO END LIFE

Despairing of convincing anyone of her identity, she threw herself into a river in Germany, was rescued and placed in a sanitarium.

Her uncle, Grand Duke Andreas Valdimirovitch Romanoff, in Berlin, substantiated her story and said he recognized her as the daughter of Czar Nicholas II.

EPISCOPAL SANCTION GIVEN

Lambeth Conference Takes Revolutionary Stand; Hits Remarriage for Divorced

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Widespread church controversy was in prospect today following publication of the Lambeth Conference report, which reached some startling conclusions on birth control, divorce, science and the unity of the church during war.

The 75 resolutions, summarizing the conclusions of 306 bishops of the Anglican Church who were in conference here for a month, under the leadership of the Archbishop of Canterbury, include a stirring call to deal firmly with divorce and birth control, to preach against war in all its forms for the safety of humanity and the preservation of civilization, and to allow greater authority to women in the church.

The resolution on birth control aroused the sharpest controversy, although it finally was adopted, 193 to 67, with 47 absentees. It declared, primarily, that in the cases of married persons where there is a clearly felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood, and where there is a morally sound reason for avoiding complete abstinence, birth control is permissible provided it is practiced in the light of Christian principles.

TAKES STAND ON DIVORCE

Other resolutions included the following:

The church recommends that the marriage of one whose partner in matrimony is still living shall not be celebrated according to church rites.

A broader field for women in spiritual direction is acknowledged necessary, and church deaconesses should be permitted to give spiritual counsel and assist ordained ministers in limited clerical functions, without vowing celibacy.

Clergymen and communicants who abide by the resolution on war and peace will no longer be free to yield to the excitement and emotion of an international crisis, and encourage their own country to enter a war if that country refuses to submit the dispute to arbitration and conciliation.

RESULT OF COMPROMISE

The Lambeth decision regarding birth control is recognized as a compromise following the hottest debate of the conference. It is known that some of the American bishops launched this most modern idea, and found followers from England's dominions and colonies, but heated opposition from the British prelates. Resolution 15, as adopted by the Anglician bishops, states:

"Where there is a clearly-felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood, the method of so doing must be decided on Christian principles.

"The primary and obvious method is complete abstention, as far as may be necessary in a life of disciplined self-control, lived in the power of the Holy Spirit.

"Nevertheless, in those cases where there is such a clearly-felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood, and where there is a morally sound reason for avoiding complete abstinence, this conference agrees that other methods may be used, provided this is done in the light of the same Christian principles.

SCORES OTHER MOTIVES

"This conference records a strong condemnation of the use of any methods of conception control from motives of selfishness, luxury or more convenience."

The conference also touched on extra-marital relationships, and expressed the hope that, because of the extension of irregular unions, legislation would prevent the unrestricted advertisement of birth control means.

GIRL ROUTS HER ASSAILANT

Miss Nora Collins, 24, of 2137 Freeport street, Overbrook, is confined to her bed today suffering from shock after battling her assailant in a lonely field last night.

The attack occurred when Miss Collins, returning from work, left an Overbrook car at Englewood stop. Alighting at the same time was a well dressed young man.

As the car pulled away the man struck Miss Collins on the jaw, dazing her. Grasping her by the neck, he then dragged her into a field.

The young woman regained consciousness and fought with her assailant for 15 minutes. She kicked and scratched him, tearing his clothing. He fled.

Miss Collins ran to her home where Dr. C. L. Bowman, of Brownsville road, was called. He said she was suffering from shock, but was otherwise uninjured.

The man Miss Collins said, made no attempt to take her purse.

SEARCH TRUNK FOR DIAMONDS

Three trunks, a handbag and some boxes which, detectives were informed, contained diamonds or gold or something valuable, were hauled into the detective bureau today with their owner, Henry Raugthersberg, 31, of 913 Galveston avenue.

When opened, the baggage in the way of jewels, netted detectives four pins of the 5 and 10 variety, a pair of cheap cuff buttons and two collar buttons. The rest of the articles found in the trunks would stock a pawn shop.

Raugthersberg, who, reports say, recently returned from the Klondike with a trunk filled with gold and diamonds, was arrested on complaint of Mrs. A. Dolly, of 929 Beech avenue, who said he was the man who had stolen her diamonds.

AWAIT FINDINGS ON AIRPORT

A report on the first official inspection of the City-County Airport was received in Harrisburg today by the State Board of Aeronautics.

This will be the basis of the application for an official rating. Inspection of the completed landing field was made yesterday by State Inspector Larry Paurot. The contents of his report were not revealed, but the findings may come before the airport hearing here Monday in the county commissioners' office.

The inspection was made at the request of Director Norman S. Brown of the County Department of Public Works.

Held in Fatal Crash For Manslaughter

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Aug. 15.—(INS.)—James Brophy, 27, of Jenkintown, was charged with manslaughter today by a coroner's jury following an investigation of the auto accident, Saturday night, in which John Cannon, 27, and Daniel Harkins, 21, both of Jenkintown, were fatally injured.

HANDCUFF, SLAY BEACH OFFICER

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Handcuffed with his own "bracelets," Patrolman Michael T. Connolly, 49, was slain early today and his body thrown face down in the sand on the beach below the eastern promenade.

There was a hole above the right eye, but whether it had been made by a bullet or a blow from a sharp instrument could not be determined, pending an examination by physicians.

Connolly's uniform coat was buttoned and his revolver and club were in the usual pockets.

300 at Campfire Of Epworth League

1921 Holdup Hero Dies After 76th Birthday

Charles Schultz, hero of the Boggs & Buhl payroll holdup nine years ago, died today after observing his seventy-sixth birthday in Suburban Hospital, Bellevue, yesterday.

It was through the daring of Schultz, then a retired policeman, that city officers rounded up all but the leader of the gang of bandits. After a bullet had pierced Schultz's hat, he captured one of the bandits and took him to North Side police station.

The prisoner proved to be Rufus Costner, wanted for murder in Kentucky, and later sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary for the holdup of James H. Neal, messenger, from whom the gang stole $59,000 in cash and checks on June 10, 1921, after killing Neal.

From Costner the police forced the names of his companions, Gilbert Kelly, also sentenced to 20 years, and Harry Brooks and his wife Margaret, both of whom served time. Benjamin Stokes, alleged brains of the gang, never was captured.

Schultz at the time of the holdup was retired from the city force and was working as a special officer for North Side firms and at Forbes Field. He continued at Forbes Field, until forced to go to the hospital recently.

HILL FIRE ROUTS 40 FAMILIES

capes on the building walls when it was feared alcohol and other chemicals stored inside might explode.

Fear of explosion or spread of the flames caused Capt. John Schnurr and Lieut. William Lavery, of the Center Avenue station, to order nearby residents from their homes.

Most of the 40 couples who fled were Negro occupants of nearby apartment houses.

Police established fire lines, keeping the large crowd out of danger.

THREE ALARMS

The flames were discovered by Patrolman James McAfee, who patrols the beat. He sounded the first alarm. The second and third alarms were sounded within a few minutes after the first firemen arrived. Flames broke through the roof and for a time threatened to spread to nearby buildings.

Firemen fought the flames from Enoch street, from a private alley in the rear and from the roofs of adjoining buildings.

Firemen were called back to the building shortly before 6 o'clock this morning when flames broke out anew. This blaze was extinguished quickly.

Kiss in Park Gets Pair 3-Month Jail Terms

FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Kissing and petting—under some circumstances—have become expensive in the city made famous by the romance of Dante and Beatrice.

A city judge with an austerity reminiscent of Savanarola, sentenced Bruno Irmini to three months and 10 days in jail for kissing his fiancee, Letizia Mamoni, in a public park, and the latter three months for accepting his caresses.

RESCUERS SEEK 46 IN MINE

PRINCETON, B. C., Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Rescue crews equipped with gas masks today were striving to reach 46 miners entombed since Wednesday as a result of a gas explosion at the Colamont mine in Blackburn, B. C.

Two miners were known to be dead, and one was rescued alive. It was feared the others may have succumbed to the deadly methane gas which filled the mine.

TROLLEY-BUSES FOR VALLEY

Trolley buses—an innovation in this district—will be placed in operation between Ambridge and Rochester, if the intervening communities give their consent.

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, today disclosed that negotiations are underway between the company and the municipalities affected. The proposal is to install eight buses as an experiment. In reconstructing the roadway the plan would be to eliminate relaying of street car tracks.

The buses, equipped each with a trolley pole, would obtain their motive power from the trolley wires already in place above the existing streets. They would keep to the course followed by the street cars, but would have more freedom for deviation, Fitzgerald stated.

The plan, tried out in several Eastern communities, is said to have been successful and to have reduced operating costs, with improvement of service.

Elkhart (Ind.) Man Will Head Eagles

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—With Robert E. Proctor, of Elkhart, Ind., unopposed for national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, ballots were counted at the thirty-second annual convention here today. Judge C. J. Canty, of Galveston, Tex., candidate to succeed Proctor as national vice president, was also unopposed.

Discussion of the nationalizing of the Eagles' old age pension campaign and continuation of the order's movement to "abolish the poor house in America," was on the program.

Played Before King, Now Asks Dope Cure

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Dr. P. Reginald Deighton, 68, who said he once played the organ before King Edward VII and had played in the Rheims and Notre Dame Cathedrals, begged Judge William Helander today to send him to jail that he might break the narcotic habit. Shabbily dressed and unshaven, he was fined $100 and costs, the sentence affording him opportunity for treatment under state supervision.

Pittsburgher Named At Apple Convention

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—E. E. Samson, of Yakima, Wash., was re-elected president of the International Apple Association, which closed its annual convention here yesterday. The executive committee includes W. H. Baggs, Pittsburgh.

Norris' Account Shows Gift of Mrs. Pinchot

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—United States Senator George W. Norris, insurgent, who defeated W. M. Stebbins, regular, for the Republican senatorial nomination, spent $2,600 in his campaign, his account showed.

All of his fund of $2,600, he reported, except $228 was contributed by individuals living out of the state. Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, of Philadelphia, wife of the Pennsylvania Republican candidate for governor, gave $1,000, and Senator Bronson H. Cutting, of New Mexico, gave a like amount.

DELAY TRIALS IN MINE BOMBING

DIXON, Ky., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The examining trials of Paul Montgomery, Essell Grant and Ewing Riley, charged with having dropped nine bombs on the coal fields here last Monday, were postponed in County Court today.

Montgomery, who confessed he piloted the plane, still is held at Murphysboro, Ill., and Grant and Riley, two striking miners, are at liberty in $5,000 bond each, in Illinois.

It has not been decided whether Montgomery and James Malone, another aviator, who is said to have introduced Grant and Riley to Montgomery, are to be prosecuted in the state or federal courts. This left indefinite the time for further court action here.

ADMITS HAVING MANY WIVES

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—John W. Orton, held here on charges of bigamy and embezzlement, has confessed to four bigamous marriages and told the authorities that he figured in many more similar cases. He refused any of the details, promising a full statement when brought to trial.

Police Superintendent A. A. Carroll said Orton, also known as John W. Sherwood, confessed that he married the four women, got their money, then deserted them. The women named by Orton were Mrs. Addie Grewett, of Pellston, Mich., who died a year ago; Mrs. Clara McIntosh, of Denver; Mrs. Rena Felger, of Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Lonjin, of Philadelphia.

Extra Water Taken From Lake for Canal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Diversion of water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois sanitary canal at Chicago will be increased as a result of the drought, Secretary of War Hurley announced today.

The increase beyond the limit set by the Supreme Court will be offset by a reduction after the drought danger has passed.

Swaney Lays Separation To Wife's Extravagance

Contending that his wife's extravagance was the main cause of their separation, Walter G. Swaney, of 611 South Main street, general manager and large stockholder in the Kerotest Manufacturing Company, has filed an answer in Common Pleas Court to Mrs. Flora S. Swaney's petition for alimony of $300 a month and $225 a month rent, pending determination of her divorce suit. Swaney counters with an offer to pay her $200 a month, out of which she shall rent less expensive quarters.

They lived in a $225 apartment at Hampton Hall, 116 Dithridge street, where the wife still resides. They were married October 18, 1919.

The husband says his wife told him it was "entirely a question of money" with her, and asked him how much he was willing to pay. When he demurred, she told him she was through with him, he declared. That was April 30.

He declares she previously had told him the only thing needed to make her happy was to leave the $130 a month apartment they then occupied and take the $225 Hampton Hall abode, and for him to raise her allowance from $300 to $400 a month. These things he did, he says, but adds that she ran up unnecessary bills of $2,300.

They parted after he had shut off her charge accounts, he says.

Swaney admits his income last year was $25,000 but says his salary is only $11,200 and that he received a $10,400 dividend last year. He denies he is worth $100,000 and says he owes $18,750. He avers that out of his salary, he is aiding in the support of his aged parents and is educating a son by a former marriage.

He admits he is willing to give his wife $10,000 worth of furniture and $200 a month, also pay her attorney fees in the divorce suit.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Robin Dale has a visitor, a Miss Geraldine Knight. She tells him of the mysterious murder of Jack Sharon, a wealthy promoter. The crime took place at a mountain lodge. Dale drives there with Miss Knight. Upon arrival they are astounded when a shrieking woman runs toward them out in the moonlight. The lady is Mrs. Nash, a guest who said she was about to be killed. Dale learns of the strange, amatory relations of a number of the week-end guests at the lodge. Next morning he inspects the murder scene. It is a sandy beach adjoining a lake, but the only footprints in the sand are those of the murdered man. Dale inspects a tiny island in the lake. He finds a clue which he keeps to himself. The murder-shotgun is found in the lake. Dale drives to the village and entices the hardware shopkeeper to come forward and identify the person who bought shotgun shells the day of the murder. Alan Knight is identified. It develops he is Geraldine's brother, working as Sharon's secretary under an alias. Alan is arrested. Dale throws doubt on the lad's guilt. The county police question the other guests, and they all testify that they were in their rooms at the time of the murder. Dale, by clever questioning, elicits the fact that none were in their rooms.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER V.

"There's only one thing more, Mrs. Nash, if you will be so kind," Dale went on, gently. "Sunday night something frightened you as we drove up to the lodge. Would you mind explaining what it was?"

"I was on the back porch, when, suddenly . . ." she seemed to shudder violently at the recollection . . . "when suddenly I saw the barrel of a gun glistening in the moonlight. It came through a thick shrub just beyond the porch. It was pointed directly at me."

She broke down, sobbing now, and Dale signed to Nash to go to her. The questioning was over. Nash stared at Dale belligerently for causing this harrowing scene. He helped his wife up the stairs, whispering to her as they proceeded. Behind them followed Mrs. Sharon and Warren. Fay Turner walked out onto the porch.

Dale turned to the mystified officials.

"You see, gentlemen, there was no one in the house when Sharon was shot to death. Makes it rather more puzzling, doesn't it?"

It proved to be an uneventful night. The police had made no further progress when Dale came down to breakfast at nine. It was the first opportunity he had to explain his presence to Mrs. Sharon. She was quite sweet about it and thanked him for his interest and expressed the wish that he might be able to end the mystery surrounding her husband's death. He was, furthermore, welcome to remain as long as he desired.

After breakfast Dale strolled out through the gardens at the front of the lodge. He had been watching and knew he would run into Lloyd Warren there. He wanted to see Warren alone.

"You were quite clever last night," the lawyer admitted when they met in the garden. "You would make a good lawyer."

"You were a rather poor one last night," said Dale, good-naturedly. "You should have known your story about being in the house wouldn't stand up."

"We must consider others than ourselves," he said vaguely.

"I have a feeling Mrs. Nash considered that, too . . . she probably knows it was Mrs. Sharon and you she heard in the garden."

"Don't you think you'd better let well enough alone?"

"She may even know that you were on the lake Saturday night!"

"You're going a bit far with your crazy guesses!"

"Not entirely crazy. Warren . . . see here," he took something from his wallet. "Mrs. Sharon's brand of cigarets. I took the trouble to find out. I found this stub on the little island. Certainly she wouldn't have gone with you in broad daylight, and just as certainly not after the discovery of the murder."

A deadly gleam rose in Warren's deep-set eyes. His fists tensed and for a moment Dale imagined himself meeting the attack. But he only blurted forth, in hoarse, guttural tones:

"Look out you don't learn too much!"

With that he turned on his heel and walked off toward the house. Dale meandered about the garden a few minutes and then also went in. He knocked at Kenneth Nash's door. There was a rustling sound inside, and then silence. Dale smiled, for he had seen Mrs. Nash downstairs. After a moment the key turned in the lock and Nash stood across the threshold. The room behind him was empty.

"I've come to make a little request, Mr. Nash." Nash bowed Dale into the room.

"By the way, Mr. Nash, do your trust Warren?"

"He was Jack's lawyer, not mine! That's all I can say."

"Thanks. Well, that isn't really why I came. It's about young Knight. I think I can guarantee that all the money he took will be returned if you do not prosecute him. . . . I suppose that would rest with you now, or must I speak to Mrs. Sharon?"

"No, I can decide that . . . the business is left in my care."

"What about young Knight?"

"It doesn't really seem to make any difference . . . the police apparently have him dead to rights; the stealing is of minor importance."

"Somehow I believe the lad is innocent. If such proves the case, will you drop the other affair?"

"I don't think I'm taking much chance in saying yes . . . somehow I believe they'll find him guilty."

"Thanks, Mr. Nash. How are Jack Sharon's business affairs, all in good order?"

"Never been better . . . it's shameful that this had to happen because we were just on the verge of a couple of big things."

Dale did not remain much longer. He went downstairs and into the little library in the rear of the house. He found Alan Knight going over the papers of the dead man, the current letters and documents which Sharon brought along over the week-end.

"Alan, I'm anxious to know just how you managed to—to take the money from Sharon," Dale said after he sat down beside Alan.

It wasn't difficult. He left everything to me. He'd buy big blocks of stocks, sometimes two or three at a time, and leave signed checks. I'd fill them in three, four or five thousand over the required amount and make entries to cover. He'd never see the stock for I'd keep it in a safe-deposit vault."

"Sooner or later it would come out."

"Well, I took that chance. See here, there was a note due at the Harvester National Bank yesterday. The slip shows it was for fifty thousand. I made out this check for sixty thousand, figuring he wouldn't remember the amount—there were notes due a couple of times a week. Anyway, he balked on that one, I gave it to him Saturday afternoon to sign, but he grew suspicious. Let the bank worry about it, now. Funny, I received no notice from them."

"They usually let you know when you're late paying a note, eh?"

"They never fail! Usually send a messenger with the bad news. Here goes this much evidence." Alan deliberately tore the check for the over amount into pieces and set a match to the bits.

Later in the morning Robin Dale went to the cabin again and spent almost an hour making a careful inspection of the place. He found nothing that he had not observed on his first visit. He walked to the edge of the sandy stretch of beach again and gazed for a long time at the tell-tale footprints, as though they fascinated him.

Nothing of importance happened until the following morning at breakfast, when Alan Knight came rushing into the house saying that he saw a body floating out in the center of the lake.

It was found to be Edith Nash, with hands and feet bound . . . drowned.

Davis and Hitchcock Fly to Visit DuPont

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and Frank H. Hitchcock, publisher of the Tucson, Ariz., Citizen, made an airplane flight yesterday from Washington to Cambridge, Md., where they called on former Senator DuPont, of Delaware, who is recuperating at his summer home from a recent illness.

Davis and Hitchcock, who was postmaster general in the Taft administration and is a former chairman of the Republican National Committee, are friends of the Senator.

Ship Sailing Delayed By Death of Woman

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ferdinand Richtberg, 58, Philadelphia, was fatally stricken on the deck of the liner Stuttgart two minutes before the scheduled sailing time. She died in Post Graduate Hospital without regaining consciousness. She and her husband were to have sailed for Germany. Her death delayed the sailing of the ship about 15 minutes.

Church Bells Ring As Drouth Is Broken

POTTSVILLE, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Ringing of church bells and wild scenes of rejoicing in farm communities today greeted rain which was falling throughout this region, breaking the drought which has persisted for 63 days. Forest fires in the region, which have threatened several small towns were halted, while wilted crops took on a new lease of life.

Police Pick Camden For 1931 Meeting

READING, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Camden, N. J., was selected as the 1931 convention city for the fifteenth annual national session of the Fraternal Order of Police. Joseph J. Fennie, Lackawanna, N. Y.; Harry E. Bowman, Reading, and John J. Steiner, New Castle, were elected trustees for the ensuing year.

Truthful Advertising!

Because we are but human, we, the DONAHOE Organization, have never claimed to be "absolutely reliable," but we do have a few good points—we do claim, positively and emphatically, that we have never published an untrue advertisement; we have never tried to mislead the public for our own financial profit; we have never tried to pull a "fast one" and then have to hedge, to hem and haw and quibble, and to retract by specious explanations in a changed advertisement the following day; we have never dragged ad writers, typesetters, printers, etc., out of bed at midnight to change an advertisement because the statements therein were exposed as manifestly untrue and misleading.

Developments in the past two days again show our advertisements in the Tuesday papers to have been absolutely true in every particular.

Read The Statements Of America's Leaders:

President Hoover:

"The situation is one to cause a great deal of concern, but it must be borne in mind that the drought has mainly affected animal food, the bulk of direct human food production in the country being abundantly in hand."

Calvin Coolidge:

"There is yet no prospect of general food shortage or distress. This is a large country. When it is dry in one part there is moisture in other parts. Seed time and harvest time have never yet failed us."

Secretary Hyde:

"There is no reason for any jump in food costs, as a bountiful supply is on hand. The only crop shortage is in cattle feed. Housewives should not encourage higher prices by hoarding now."

"No Reason For Jump In Food Prices —BOUNTIFUL Supply On Hand!

Housewives Should Not Encourage Higher Prices By Hoarding"

We didn't write the headlines just above, they are the statement of the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture to President Hoover, as quoted in yesterday's papers.

Unscrupulous dealers may urge you to buy—to unload old stocks at high prices—but they will only be taking an undue advantage of you. Prices will remain low.

More Canned Fruits Than Ever Before!

California has the greatest peach crop in its history. Hawaii's pineapple crop is 25% greater than last year's. The pack of peas is greater than the average for the past 5 years. Damage done by drought in some sections is more than offset by greatly increased crops in other sections.

COURT BOOSTER FOUND IN PAY OF LEAGUE

Harvard Advocate of U. S. Entry Given $600 Month For Service at Geneva

By KENNETH CLARK.
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Aug. 15.—Prof. Manley O. Hudson, of Harvard University, one of the leading propagandists for American entry into the permanent court of international justice of the League of Nations, is on the payroll of the league, it was revealed.

Prof. Hudson's salary from the League is 3,000 Swiss francs (about $600) a month during the summer months, and he also receives his passage money to Geneva from the League.

SERVES 10 YEARS

Prof. Hudson's salary from the of international law at Harvard during the college term, is attached to the League of Nations as a legal adviser, and has offices in the League Building. He explained today:

"I have been working for the League for the last 10 summers."

Outside his official League work, Hudson is a member of the American committee in Geneva of the New York League of Nations Association. This organization propagandizes for American entry not only into the so-called League Court but also in the League itself.

WHEELER STILL FOE

At the recent session of the Geneva Institute of International Relations, fostered by the League of Nations Association (New York), Prof. Hudson delivered an address on "The Administration of International Justice," in which he extolled the League's permanent court.

Senators Wheeler, (Dem.) of Montana, and Barkley, (Dem.) of Kentucky, now in Moscow, were among the Americans who attended sessions of the institute. Senator Wheeler left Geneva still an enemy of American membership in the League of Nations.

SEES ECONOMIC PERIL IN WAR

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Another great war would be an economic blunder of the first magnitude, according to Prof. Edwin F. Gay, of Harvard, speaking before the Institute of Politics. He declared:

"The economic pressures already existing will doubtless be increased during a long price decline. Since war would be a fatal blunder, only intensifying to the point of impossibility the process of experimentation in finding any possible solution to the fundamental ill, the economic pressures must not lead to war, but to international economic co-operation."

The professor declared co-operation between the United States and European countries will come along economic lines long before it will develop along political issues, saying:

"Europe forgets that the circumstances surrounding our political conception and the creation of the United States makes us the most nationalistic of all nations. It is to be understood then why the United States does not take to participation in European affairs too readily."

Two Men Rescued As Yacht Burns

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Two men were rescued from the waters of Chesapeake Bay after the 54-foot yacht Doris C., which cost $25,000, burned to the water's edge and sank off Gibson's Island. The owner, W. Edwin Grouch, and J. A. Cox were picked up by fishermen. An explosion preceded the fire.

Farmer Asks Heart Balm of Neighbor

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Neighboring farmers became involved in a court action as David Thompson was named defendant in a $20,000 alienation of affections suit by Albert Huff. Huff charged Thompson alienated the affections of Mrs. Huff.

BLAME DRY LAW FOR INCREASE IN DOPE EVIL

Denied One Stimulant, People Turn to Another, Uniform Law Conference Hears

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Walter C. Clephane, of Washington, told the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform Laws that some investigators blame prohibition for the 100 per cent increase in the number of narcotic addicts during the past three years.

"The opinion of these investigators," he said, "is that if people cannot get one kind of stimulant, they will turn to another. Personally, I do not know, but I do know that this tremendous increase in the number of users of habit-forming drugs is a fact."

BLAMES LIVING SPEED

Clephane is a member of a committee attempting to work out a model state narcotic act for ultimate recommendation to the Legislatures of individual states.

Increase in the speed of living was blamed by John P. Deering, of Saco, Me., chairman of the committee, for the spread of the narcotic evil. He gave as another factor the overproduction of drugs, especially in China and Egypt.

STATE ACTS NEEDED

While the conference seemed agreed that state narcotic acts were necessary to supplement government supervision, it was decided to defer action pending further consultation with federal authorities.

A uniform firearms act which would prohibit possession of weapons by criminals and mental defectives, was approved.

HIRING OF DRY SPIES SCORED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Employment of "disreputable persons as stool pigeons and informers" by federal prohibition agents of the District of Columbia was condemned in a report made public by a sub-committee of the Washington Board of Trade.

The report, prepared for the Law Enforcement Commission appointed by President Hoover, said in part:

"Since the enactment of the Eighteenth amendment, certain lawless conduct of law enforcement officers of the federal government has prevailed in this district. One of the most dangerous practices was the employment of disreputable persons as stool pigeons and informers for the making of cases.

"The condition became so notorious that several of the informers were indicted for perjury, and in other instances cases were called for trial and the informers were found to be in jail, having been convicted of other crimes."

Convicted of Killing Gas Station Owner

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—A verdict of murder in the first degree with recommendation of mercy was returned last night against Forrest Reynolds, 24, for the slaying of Ole Sexton, Guyandotte filling station operator.

Sexton was shot by a bandit who entered the filling station last Christmas Eve. Reynolds offered an alibi defense.

Baby Girl Drowned In Barrel of Water

Heavy Rain Comes Too Late for Crops

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 15.—A 14-hour rain which fell in practically every section of Greene County brought considerable relief to residents of this section. The rain, however, is believed too late to be of any aid in saving farm and garden crops of the county.

ENFORCEMENT TEST URGED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—A proposal that the Department of Justice be given every facility it desires in its prohibition enforcement work was made by Representative La Guardia, Rep., of New York, one of the leaders of the House anti-dry bloc.

If the department failed to accomplish strict enforcement within about 18 months, he said, it should make a report concerning the futility of prohibition or recommending definite steps to enforce the law. He continued:

"The department is entitled to get everything asked for in this last attempt to enforce the law. If they fail, I think the country should expect from them a fair, frank statement that it can't be done, or what is needed to enforce it against the will of a majority of the people in many states and quite a large percentage in other states."

MAN ARRESTED AS BIGAMIST

HAMMONTON, N. J., Aug. 15 (AP)—Jack McKelvey, 24, was arrested on charges of bigamy after authorities had hunted him for two months through the Middle West and South.

McKelvey, according to police, married Miss Ann Thomas, 18, Cleveland, on June 21.

The bride's mother, Mrs. James Thomas, asked police to investigate McKelvey. It was found, they said, that under the name of John Moskarakis he had married Miss Elizabeth Gates, in Philadelphia, on April 8, and that Philadelphia police held a warrant for his arrest, charging desertion.

Shoots Stepfather In Family Fight

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 15—(AP)—Stanley Grubowski, 21, shot and wounded his stepfather, Joseph Zukowski, in the shoulder during a struggle for a revolver, after Grubowski said, he had interfered when he found Zukowski beating his mother. Grubowski, one of nine children, was arrested.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating, many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach has been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 15c and 25c a bottle, any druggist.

Milk of Magnesia has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

FRAUD CHARGED TO EX-PIRATE

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15—(AP)—Jack O'Connor, former Pittsburgh catcher and at one time manager of the St. Louis Browns, and James V. Glancy, a garage manager, were held under $5,000 bonds on charges of obtaining money under false pretenses.

O'Connor and Glancy were arrested after O'Connor, police charged, had accepted $200 from William Knirhim, 52, a Valparaiso, Ind., insurance agent, to fix a charge of driving while intoxicated. The case now is pending against Knirhim.

O'Connor admitted to police he had taken the money but said it was a joke. Glancy denied any part in the case. Both furnished bond.

LOAN FOR OIL RIGHTS DENIED

SANTANDER, Spain, Aug. 15 (AP)—Premier Berenguer, summering here, characterized as "pure invention" a report published in the Madrid Bourse that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was negotiating a $100,000,000 loan to Spain in return for the oil monopoly. He said:

"This is the first I have heard about it officially or otherwise."

New Stomach Formula Astounds Stomach Sufferers

Amazing New Formula Stops Acid, Soothes Inflamed Stomach Lining And Helps Digestion

"I am writing this short letter of my own volition," says Mr. J. F. McCarthy, of 7 Danube St., Dorchester, Mass., "as I cannot help saying how good Aridine is. I had been troubled with an acid stomach for 10 years. Now, after using two boxes of Aridine I feel okay. I am certainly enthusiastic about your product, and I ask you to use this letter so that stomach sufferers may benefit by my relief."

Mrs. Alice L. Tebbetts of 554 Waltham St., Lexington, Mass., says, "For years and years I had suffered stomach and bowel trouble. I have taken Aridine regularly for about two months and it has given me relief that all the other medicines I had taken could not. It is wonderful to be free from constipation, and bloating of the stomach and bowels."

And every word they say is true because this new formula stops the excess acidity and helps digest the starches and proteins which make you suffer from sour stomach, gas pains, belching, heartburn and the resulting depression, nervousness, sleeplessness and colds. Without the normal "alkaline reserve" you are sure to suffer from these troubles. Nothing will help you like Aridine. Nothing will make the excess acid neutral so quickly and keep it neutral so long even far down into the intestines, where excess acid causes pain and inflammation.

A well known physician says: "I am convinced that Aridine is an antacid of the first rank. For those who are troubled with gas on the stomach, heavy lumps after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Aridine." No formula for acidity surpasses Aridine. If it fails to clear up your distress, it won't cost you a penny. The Aridine people say to all druggists, "Refund at once and without a question all money paid for Aridine, if the customer is displeased with results." Instantaneous action, pleasant taste, a more satisfactory remedy than you dreamed possible. Your druggist will recommend it.

KONJOLA ENDS RHEUMATISM AND OTHER AILMENTS

Pittsburgh Lady Eager to Praise New Medicine for Wonderful Relief From Painful Ailments.

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place." Time after time, in one form or another, this statement has been made by grateful men and women of all ages who have found prompt and lasting relief from ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Scientifically compounded from 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of well-known medicinal roots and herbs, Konjola attacks the very source of the ailment, sweeps impurities from the system and stimulates the ailing organs. Taken regularly over a six to eight-week period, this master medicine has made a record that would challenge belief were the actual facts not known and verified. Read the experience of Mrs. Olive Gold, 45 Henderson Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, then see the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and hear all the story. Here is Mrs. Gold's experience in her own words:

"I suffered for a long time with nervous indigestion. My general condition was badly rundown and I did not rest at night. I had little or no appetite and often went for days with little or no food. Rheumatism centered in my arms and back and the pains were frightful. There were times when I could not raise my arms. Food fermented in my stomach and the accumulated gas caused bloating and pains that sometimes seemed unbearable.

"Three bottles of Konjola brought about an amazing change in my condition. I no longer bloated after meals and the pains from gas passed away. I slept well at night and my nerves were calm. The pains from rheumatism grew less and less until they finally disappeared. I recommended Konjola to my son, who took it with the same wonderful results. I will always be a booster for this great medicine."

And so it goes—the same glad story whenever this great medicine is given a chance to make good.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

CONSUL SHOOTS SELF, MAY DIE

OPORTO, Portugal, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Adhemar de Mello, Brazilian consul, lay at death's door in a hospital here today after an attempt at suicide in a strange and dramatic setting. He probably will not live.

The staff of his hotel said that early last evening a smartly dressed, beautiful blonde woman, unknown to them, called and saw the consul in his room.

After she left, Dr. de Mello sent two letters to be mailed and ordered a glass of port wine. Then, apparently as an after-thought, he sent for Ricardo Sequi, Argentine consul, and his intimate friend, who said he saw de Mello crumple from a shot fired apparently by a gun hidden in his pocket.

ROBBER SOUGHT IN GEM THEFT

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Arthur Barry, notorious jewel robber, was sought by police in still another gem theft today. He is believed to have had a hand in the robbery of jewelry valued at $14,000 belonging to Mrs. James D. Williams, wife of a motion picture producer.

The jewels were stolen from a room in a New York hotel.

The Williams robbery followed closely the theft of jewelry valued at more than $25,000 from Mrs. Robert T. Stone, wife of a New York broker. It was stolen from Mrs. Stone's room in a Long Island hotel.

A third gem theft was reported today by Harry V. Maxwell, New York advertising man, who said jewels worth more than $5,000 were taken from his wife's room at their summer home in Spring Lake, N. J., Tuesday night.

Police also searched today for jewel bandits who escaped after robbing the store of Kieva Yasnor, Brooklyn.

REDS THREATEN NANKING

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Loot-hungry Chinese Communists, part of the band which pillaged and burned Changsha, later surrounded the city of Kanchow, bent on further terrorism and destruction.

American and foreign missionaries stationed at Kanchow, second largest city of Kiangsi province, prepared for an immediate evacuation if the Reds succeed in entering.

Meanwhile, the Nanking government was further weakened by approach of Communist bands to within 15 miles of the Nationalist capital.

Malady Fatal to 3 Laid to Swimming

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—With three boys dead from spinal meningitis, and three others ill of the disease, two municipal swimming pools were under suspicion today and the Department of Health was speeding its efforts to examine all public bathhouses. The dead boys, believed to have contracted the disease while swimming, were Thomas Stapleson, 9; William Hofelder, 10, and Edward Jaroszewski, 13. Hofelder died last night.

Residents Flee City As Cholera Spreads

TEHERAN, Persia, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Reports from Kandahar say that the entire population has evacuated the city because of a cholera epidemic which is raging in Aghanistan. The disease is said to be spreading daily in Kabul, the capital.

Pittsburgh Boy Dies of Burns

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Robert Egizie, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Egizie, Pittsburgh, died of burns he suffered yesterday when he fell into a tub of scalding water. The Egizie family is visiting relatives here.

Hold Rites in Paris For Michigan Pastor

PARIS, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Funeral services will be held at the American Cathedral Thursday for the Rev. William P. Pearce, 63, of Albion, Mich., who died suddenly Tuesday at a Paris Hotel. Burial will be at Albion.

Maze of Passages Leads Agents to Big Brewery

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(INS.)—Prohibition agents today continued to search out corridors and secret passages in a huge warehouse building which they seized yesterday as the biggest brewery uncovered in New York since prohibition. A camouflaged door led raiding agents into a maze of passages, they said, finally disclosing taps from which beer ran and ten tanks with a capacity of 5,000 barrels each.

WAR MOTHER RECOVERING

PARIS, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Harriet Bates, of Portage, Pa., Gold Star Mother who died yesterday following a cerebral hemorrhage at the Hotel Nouvel, in Verdun, was on its way to Paris this afternoon with an escort of honor.

Army officers in charge of the American mother's pilgrimage will await instructions from her husband before making funeral arrangements.

The condition of Mrs. Elizabeth Gast, of Chickasaw, O., another mother reported seriously ill and in the American Hospital, was somewhat improved today.

Mrs. Lizzie Schafman, of New Brighton, Minn., and Mrs. Anna Schmitt, of Pittsburgh, Pa., both in the American Hospital for more than a week, will be sent together tomorrow to the Meuse-Argonne Cemetery, on their battlefield visit.

Without the knowledge one of their party had died, the other mothers today went excursioning on the River Seine.

Inventor Tests Plane With Flexible Wings

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(AP)—An airplane with flexible wings, hinged to the fuselage and operated by air drums, is being demonstrated by the inventor, Waldo Waterman, who claims special safety features for his device.

Waterman, who has been flying since 1909, once was associated with the late Glenn H. Curtiss.

2 SLAYERS PAY WITH LIVES

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 15.—(AP)—W. H. (Bill) Howell, 64-year-old triple slayer, was electrocuted at the State Penitentiary here this morning.

Howell, in whose behalf a long legal battle had been waged, was strapped in the electric chair at 1:05 a. m. Four minutes later he was pronounced dead.

He met his fate calmly.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Robert Lee Wilkins was hanged in the penitentiary here today for the murder of John W. Brooks, Walla Walla attorney, the night of December 9, 1928.

Try U. S. Agents In Liquor Plot

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The government began presenting evidence today in the trial of Roy C. Lyle, former prohibition director, and four federal officers, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. Lyle, Earl Corwin, William M. Whitney, R. L. Bryant and Clifford T. McKinney, former United States attorney, were charged with dealing with liquor smuggling gangs.

Point Barrow Waits Food Ship's Arrival

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 15.—(AP)—As heavy ice grinds menacingly on the beach, Point Barrow hopefully awaits the arrival today of the antiquated windjammer Holmes from Seattle, with fresh supplies.

The shortage of staples has been acute among the natives for months. The reserves of the whites also are running low.

Czechs May Invade U. S. Shoe Market

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Further invasion of the American shoe market, and the possible establishment of trade reporting offices in Pennsylvania and New Jersey by Czecho-Slovakia seemed apparent in a report on that industry received today by the Department of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioners Sam E. Woods, at Prague. An export syndicate comprising 36 firms has been formed, Woods asserted, which later on probably will open offices in the United States.

2 P. R. R. Scholarship Awards Made Today

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—[illegible] John P. Young, 16, of Oak Park, Ill., and Leroy B. Drummond, Jr., 16, of Glendale, Pa., have been awarded two Pennsylvania Railroad Memorial College Scholarships each worth $800 annually, according to announcement made today by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The scholarships, eight in all, [illegible] the income of a trust fund established in 1907 by the children of Frank Thompson, a former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in memory of their father.

Three Mothers Agree
When mother is tired, nervous or ill the whole home is upset. For her family's sake, every mother wants to be well and strong. These three women tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to care for their families.

Mrs. H. Dolhonde, 6318 York St., New Orleans, Louisiana
"Before my last baby was born, I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got such good results that I named her Catherine Lydia. I have six older children and five grandchildren, too. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again because of my age. I eat and sleep better and I do all my housework, and my washing. I will do my best to answer letters."

Mrs. Harold Goodnow, 36 Cane St., Fitchburg, Massachusetts
"I cannot praise your medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any mother has those tired feelings I advise her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing, 115 So. Ohio St., Anaheim, California
"After my baby came I was so nervous and tired that I felt miserable. One day a booklet was left at our door and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my fourth bottle and I feel much stronger. It has helped me in every way and I feel sure that other women in rundown condition will pick up if they will only take a few bottles."

8 plies under the Tread

Here is EXTRA SAFETY!

FOR the high powered, high speed cars of today, with needed quick starts and stops, you should have this extra protection. Just look at the inside of this Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty Tire. There are eight plies of cords under the all Non-Skid, Center Traction Tread. It is a big—tough—strong tire—a construction that insures against punctures and blowouts.

Come In and See for Yourself!

We have cut up various brands of tires, so that you can see the inside construction. Come in and make these comparisons, section for section, and you will readily see the superiority of Firestone.

We sell and service the complete line of Firestone Tires, Tubes, Batteries, Rims, Brake Lining and Accessories, and actually give you greater values.

DOUBLE GUARANTEE

Every tire Firestone makes bears the name "FIRESTONE", and every tire we sell carries the Firestone Unlimited Guarantee and ours. You are doubly protected—absolutely assured every dollar you spend buys real quality and satisfaction. We guarantee that you will get all the miles out of your tires that have been built in by Firestone.

The Firestone Anchor Super Heavy Duty Balloon has a double cord breaker—8 plies under the tread. Some other makes have no breaker at all and some a single breaker made with old-fashioned, square woven fabric that Firestone discarded when they developed the balloon tire.

SAFETY . . . Everyone Should Have
PRICES . . . Everyone Can Afford to Pay

WE HAVE JOINED with Firestone's Cooperative Plan to give you lower prices and plus values by reducing operating costs, and with volume business on a small margin of profit we are able to make you these substantial savings.

Mystery Surrounds Shooting of Four

REVERE, Mass., Aug. 15 (AP)—Haunts of Boston's gamblers were being searched today for an explanation of the shooting of four men in the Revere Veterans Associates' Building early today.

The victims, two of whom are in a critical condition at a hospital, refused to shed any light on the case. The little back room in which the shooting occured was strewn with playing cards.

Galician Villages Menaced by Wolves

LUGO, Spain, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Several Galician villages have been terrorized by wolves attacking flocks in the last few days. The villagers have appealed to the government for assistance. The wolves attacked and nearly killed a shepherd, Antonia Serrano.

GOSSIP ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM LIFE; NEW FILM REVIEW

Norma Shearer to Appear In Another Film Story By Ursula Parrott

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD Aug 15

Two more stories by Ursula Parrott author of "Ex Wife," will be made into talkies by Metro Goldwyn Mayer.

The studio has owned "Strangers May Kiss" for some time now and they have just purchased the writer's latest book "Gentleman's Fate." It's a book story and that's all I can find out about it.

Norma Shearer

GETTING IDEAS

George Bancroft whom we always liked as an actor seems to be getting that way. He proclaimed to a friend recently:

"The country has gone Bancroft!"

CHANGED NOW

Today I passed by Rudolph Valentino's former bungalow at the Paramount studio. It's used as a headquarters for fan mail.

STORY FOR GRETA

There's thrilling talk of Greta Garbo making a talkie based on the life of Sappho, the famed poetess of ancient days. So far it's only talk, but the idea is occupying the attention of some important people, and may yet find its way into celluloid.

Greta Garbo

Great is so aloof as ever. She lives in Beverly Hills instead of at the beach where the gay film group congregates these days. Recently a fan magazine wanted a photograph of her home. The studio usually eager to supply home photos regretfully bowed out. By dint of detective work the magazine secured the star's address but had to send a cameraman to Pasadena to get the picture.

GONE HOLLYWOOD

One of the guests at the R-K-O studio will be Chief Bald Eagle of the Blackfeet Indians. The Director viewed [illegible] of Eddie Cantor's "Whoopee" and signed him for a role in "Cimarron."

Signed BACON RIND

COLLEEN LONESOME

Colleen Moore is looking for someone to go to Europe with. She and Dolores Del Rio had intended to make the trip together but Dolores decided to get married instead.

IN "THE CRISIS"

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer remakes "The Crisis" as a talkie Johnny Mack Brown is to play the lead.

This is Winston Churchill's novel of the Civil War that was done as a silent picture years ago. At that time Al Green just chosen a film cast's poll as the best director of last year was assistant and played a part in the picture. Marshall Neilan also acted in this one.

In the Clouds

Richard Barthelmess sails to heroic heights in "The Dawn Patrol," war drama of the air which comes to the Enright today.

Rumanian Wreck's Toll Increases to 11

SECELEA, Rumania, Aug. 15 (AP)—The number of persons killed in a head-on collision of two express trains had risen today to 11 as bodies were pulled from the wreckage. Seventeen were severely injured.

The victims were principally women and children going to or leaving the country's principal watering place at Constanza.

Mother Badly Hurt Rescuing Daughter

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 15 — Mrs. Lucia Carbonella, 40, Republic, snatched her small daughter from the path of a speeding automobile but received injuries which may result in her death. The child was uninjured.

COMES EDDIE CANTOR TO MAKE WHOOPEE IN THE STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Comes Eddie Cantor to the Stanley stage. And does he make whoopee. He wears a tall tan suit and a bright yellow tie. On his head is a derby hat tan to match. He sings three songs and spouts a lot of chatter and jokes about Hollywood. He lets you in on the secret that Warner Brothers are going to merge with a bunch of midgets and produce "Alice in Wonderland." And he promises to give us all this.

Chris Bowers gets an awful verbal spanking from Eddie. But all in fun, and the audience sees it that way. This scrapper has a great big hand for him and applauds him back after the spotlight is off and on.

Ginger Morgan is present for a second week as mistress of ceremonies. A great exponent of the walk-a-way is Mr. Morgan. He parades back and forth the length of the stage a dozen or so times. And each time he has something different on parade with him: a spittoon, a coffee pot, a telephone, a bird cage, a cat, a dog and so forth. And they all fit into the Morgan complex for comedy and almost everyone appears pleased.

CHORUS IS ABSENT

The presentation is confined to the orchestra pit and to a stage shortened by a drop there being no effort at elaborate scenery and no dancing chorus.

Jack Oakie book comic of the movies is on the screen in a talkie, "The Sap From Syracuse." The goofy Oakie appearance and the goofy Oakie talk create a lot of laughs. There isn't much more to the film.

Much of the action takes place aboard an ocean liner enroute to Europe. Some of it takes place in a spot very moroccque that is supposed to be somewhere in Macedonia.

JACK OAKIE IS LOONEY

The story chiefly concerns Littleton Looney who finds himself mistaken for a great engineer, a builder of canals. Oakie makes Mr. Looney as "looney" as possible. When the heroine asks him if he is traveling incognito he replies "no first class."

The heroine by the way is portrayed by a cute little miss, Ginger Rogers.

Bernie Armstrong is present with another organologue. Mr. Armstrong also has a part in the stage presentation being a sort of man Friday to Mr. Morgan M. C.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Peggy said it started with dull aches . . . I always thought you got a fierce stitch in your right side . . . But, no . . . It seems you can have it from dull pains too . . . Gee, I don't want to have to stop . . . I want to keep going . . . I would be so miserable in a hospital . . . It would frighten me . . . I would think things . . . I would think about the people who maybe died in the same room . . . That would drive me nuts . . . I'd jump out the window, first, I know I would . . . No, I wouldn't. I'm too yellow . . . Junie says she would sleep in the same room by me, so I wouldn't be afraid . . . But I would be afraid! . . . I never was sick in my life, so why should they start to try and knock me down now? . . . I'm scared of surgeon's knives . . . The knives they stick in you when you're not looking, on Broadway, aren't so dangerous . . . You can't get peritonitis from the Broadway stilettos . . . Only heartaches, perhaps . . . You forget heartaches, though . . . You always forget pain in time . . . But I mustn't get sick and I won't get sick . . . I mustn't, that's all! . . . And, anyhow, they said I mustn't. Because they've spent so much on publicity and promotion, and the out-of-town papers might not like it.

His name is Harry, she said, and he reads me daily . . . She doesn't want me to mention his other name . . . "I don't want to hurt him," she faltered . . . It was 2:35 in the morning when she finally got me . . . She had been phoning since yesterday and she was crying . . . I could hear her trying to stifle her sobs, poor thing . . . He left her a note . . . Things were too tough—he couldn't pay the bills . . . So he stranded her . . . That's an easy way out . . . His mother is plenty sick from the worry . . . But what does he care? . . . He couldn't pay the bills so he blew . . . Brave guy, him . . . Thinking of himself . . . Sure, he'll connect somewhere . . . and with the dough he'll be able to live good . . . Fine guy . . . "We always were so happy," she choked. "He did it because he was despondent" . . . It couldn't be another woman, she felt sure . . . Too bad about him . . . Despondent, is he? . . . What about her and his mother? . . . Who's gonna take care of them? . . . Maybe if you wrote something," she said, "he'd see it and know."

Wonder if Daddy Browning wears a corset? . . . His waist is so shapely, now . . . I feel so sorry for that Mr. Mayer . . . For years he sat with her on the aisle in Row A . . . Never missed a First-Night . . . He must miss her so . . . He still buys two seats and the other remains empty . . . He probably visions her sitting there . . . It must be terrible to lose someone dear to you . . . God forbid . . . So that was Lillian Lorraine . . . Wonder why she kept walking up and down between acts with her head bowed so low? . . . Didn't want them to recognize her, I suppose . . . Never saw her before . . . They say she was so pretty . . . Wish I could bust that story . . . Never heard of such a thing—on Broadway . . . When he got into that jam I wondered if the girls he thousand-dollar'd would give him a break . . . Jean Ackerman has been sending him plenty . . . And Rene Black, the Central Park Casino maitre d'hotel, ditto . . . They wouldn't believe it if I turned it into the city desk, so the hell with it.

Junie says she is receiving newspaper clippings . . . From anonymous sources . . . S'funny . . . Me, too . . . The same story—about the gal who drowned herself the other day . . . Who, a half hour before doing it, told friends: "I'm in love with a professional man. A married man. His wife and children are returning from the Pacific Coast, so there is nothing to live for" . . . So it must be Winchell! . . . He is a professional man! . . . And didn't his wife and kids just come back from a Hollywood holiday? . . . Let's send the clipping to his wife and give her something to worry about. She's having it too good, anyhow . . . Ah, the legends that are built up about you . . . After you have attracted some attention . . . If you're not this, you're that . . . Didn't Kelcey Allen start the report that my father was a stage-door tender at an uptown theater? . . . "Nice boy, that Winchell. He lets his father be a stage-door keeper. Some son!" . . . When the silk store next to the stage door is my father's! . . . And my father likes to sit there and gab . . . Gossips are terrible people, at that.

When that story busts it will shock a terrific audience! . . . His neglect and other abuses, flaunting the other woman in her face, have driven her to booze . . . She never took a drink in her life, they say . . . I can't picture her getting drunk, at all . . . She represented all the lovely qualities in a woman in the movies . . . They'll despise him . . . She'll hog all the sympathy . . . What a contrast to the bum who called me a rotter the other night . . . I'm a rotter, eh? . . . And she's what? . . . She pets with almost every guy in town, except her husband, and I'm a rotter . . . I probably am, but I won't take it coming from her . . . Scared stiff, that's what she was . . . Afraid I would print that she was nanny-hooting it again . . . The sap . . . Never realizing that you can't print such things when they are married to someone else! . . . She's afraid of me, but not of her alleged friends, before whom she does her little act in the joints . . . They have more circulation than I have . . . "There are things which one must have the courage not to write."

Well, I'm a flop when it comes to giving advice . . . That Cleveland nurse still wants to see Broadway after all I told her, too . . . No letter ever aroused the mob the way hers did . . . What's the matter with you, anyway?" I columned in reply. "Haven't they night clubs in Cleveland?" . . . "Sure, we have night clubs," she writes, "but the night life here demands a prize that is as big as what Broadway asks—and for a second-rate show!" . . . She wants Broadway, phonies and all . . . Anything to shatter the monotony, she says . . . Anything to find out if we are different . . . So she quotes Pope: "Pretty—in amber to observe the forms of hairs or straws, or dirt, or grubs or worms! The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare, but wonder how the devil they got there." She wants to live, she says . . . Nobody lives on Broadway.

Here it is five to eight and I'm dead for sleep . . . Most of the town is riding in subways going to work . . . Or looking for it . . . Or getting up or something . . . The day's worries and problems are commencing for over six million people, and my yesterday's problems haven't been solved yet . . . The kids are probably bathed and ready for the beach . . . When I was a little boy I played on a beach . . . The mob that week-ended at Atlantic City said they saw Walda running up and down like an Indian . . . And that she only wore trunks and no top . . . I wish I could see her that way . . . I never saw her that way . . . Gee, I'd like to see Walda that way . . . Maybe if I told everybody where they could go to—then I could get on a train and see Walda running up and down like an Indian without any top on . . . I see those Club Abbey gals every night without any tops on . . . But what's that? . . . Copy, merely copy . . . Copy, however, that turns into paragraphs . . . Paragraphs that turn into columns and columns that turn into gold . . . Gold, pretty gold—to turn the wolves away from Walda's and Walter's door.

WIFE'S ALIMONY PLEA DENIED

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court has dismissed a suit of Mrs. Eda Turner Willson for a decree of separation from her husband, James C. Willson, millionaire aviation financier, on the ground that he is a resident of Louisville, Ky., and the New York courts have no jurisdiction over him.

The court also denied Mrs. Willson's application for $4,000 a month alimony and liberal counsel fees. She asked separation on the ground that her husband deserted her here last June 17.

Mrs. Willson estimated her husband's fortune at from 10 to 20 millions.

BURIES SELF, ENDS LIFE

OTTAWA BEACH, Mich., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Half buried in a rough grave he apparently had dug himself, the body of John L. Dean, 22, student at the Michigan Institute of Mining and Technology at Houghton, was found on top of a hill near here.

The body was buried from the waist down and there was a bullet wound in the head. A revolver lay nearby. Coroner Gilbert Vandewater returned a verdict of suicide, expressing the opinion the student had, in effect, dug his own grave and buried himself the best he could before taking his life.

Dean had been camping here. He had been in bad health.

Banker Disarms Thug by Power Of Suggestion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—C. Wendall Shoemaker, cashier of the Potomac Savings Bank, is a firm believer in the power of suggestion.

Shoemaker found an armed and masked man bending over the bank janitor in the basement. The cashier was unarmed but he suggested the intruder hand over his guns. The man, Leroy Cooper, Negro, obligingly gave him two revolvers. Shoemaker untied the janitor.

The police are holding Cooper for investigation.

DEPUTY IN LINE FOR LUCAS JOB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—David Burnett, deputy internal revenue commissioner, is the leading candidate for the post of commissioner of internal revenue and his early appointment by President Hoover is predicted.

The commissionership becomes vacant when Robert H. Lucas, of Kentucky, retires to assume his new post as executive director of the Republican National Committee. Lucas is preparing to take over his new duties immediately.

Burnett is a native of West Virginia but entered the government service as a resident of Ohio.

WOMAN FREED IN KILLING

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Olive S. Allen was acquitted by a jury of a charge of murder in connection with the mysterious death of Anthony B. King, secretary of the local Elks lodge, July 14.

The jury deliberated 55 minutes.

Mrs. Allen's own unsworn statement was her only defense. She admitted she was with King in his private quarters at the clubhouse late on the night he was killed, and that she fought with him then after a quarrel. She maintained, however, that he took her home.

Mrs. King found her husband unconscious on the floor of the clubhouse apartment when she went in search of him, she said.

Shellfish Form Profitable Addition to Diet

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
United States Senator From New York

They contain many necessary balances besides being tasty but care must be taken to see they are fresh.

Fish and shellfish always form a profitable addition to the diet. It is true there is an occasional person who possesses some peculiarity that makes it impossible to eat them.

Many peoples in the past have subsisted on such foods as their sole source of protein. Today of course they are used mostly to supplement other foods.

With shell fish such as oysters and clams we eat the entire animal except the shell. Within them are certain organs from which we derive valuable vitamins not found in muscle meats.

All of the shellfish are excellent food. Oysters resemble other forms of fish and meat in composition except that they may contain amounts of carbohydrates. Sherman has shown that the ash of the oyster ranks above meat and below milk in lime content, that it contains in fair amounts the other mineral elements which we need for growth.

All fish and shellfish deteriorate rapidly so that the quicker they are eaten after being taken from the water the better they are as food. It is important to keep them on ice until ready to cook or to be prepared for serving.

Lobsters, clams, crabs and shrimps are similar to oysters in food value. From recently discovered richness of fish oils in Vitamin D fish and shellfish have been given a distinctive place in the diet. The same is true of the liberal amounts of iodine present in them since iodine has been found of great value in the treatment and prevention of goitre.

Oysters and lean fish rank with poultry and lean beef in the ease with which they are digested and time taken in leaving the stomach of the normal person. Lobsters, crabs and fat fish are similar to other fat meats, such as pork or goose.

Fish that come from clear, cold waters are the best. Seafood is food and a tonic combined. Is anything finer than lobster or crabs taken fresh from the water? Of course there are always some person who cannot digest them and lobster seems to be particularly prohibitive for some.

Shellfish and fish sometimes lead to putrefactive disturbances in the intestines. It is not good to eat excessive amounts of meat or fish or shellfish of any sort. But twice a week is not too often to include them in the diet.

There is a decided tendency on the part of the public to include for protein food in the diet more milk and small amounts of meat and fish. This is a good thing. Each has its rightful place in the diet and happy is the person who makes use of them all in proper measure.

SUNDAY'S DINNER.
Assorted Relishes.
Veal Rolls.
Baked Tomatoes Stuffed with Rice.
Creamed Broccoli.
Sliced Cucumber Salad.
Watermelon Sherbert.
Nut Cookies. Coffee.

Veal belongs in the category of meats which requires high seasoning and skillful culinary preparation to bring out the true flavor and taste. I have the word of a very excellent Italian cook that there is no more delicious way of serving veal than in the form of small stuffed meat rolls. She calls this favorite recipe Polpetti, and prepares it as follows:

A pound to a pound and a half veal cutlets are trimmed and flattened with the broad blade of a knife. Cut the cutlets into strips about four inches wide.

Now, to prepare the filling. Minced cooked meat, sausage or minced chicken may be used. Mix 1 cup of the meat or chicken with 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon greated cheese, ¼ cup bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon chopped onion, and salt and pepper. One tablespoon pistachio nuts is customarily added to the filling. Moisten with just enough stock to hold the filling together.

Spread the stuffing over each strip of veal. Roll each piece firmly and skewer or tie it together so that the filling remains intact during the cooking.

Melt 3 to 4 tablespoons butter or fat in a frying pan. Place the rolls in side by side, and let them cook gently until they are well browned. Turn them over when necessary. When ready to serve, pour the butter and meat juice over the rolls.

I know you'll find the watermelon sherbet a cooling, refreshing dessert. The preparation is simple. Soak half an envelope gelatin in ¼ cup cold water for five minutes. Make a syrup by boiling 4 cups hot water with 2 cups sugar for one minute. Add the soaked gelatin and 1 cup orange juice. Strain, chill and freeze partly. Add 2 cups diced watermelon and chill for one hour before serving.

Here is a recipe for Watermelon Rind Preserves. Peel the rind of a watermelon that is not too ripe, cut or chop into half-inch cubes or strips, leaving as much of the firm red pulp on the rind as possible.

To 4 cups of diced or sliced melon, take 3 cups of sugar, 3 lemons sliced fine and seeded. Let boil slowly about 2 hours until the juice is a thick syrup. Place in airtight jars and keep in a dry, cool place.

I think you'll like this recipe for a frozen fruit salad. It is one of my favorites. The ingredients are 1 orange, 1 banana, ¾ cup white grapes, 2 slices canned pineapple, 1 cup fruit salad dressing, 1 cup cream, whipped, 12 maraschino cherries.

Free the orange from the skin and rind. Cut the pineapple into small pieces and halve the cherries. Peel and seed the grapes. Whip cream and combine with salad dressing. Add fruits, and banana, sliced thin. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze. Serve in cubes on lettuce leaves.

And here is my pet recipe for Fruit Salad Dressing — 2 eggs yolks, 2 tablespoons sugar, juice of 2 lemons, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ cup strained honey, ½ cup cream, whipped.

Mix flour and sugar, add honey and cook in a double boiler 10 minutes. Add the lemon juice and beaten egg yolks slowly and cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Chill. Add whipped cream just before serving.

RASPBERRY TAPIOCA—Crush a pint of raspberries, sweeten them to taste and let stand about ½ hour.

In the top of a double boiler, cook the following ingredients for 15 minutes, stirring frequently: 3 cups hot water, ½ cup quick-cooking tapioca, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon butter and ¼ teaspoon salt. Remove from the heat.

Stir in the berries mixed with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Chill thoroughly and serve in sherbet glasses lined with lady fingers. Garnish with whole raspberries.

Now separate 5 eggs, beating the whites until stiff. Stir 2 tablespoons milk into the beaten yolks of the eggs, and season with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Lastly, fold in the egg whites. Cook the omelet slowly in a medium-sized frying pan, lifting the egg occasionally from the bottom of the pan. When slightly browned on the bottom, pour half of the stewed tomatoes over the egg and sprinkle with ½ cup grated cheese. Place in the oven

DAILY ROUGHAGE IS AN ESSENTIAL IN ANY DIET

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Effective Relief for Constipation. Also Adds Iron to the Blood

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "vest pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original—and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires.

In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed. Your money will be returned if you are not satisfied. Be sure to include it in reducing diets as a preventive for both constipation and anemia.

There are so many ways you can eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and enjoy it. In any form, it is appetizing. It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals and soups and notice the added flavor. Many people soak it in fruit juices. Excellent in cooked foods. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. It is served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Ask for it! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

until the cheese melts. Fold over and serve on a hot platter garnished with the remaining tomatoes and sprigs of parsley.

FIVE O'CLOCK RUSKS—Two and a half cups special cake flour, sifted; 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt; ¾ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, or other shortening, 1 egg, well beaten; ⅔ cup milk or water (about.)

Sift flour once measure, add baking powder, salt, spices and brown sugar, and sift together 3 times. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and liquid. Add liquid gradually until soft dough is formed. Turn on floured board. Cut in one-inch pieces. Shape into balls. Place together in well-greased, shallow pan. Brush with milk, sprinkle with additional brown sugar. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees fahrenheit) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes two dozen small rusks.

BOILED PEPPERS—Buy some fleshy green peppers, wash and dry them and boil them on an open fire, turning them quickly. Then wash them, removing all the charred skin. Cut them up, allow them to cool and serve with an olive oil dressing which contains a pinch of garlic. Try it some time with toasted and buttered rye bread!

GOLDEN CAKE—Four cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder; 1 cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 5 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, 1½ cups milk, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Sift the flour once, then measure, add the baking powder and sift together 3 times. Then cream the butter thoroughly, add the sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Then add the egg yolks, then the flour, alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Then add the lemon extract and fold in the egg whites. Bake in 4 greased 9-inch layer cake pans in a moderate oven—350 degrees F.—for 25 minutes. Spread a frosting between the layers and on the top and sides.

BREAD CRUMB AND HONEY PUDDING—Mix ½ cup strained honey with 6 ounces bread crumbs. Add ½ cup rich milk, ½ teaspoon ginger, 2 beaten egg yolks and the grated zest of ½ lemon. When thoroughly mixed add 2 tablespoons butter and fold in 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. Steam 2 hours in a buttered pudding mold.

FRESH STRAWBERRY TARTS—One quart strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons sugar, pinch salt, 3 egg yolks, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 6 baked tart shells, ½ cup cream.

Select sound well ripened berries. Wash, then hull. Add sugar and let stand one hour in the refrigerator. Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt thoroughly. Combine well with the beaten yolks. Add the warm milk, stirring vigorously to blend. Cook in the tops of a double boilers, stirring constantly until thickened. About 15 minutes cooking is necessary. Remove from fire and add vanilla. This custard should be very smooth and delicate. Cool, then pour into baked tart shells until about 1-3 full. Arrange berries over top of custard, about 1-3 of berries should be left. Crush remaining berries and add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Have the ½ cup of cream heated in the top of a double boiler. Whip cream until stiff. Fold in the crushed berries. When ready to serve tarts, top each with the whipped cream.

FRESH CORN CHOWDER—Dice 6 slices bacon and cook in frying pan until the fat is extracted. Add 3 tablespoons minced green pepper. Cook slowly until tender. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour, and gradually add 1 pint hot milk, stirring constantly. Allow it to come to a boil, then add 2 cups cooked fresh corn cut from the cob. Heat thoroughly and season to taste.

SEEDLESS-GRAPE JELLY—Wash and pick over just ripe seedless grapes, place 4 quarts of them in a preserving kettle, add a cupful of water and cook slowly until soft. Pour into a jelly bag, and drain and measure into a preserving kettle, add 2 cups of sugar for each 2 cups of juice. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, boil up once, and pour into glasses and cool. If the grapes are too ripe they will not jell.

* * *

FRENCH APPLE PIE—Line a deep pie dish with a good short pastry, and bake in a hot oven, until brown. Peel, core, and cut in quarters, 12 medium-sized tart apples, place them in a sauce pan with 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 teaspoon of grated lemon rind, and ½ teaspoon of cinnamon. Let simmer slowly until the apples have been reduced to a thick, smooth paste. Remove from the fire and add the stiffly beaten whites of the 2 eggs, pour into a baked pie shell, and cover with browned bread crumbs that have been fried in butter, or buttered graham cracker crumbs, or grapenuts crumbled fine.

MILE-HIGH ICING—One tablespoonful of gelatine, 3 tablespoonfuls of cold water, 1½ cupfuls of sugar, ½ cupful of boiling water, the whites of 2 eggs, 4 tablespoonfuls of sugar, 1 teaspoonful of vanilla. Soak the gelatine in the cold water, boil the sugar and water until it will spin a thread, add to the gelatine and pour over the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, to which has been added the 4 tablespoonfuls of sugar, beat until quite stiff, add the vanilla, and lift the mixture up and down until it has cooled.

CUCUMBER ASPIC RING—Three medium sized cucumbers, 2 small onions, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 3 cups boiling water, 1½ teaspoons granulated gelatin, green coloring.

Pare and slice cucumbers. Peel and chop onions. Combine, add salt, pepper and boiling water, and boil until cucumbers are tender. The water may need to be replenished. In the meantime, soften the gelatin in 2 tablespoons of cold water. Press cucumbers and onions through a potato ricer or a coarse sieve. There should be three cupfuls of puree. Reheat the puree, add the gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add green coloring, keeping color pale. Pour into a cold ring mold that has just been rinsed in cold water. Slices of cucumber may be placed in the bottom of the mold, or the whole mold may be lined with them. Set in refrigerator a few hours. When ready to serve, turn onto a cold platter. Fill center with salad and garnish with cress or lettuce. Serve at once.

VEAL LOAF—Put 2 pounds of shoulder veal, freed from skin and membrane through the food chopper with ½ pound salt pork. Add ½ cup bread crumbs, two teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons of tomato catsup and 1 minced onion browned in a little fat. Beat one egg slightly and combine with the other ingredients.

Put in a loaf pan and put in a slow oven.

If you wish to serve the meat loaf hot at a picnic, do not remove it from the pan when it is cooked, but wrap the entire pan and loaf in a clean napkin then in several thicknesses of wrapping paper or newspapers.

SWEET AND SOUR PICKLES—Select 24 even-sized ripe cucumbers, slice about ¼ of an inch thick and pack them in layers in an earthenware dish, and sprinkle between the layers fine salt. In the morning drain off the brine and wipe the cucumbers dry. Remove the heads from 36 whole cloves and place in a bag with 3 tablespoonfuls of mustard seeds, 3 blades of mace and a 2-inch stick of cinnamon. Tie the bag and place in a kettle with 6 pounds of sugar and 2 quarts of vinegar. Bring to a boil, skim, add the cucumber slices and cook until the cucumbers are clear but not soft. Pack in hot sterilized jars, cover with the syrup, seal tight and place in a cool, dark place.

BISCUITS—Sift 3 cupfuls of sifted flour with ½ teaspoonful of salt, 1 tablespoonful of sugar and powder. Chop into it with a pastry cutter 5 level teaspoonfuls of butter or shortening, then stir into it 1¼ cupfuls of milk. Mix very lightly to a soft dough. Flour a board, pat the biscuits out, roll them lightly, cut with a floured cutter and bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, about 10 minutes. If you wish them glazed brush the tops with an egg yolk that has been beaten and diluted with a tablespoonful of cold water.

Water Billing Machine Expected to Spur City Collections

OPPOSE RENAMING SAWMILL RUN ROAD

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

We have a report to make on Rudy Vallee's four-day visit, which was not a whacking success. Neither was it a failure. Mr. Conforti, of Conforti and Tucci, who operate the Willows, confirmed general gossip that Vallee didn't do much business for the Oakmont roadhouse. Mr. Conforti said that business was fair but that Vallee himself was a bit disappointed, having played to bigger crowds in other towns. However, Conforti explained to Vallee that the Willows, charging $4 cover per person and appealing to a class trade, didn't expect to draw as many customers as Vallee has drawn in big public dance halls elsewher. Conforti believes that the price kept many potential customers away, but he adds that quite a few people who could afford such prices are absent on vacations. Vallee's guarantee, we understand (not from Conforti) was in the neighborhood of $6,500 for three nights. Never before has a band been paid such money in Pittsburgh. What Vallee was paid for the fourth night, for which he was held over, we don't know, but we would guess that he made a slight concession. We understand he was anxious to play the fourth night here to facilitate his national broadcast, which went over the ether from Pittsburgh.

Conforti said that Vallee was a pleasant, hard-working young man, anxious to cooperate. Wednesday night, when he drew his biggest crowd, Vallee worked 80 minutes without a rest.

We asked Conforti whether the fair females had caused any commotion over the 1930 Adonis. He answered that generally they hadn't, but that Rudy had to call a halt to autographing the pictures of himself which the Willows distributed at the tables. Quite a few of the women asked the proprietors to arrange dances with Rudy. And Rudy showed himself to be a smart showman, in this direction, if in no other, by acquiescing.

Vallee lived at the William Penn Hotel and required four bellhops to tote his bags to his room. A half-hour after he arrived a very wide, substantial woman of 30 telephoned him a half-dozen times from the lobby, but just couldn't reach the boy.

If Vallee showed bad judgment at any time it was at the luncheon given him by a local newspaper. Perhaps it was oversight that he did not even allude to his host in his speech, which was broadcast. Certainly he showed remarkable memory in lauding the downtown restaurant which, as Rudy pointed out, generously gives its customers all the cream they want for coffee. . . . Ah, well, we may be, just like a million other males, jealous of the creature.

In the few words of commendation we had recently for the ingenious, if unidentified, person who named it pineapple-upside-down cake, we were wrong in our recipe. For background purposes we explained that pineapple-upside-down was a simple thing to make—just insert the pineapple into the cake, and there you are! But we were wrong, and one of our feminine admirers (yes, yes, yes!) corrects us. She explains that the dough is poured onto the pineapple and allowed to bake. To all the housewives who have been using our recipe: A humble apology and a promise to print no more recipes.

YOSEMITE, Cal., Aug. 15.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Hoover wasn't able to look over the national parks, so I am pinch-hitting for him. When you get into this wonderful valley you haven't got any time to be reading the papers to see what foolishness Herbert, or Calvin, or Ford, or Lindbergh is doing. It's all right to go to New York and see what Chrysler and Al Smith have built, but the old boy that laid out this place must have died and took the plans with him. There ought to be a law against anybody going to Europe till they have seen the things we have in this country. The fish all expressed their regret that Mr. Hoover wasn't coming. Yours,

WILL.

WATER BILLING MACHINE SPUR TO PAYING

New Device to Print Notice Of Unpaid Accounts With Each Quarterly Statement

With the announcement of City Controller James P. Kerr that he had ordered a new $2,000 machine to automatically issue and calculate bills for water rentals, a new city bureau today appeared to be in the offing.

The bureau, centered in the controller's office, will be known as the bureau of receipts for water rents, but actually will serve as a "bureau of duns," Kerr said.

As soon as the labor-saving machine is installed this duty of issuing quarterly statements to consumers will be taken over from the bureau of water assessors.

NOTIFY DELINQUENTS

Not only will the new statements carry a notice of current rents due, but they will also every three months notify delinquents of unpaid bills, Kerr said. Under the present system back water rents are in the hands of the delinquent tax collector. Under the old system, Kerr said, consumers ran up bills of two years duration without receiving notice they were overdue.

As soon as the Bureau of Receipts is installed in the controller's office the task of issuing tax statements and fee notices of the city will be taken over.

PREDICTS ECONOMIES

Economies will be the natural result of the new system, Kerr believes, in that a merger of existing agencies now assigned to this work will cause possible payroll reductions.

A similar system was inspected this week by Kerr, President John S. Herron of City Council; Councilman W. Y. English and Assistant City Clerk Edward Lindsay in Detroit.

RECOUNT FILED ON 2 BOXES

The special recount board which has been wrestling with 62 ballot boxes from the May primary election for nearly three months, yesterday filed reports on two boxes.

Minor discrepancies in the count of the boxes from the Twelfth District, Twenty-second Ward, and the Tenth District, Sixth Ward, were reported.

The board started to work May 27. Since August 1 no reports were filed until yesterday. Two more boxes were brought in by the sheriff yesterday from the Seventh and Thirty-seventh districts of the Nineteenth Ward.

At the sheriff's office it was said that the boxes were brought in on court orders signed by Judge James R. Macfarlane some time ago.

Suspect in Shooting of Policeman Held

Charles Cyprych, 23, of 1918 Larkins way, was held for court charged with carrying concealed weapons and felonious shooting, by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in South Side Police Station today. He is alleged to have shot Patrolman Thomas Kornbauer, 32, of 1906 Larkins way, three times in a drunken brawl on the steps of the officer's home July 26. Kornbauer had been in the South Side Hospital until several days ago and Cyprych had been in jail.

Regain 71 Autos Stolen in Week

Seventy-one of 83 automobiles reported stolen in Pittsburgh for the week ending August 9 were recovered, according to the report of the automobile division of the City Detective Bureau. Four alleged auto thieves were arrested.

McKeesport Woman Sues Over Injury

Her ankle broken by tripping over a water curb box in Shaw avenue, McKeesport, Mrs. Mary E. Wise, of McKeesport, has sued the City of McKeesport for $15,000.

10,000 VIEW VETS' PARADE IN FRANKLIN

Colorful Pageant Features Old Home Week Program; Floats Depict History

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 15.—Veterans of all wars, auxiliary organizations and historic floats were in the line of parade here late yesterday that marked the climax of Franklin's old home week celebration.

Ten thousand visitors, including 1,000 former residents, viewed the procession.

PATRIOTIC BODIES MARCH

Veterans of the Civil War and the Daughters of the American Revolution rode in automobiles. Members of the American Legion, Spanish War veterans, units of the 117th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard and several women's organizations marched on foot, to martial tunes by five military and civilian bands.

Gen. George C. Rickards, former chief of the United States Militia Bureau, was marshal of the day.

The floats depicted the history of Franklin from the days of the Indians, through colonial times down to the present.

Approximately 800 children took part in the Elks' pageant for children yesterday. Dressed in fancy and ludicrous costumes, they joined in a procession from the south end of town to the city park, where a committee of judges awarded prizes. In the parks they frolicked after the parade, ice cream cones, candy and favors being distributed among them, following which they took part in a program of athletic events.

EX-RESIDENTS RETURN

More than 800 former residents of the town have returned for the reunion, according to registration figures. B. A. Brennan, one of the most prominent visitors, boasts that he postponed a trip to Europe in order to come back to his old home town. Mr. Brennan, a retired industrialist and banker, makes his home in Beverly Hills, where he enjoys among other things, sunshine the year round and Will Rogers' neighborly visits from time to time when the Rogers and the Brennans are at home. And he is just as proud of his neighbors as he is of his old home town, he says.

What a time.

Another interesting sidelight of the reunion is the return of C. W. Roemer, of Plumer, Pa. Mr. Roemer arrived in town on Sunday, his birthday, and picture his surprise when led to the very spot on which his old home stood. When taken to registration headquarters, he enthused:

"Why, right here on this very spot I was born and over there in the city park is where we pastured our cows. And look right over there on 13 and Otter streets, where the Anderson furniture store now stands, is where we had our garden. 'What a change' — 'what a change.'—what a time."

Pair Wait at Garage, Take Man's Watch

When James Marshall, 42, of 22 Monaca place, went to his garage in the rear of his home this morning, he was confronted by two armed Negroes. The men warned him against an outcry and stole his watch. He had no money with him, he told police.

LEADERS ASK OLD TITLE BE KEPT

Discarding of Historic Designations to Honor Political Chiefs Scored

A storm of opposition today was expected to break over the heads of those advocating change of the historic name Sawmill Run boulevard to Liberty boulevard. Leading Pittsburghers have taken up the gauntlet in favor of retaining the old name, linked as it is with associations dating as far back as the time of George Washington.

Three authorities on Pittsburgh's history and leaders in the city's civic life were among the first to register vigorous protest to the change when questioned by the Sun-Telegraph today. Particularly emphatic was Mrs. Carroll Miller, one of the leaders of the Democratic Party in the Pittsburgh district, who said:

"We have let go a great many historic names and put in their places names of politicians not worth remembering."

TWO OTHERS JOIN

W. H. Stevenson, president of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, and Mrs. Biddle Arthurs, former chapter regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, joined with Mrs. Miller in urging that the road continue to be called Saw Mill Run boulevard.

Those advocating the change argue that the resurfaced, widened road is really a continuation of the Liberty tubes and Liberty bridge, and should bear their name.

OPPOSE CHANGES

MRS. CARROLL MILLER:

"I am opposed to changing the old historical names of streets and roads. We have let go a great many historical names and put in their places names of politicians.

"Take Oliver avenue, for instance. When the French built Fort Duquesne, the road then led up to the vicinity of Grant street, to the first cemetery in Pittsburgh. Wishing to honor the Virgin Mary, they called it Virgin way. When Virgin way was widened and refinished, the Olivers were a strong local political power, so they changed its name to one which will mean nothing whatsoever to future generations."

"Another instance is Highland avenue. It was named after an early surveyor named Hiland. But our early politicians forgot this and spelled it 'Highland,' removing all meaning from the name."

W. H. STEVENSON:

"On general principle the old names of communities and streets in Pittsburgh should remain. Otherwise the historic identity will be lost. Little originality or imagination is shown in the selection of new names and often they are meaningless and commonplace. Look through the telephone book and note the number of repetitions of the word Liberty."

MRS. BIDDLE ARTHURS:

"I think it's a shame to change all these old names. I would strongly oppose such a move. The name 'Liberty' means nothing at all in connection with the history of the town."

CAFETERIA GETS 10 DAYS MORE

An order has been made by Judge Robert M. Gibson of the United States District Court permitting P. O. Eitel, receiver for the Phoenix Cafeteria Company, to operate that concern for another 10 days.

It was explained to the court that reorganization plans are in progress. The restaurant is situated in the basement of the Roosevelt Hotel. It is desired to continue the business of the Phoenix concern until a new lease can be obtained from the hotel owners.

The concern has liabilities of around $250,000, with assets of more than $100,000. According to counsel for the receiver, there is every prospect of the restaurant company being able to bring about the desired reorganization.

Beaten by Robbers, Goes to Hospital

Beaten by three highwaymen who stopped him at Anderson street and River avenue, North Side, early today, Earl Bennett, 30, of 2078 Pioneer avenue, was robbed of $9 and a valuable ring, he reported to police. Bennett said the three leaped upon him when he passed a vacant lot and knocked him unconscious. He is in the Allegheny General Hospital with bruises and possible rib fractures.

Natrona Woman Dies After Taking Poison

Poison which she is said to have swallowed in her home with suicidal intent, today caused the death of Mrs. Elmer Lannay, 45, of 37 Center street, Natrona, in the Allegheny Valley Hospital. According to the report of the coroner, the woman left a note in which she said she "wanted to die."

FIVE ARRESTED IN DRY RAIDS

Prohibition agents in four raids yesterday seized three stills and large quantities of moonshine and arrested five persons, including two women.

The largest seizure, 700 gallons of whisky and 15 cases of home brew, was made, agents said, in the home of Fred Roth, 42, of 838 North Canal street. Roth was held in bond.

In the home of Mrs. Pula Noll, 48, Evergreen road, Ross Township, a 50-gallon still was reported found. She was released on her own recognizance.

Another 50-gallon still was discovered in a dwelling in School street, Greentree, where Sadie Casto, 30, and Harry Daher, 30, were arrested, it was reported. The Casto woman was released on her own recognizance, and Daher was held in bond.

A raid on the home of Joe McKiblen, Reel avenue, Ross Township, yielded the federal raiders a 10-gallon still, they said. The agents released McKiblen on his own recognizance.

Man Hit by Auto, Police Hold Driver

Struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Twelfth street last night, Walter A. Eiseman, 52, of 240 Forty-sixth street, was taken to the West Penn Hospital. Frank Ivory, 18, of 309 George street, Greensburg, Pa., alleged driver of the car, was arrested, police reported.

Today, in the Mt. Washington postoffice, the case was either lost or stolen.

Watt, in uniform, was sending a money order. He isn't certain whether he left his billfold on the counter or returned it to his pocket after sending the order. He said two women were standing nearby.

SECOND FUME VICTIM DIES

Lawrence Hanna, 20, of Franklin, died last night in the Citizens General Hospital at New Kensington, the second victim of fumes from the burning slate dump of the Consumers Mining Company, at Harmarville, according to the coroner's report.

Hanna was found unconscious near the dump early yesterday. Near him lay the body of Robert E. E. Kelly, of Templeton, whose death also resulted from the inhalation of the fumes, deputy coroners said. The victims evidently had prepared to camp on the dump.

Orders Sale of Cars Police Impounded

Judge Harry H. Rowand, in Common Pleas Court today, signed an order permitting the Keystone Auto Repair, Chateau street, to sell 41 automobiles that have been impounded by police. The cars have been in the garage six months, the petition stated, and have not been claimed by their owners. September 10 was named as the date of sale.

CHARGE 2 BROKE U. S. PAROLES

Two bench warrants were issued by Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson for alleged parole violators charged with dry law offenses.

The persons involved are Agnes Kos, of Wesleyville, arrested September 24, 1929, paroled for two years, and rearrested July 17 at Wesleyville on a charge of possessing 528 bottles of beer and one and a half gallons of whisky, and Harry Watkins, arrested July 12, for possessing whisky and homebrew.

Watkins was arrested last February and paroled for two years. He was arrested recently in Westmoreland County and held to await the action of the August grand jury.

Girl Hurt in Auto Files $20,000 Suit

Adelaid Gruber, and her father, Samuel Gruber, 22, Oakland square, have filed suit for $20,000 damages in Common Pleas Court against Nathan Port, of 513 North St. Clair street. Miss Gruber was riding in an automobile driven by Port March 20 when it collided with another car in Center avenue.

It is set forth that the girl suffered injuries to her right leg and side, and the suit blames the accident on alleged negligence by the defendant.

Boys Seek Quoit-Tossing Endurance Record

With tree sitters and bicycle riders vieing with one another in various sections of the country, four West End boys last night embarked on an endurance contest of tossing quoits in a lot on Warden street, near McGann's corner, West End. The game started at 10 p. m., and will continue without interruption until further notice.

Contestants are Dallas Cella, 17; Daniel Martino, 16; Joseph Swaney, 16, and James Capogreca, 14.

Scouts to Hunt 'Treasure' At Guyasuta Camp

A treasure hunt, the fifth event in the program of the Summertime Activities Committee, will be held on the Guyasuta Reservation tomorrow. Hundreds of Boy Scouts from Allegheny County Council will take part. The program, under direction of William H. McNaugher, chairman of the committee, will consist of searching for prizes, a camp fire and dinner, followed by overnight camping.

Joseph Meyer

J. H. Bradfute is chairman of the hunt committee and other members are Joseph Meyers, O. H. Burchfield, Jr., Francis C. Foote and Joseph Brunton, Jr.

The scouts will assemble at 3 p. m. and register, starting out on the trails at 4. Dozens of prizes will be hidden along various trails leading from the reservation. Wally Sarraf will act as master of ceremonies at the camp fire and Joseph Meyers will entertain the boys with stories of Indian lore.

The final event on the summer program will take place Thursday, August 28, at Forbes Field, when the scouts of Western Pennsylvania will be guests of Barney Dreyfuss and the Pittsburgh Pirates at a double-header with the Cincinnati Reds.

First-Aid Mine Safety Show, On Program for Tonight; 15,000 See Procession

More than 100 fire companies yesterday took part in the parade which marked one of the highlights of the annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association, which convened Monday at Glendale.

The parade formed in Heidelberg and proceeded through the business sections of Glendale and Carnegie, and thence to the camp grounds.

The parade was featured by bands and bugle and drum corps. The procession, more than a mile long, was viewed by more than 15,000 people along the line of march.

Today's program will consist of truck races, both for speed and hill-climbing. This program will take most of the day, and the evening feature will be a first-aid demonstration by a mine safety appliance concern.

PUBLIC WARNED AGAINST RUSH TO PURCHASE

Heavy Buying Would Force Prices up to Prevent Sell-Out, Dealers Say

There is no danger of profiteering in foodstuffs this fall and winter, provided the public does not bring on a sudden buying panic by laying in canned goods now for winter use, according to managers of prominent wholesale food stores in Pittsburgh.

Greatly increased buying by the public now, they say, would have a tendency to force food dealers to raise prices to check a sell-out and shortage later; if they continue to buy, in spite of all warnings, it is said that a shortage cannot be avoided.

NO SHORTAGE IMMINENT

The only shortage now in sight, according to C. L. Jones, manager of the D. C. Shaw wholesale grocery, is in tomato products and corn goods. Prices here may go up a cent a can, he says. Hoarding for the winter by the public would drive the price higher, however.

Urging that the public be warned against buying in unnecessary quantities, W. H. Nichol, manager of Allen Kirkpatrick Company, wholesale grocers, says that some advances are justified, cannot be called profiteering.

He says:

"There is no prospect of being able to obtain more canned corn from the packers for about two months. There is plenty on hand to last us, but we will probably have to raise prices to keep the public from buying our shelves clean.

"Retailers are now filling unusually large demands. If the public goes crazy, as it did during the war with sugar, there will be trouble with prices. But even then I can see no actual shortage in sight."

SLIGHT ADVANCE ONLY

According to W. P. Benson, of the Dilworth Company, there is no evidence of an actual shortage of canned goods in this territory. There may be a slight advance in prices because of the packers' and farmers' increased expense with a low crop on hand when they had prepared for a large crop. The price raise, he says, will be so slight as to be hardly felt by the public. Benson says, however, that established, high principled packers and wholesalers will hold prices down in the interest of public good will.

Meat packers are reporting to the Live Stock Exchange of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics here that they have capacity stocks of meat in their warehouses, with meat on the hoof selling for low prices. Prices will be reasonable throughout the winter, it is said.

FLAT TIRE ENDS BICYCLE GRIND

The Hazelwood team of bicycle endurance riders was forced out of competition this morning by tire trouble, after 162 hours of continuous pedaling.

John Lannis, 15, of 20 Tecumseh street; his brother, Roxy, 13; James Tallatto, 15, of 2 Higden street, and Mike Kukic, 15, of 429 South Elizabeth street, started riding at noon, August 10, around a vacant field at the corner of Lytle and Tecumseh streets. Wednesday, Mike, after completing his four-hour run, was bitten by a neighbor's police dog, and withdrew.

The relay riders of Morningside, Al Slutzky, Danny Auslander, and Irwin Pittler were steadily going forward toward the record they have set for themselves. Their tenth day of pedaling brought no new developments.

Brushton's tree sitters, Robert, James and Lawrence Gravely, and their cousin, Samuel King, were still perched in the two trees in the rear of 631 Sickles street, after 742 hours off the ground.

FOREMAN QUITS AFTER 50 YEARS

Completing 50 years' continuous service with the Pennsylvania Railroad, William Johns, foreman, M. of W. department, in charge of track territory west of Haws Crossing, Johnstown, Pa., was today presented with a gold service badge of honor by Superintendent F. L. Dobson, at a special meeting in Pittsburgh.

Superintendent Dobson congratulated Foreman Johns on his long and faithful service. Johns was born in Ninevah, Pa., November 11, 1865, entered Pennsylvania Railroad service as a laborer August 1, 1880, was made assistant foreman in 1899, and foreman in 1902.

Fire Engine Pumps Water to Orchard

CARLISLE, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The Carlisle Borough Council has found a use for its fire engines in alleviating drought conditions. Late today one of the four pumpers in this borough will go to Sunny Glo farm, 17 miles west of here, to pump water from a nearby lake into an orchard in an attempt to prevent loss of the crop from drought. There are 5,000 fruit trees in the orchard.

Sues Police Officer, Claims False Arrest

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—(I N S.)—Michael J. Sulvetta, through Attorney Todd Daniels, today started suit against George McKain, policeman, claiming $3,000 damages for allegest false arrest and imprisonment.

POOLS BACK TO 600-1 PAYOFF

North Side "numbers" racketeers, whose profits have dwindled to the three-figure variety since adoption of the reduced pay-off scale, have returned to the 600-to-1 scale—with reservations.

These reservations are that numbers in which the same digit appears more than once will not be eligible for 600-to-1 pay-offs—if they hit. A player who chooses a number in which the same digit appears three times or twice will be paid only at the rate of 300-to-1. These latter classifications are known as "triplets" and "doubles."

The new system, devised by the operators to coax back those bookies and the part of the public which had deserted them since they announced the lowered scale, was in effect today.

Notwithstanding the new agreement offered by the pools, receipts today were reported still far below the average. Players and bookies alike are skeptical, and until they can mathematically compare the North Side's new offer with the unconditional 600-to-1 odds offered by other pools, they will not accept the new scale.

Other sections of the city employing the 500-to-1 payoff, in much the same predicament as their North Side brethren, are expected to return to the 600-to-1 scale.

Three alleged "numbers" bookies were arrested this morning at the Yellow Cab Garage, South Highland avenue. At a hearing later in East End Police Court, Joseph Lazara, 29, of 248 Cedarville street, was fined $100. His companions, C. H. Donatelli, of 5760 Liberty avenue, and W. C. Clay, of 198 South Euclid avenue, were mulcted $50 each.

SUSPECTS HELD IN HOLDUPS

Three men arrested last night at Greenbriar way and Howe street, suspected of barbecue-stand holdups, were held over for investigation by Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court today.

Two sets of license plates were found, police said, one on their automobile, the other inside. The latter belong to A. Reuben, 334 Stratford avenue, according to police. They are checking on ownership of the machine.

One of the three, Anthony Tremont, 30, of 238 Collins avenue, had a loaded revolver in his possession, it is alleged. The others held are James Moore, 19, of 6566 Graham place, and Charles Reynolds, 32, of 6397 Howe street.

NEW BRAKE AIDS STREET CARS

A device that is destined to revolutionize the street car industry was successfully demonstrated before leading engineers from all parts of the country at Neville Island yesterday.

The invention, conceived by J. C. McCune, of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, consists of a combination air brake and magnet that will stop a trolley car twice as fast and in one-half the distance that the present brake requires.

The traction booster, as it is termed, attached to the trucks of the car, is energized when the air brake is applied, adding weight to the car, thus creating more traction and preventing the wheels from sliding.

In actual tests at 20 miles an hour, the old system of braking requires about 100 feet to stop; the new about 40.

Prominent engineers stated that they were very much impressed by the invention. W. H. Sawyer, vice president of the Allied Engineers of New York, said:

"This is the most radical departure that has been tried in recent years. The device has worked so well that there is no question about its success."

Others leaders were just as enthusiastic about the "traction booster."

Officials of the Better Traffic Committee said today that they expected 90,000 children to take part in the annual traffic essay contest sponsored by the committee, which opens October 1.

The contest has been timed to coincide with the Safety Education Week of the nineteenth annual National Safety Congress which opens here September 28.

Camera Question Box

Henry Robins

HENRY ROBINS, salesman, Squirrel Hill — Yes I do. I think the greater part of the people in these shows have real talent. That is shown by the appreciation of their audiences.

Carl Kletz

CARL KLETZ, shop manager, East Liberty— Certainly they are artists. They wouldn't have attained the positions of prominence if they hadn't had some talent to get them there.

Miss Rosenfield

MISS ANN H. ROSENFIELD, assistant shop manager, Squirrel Hill — No I don't think they are artists at all. Their stuff is all written up for them by other people and all they have to do is to follow directions.

Miss McLalan

MISS JUANITA McLALAN, saleswoman, Shadyside — Yes I do think they can be classed as artists. Some of them are really clever and most of them have large crowds of admirers, and to get that attention requires talent.

R. Solomon

R. SOLOMON, salesman, Hill District — Well, some of them might be classed as artists. The ones on the screen are the real artists, though, — like Nancy Carroll. She's one of the best.

Martin Schugar

MARTIN SCHUGAR, assistant shop manager, Squirrel Hill — There are always a few in any group who can't be classed with the best, but I think most of these entertainers can be called artists.

RULING ON IRON RATES AWAITS OCTOBER

Shippeers Assert $750,000 Will Have Been Paid Out Before Commission Acts

The Interstate Commerce Commission, before which hearings were held Wednesday on the short haul iron and steel rate case, will not hand down a decision before the middle of Octobeer, it was learned today.

Sixty local shippers presented evidence at the hearing to show that the new rates, which the railroads put into effect May 20, placed an extra burden of more than $5,000 daily on steel companies here. The railroads changed their rates under an order of the commission.

It is understood efforts of the railroads to compromise with the shippers has failed. Compromise terms were not made public, but it is understood the railroads offered a reduction. Local shippers say that even if the commission gives a decision favorable to the shippers, the increase in rates will have cost this district approximately $750,000.

Local shippers say the commission was opposed to any compromise. The commission is said to have informed the railroads it would not consent to nor assist with the settlement in the case. This means the litigation before the commission must go to a finish.

VETS HEAR CAIN AND WOODSIDE

County Controller Robert G. Woodside and Sheriff Robert S. Cain were the principal speakers at the annual banquet of the Society of the Seventeenth United States Infantry in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Both speakers are members of the organization composed of Spanish American war veterans. BRASHEAR CAMP LACKS FUNDS

Expenditures of funds beyond the budget today was blamed for the premature closing last Saturday of the Brashear Settlement Association camp near Harmony and curtailment of activities at the settlement.

James Mills, director of the settlement, charged that lack of proper supervision by the board of directors was the cause of the excess expenditures. He said only necessary expenditures had been made.

A retrenchment program inaugurated today caused the dismissal of 11 workers at the Holt street settlement and the Bingham street personal service bureau, with volunteers assuming the curtailed activities. Mills will continue until October 1.

Citing the fact that the association received $20,000 from the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh, Allen Reynolds, treasurer, declared:

"Activities at the Claudine Virginia Trees summer camp exceeded the expenditures necessary under our operating budget. With a capacity for 35 or 40, due to the unemployment situation, we were housing more than 100. The finance committee realized the necessity of keeping within the budget several months ago and had outlined operations that could be undertaken, but this was exceeded in an effort to make the camp a success."

Pittsburgh Girls Entered In Tennis Tourney At Watch Hill

The final weeks of August are delightful ones at the many gay summer resorts along the Atlantic coast, in the mountains and in Canada. At Watch Hill, R. I., tennis is particularly popular just now.

Nancy Byers, young daughter of the J. Frederic Byerses, Mrs. J. H. Eddy and Althea Robinson, sub-deb daughter of the William Christopher Robinsons, are entered in the woman's singles tennis tournament being held this week.

Much entertaining is being done, too, at the Golf club. On Saturday the William B. Trainers entertained with a dinner dance there.

The Alan Magee Scafes are back in Watch Hill after motoring through Canada. And Richard King Mellon has returned to Pittsburgh.

Elaine Darlington, small daughter of Mrs. Harry Darlington, will appear in the annual musicale of the piano pupils of Miss Elspeth Macfarlane of New York, to take place early in September in Watch Hill.

Events Varied

After being the guests of their mother, Mrs. William R. Thompson, at Watch Hill, the Edwin Bliss Reeds of New Haven have gone to Wyoming to visit Mrs. J. C. Dilworth and Dorothea Thompson on their ranch.

William S. Moorhead is entered in the match championship tourney at the Misquamicut Golf Club this week.

Among Pittsburgh folk who have yachts in the bay this year at Watch Hill are the William Christopher Robinsons and the J. Frederic Byerses. Recently the Robinsons entertained aboard their yacht, the Solana, for 30 guests. After a cruise to Fisher's Island tea was served on board.

Later they took a party to New London, and recently sailed to Southampton to see the tennis matches.

Among their guests were the R. B. Mellons and Mrs. William B. Trainer.

Mrs. Morgan Burdette Schiller left early in the week for Baltimore, where she is the guest of her mother, Mrs. C. Howard Lloyd of Wye House, on the eastern shore.

Visit In East

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Preston Rankin, who are at Lake Placid, N. Y., have as their guest Martha Mitchell Yost, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter M. Yost, of Sewickley.

At Muskoka Lake, Canada, are the Wilson Alexander Campbells and their children, Elizabeth Campbell, Lewis Clause Campbell, Oliver W. Campbell and Wilson Campbell, Jr.

Mrs. William Zang and her daughter, Neil, will motor to Cape Cod for the remainder of the summer season.

The Wenman Armstrong Hickses, who have been on the continent for the past month, are now touring the British Isles. They'll sail August 23 for the states.

The Ralph E. Flinns have sailed for Europe on the Europa.

Miss Katherine McClaran, daughter of Rome McClaran, of Saltsburg, and Donald Campbell Sutherland, of Waterbury, Conn., a member of the faculty at Kiskiminetas Springs School, were married Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Saltsburg Presbyterian Church by the Rev. J. Stanley Harker, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white net with a veil of tulle trimmed in Brussels lace and carried white roses showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Loree McClaran, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Dorothy Warner, of Sewickley, Miss Louise Miller and Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith, of Saltsburg, were bridesmaids.

Kenneth Downey, of Waterbury, Conn., was best man, and Douglas Sutherland, brother of the bridegroom, William H. Greenway and Paul Culley, of Pittsburgh, were ushers.

Mrs. Henry Hagel, of Baltimore, and Miss Zetta Anderson, of Columbus, O., gave a musical program.

After September 10 Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland will be at home at the Kiskiminetas School.

The bride is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and the bridegroom of the University of Michigan. For several years Mr. Sutherland has been a member of the faculty as a mathematics instructor and as coach of basketball, football and baseball.

Club Women To Study State

A comprehensive program on "Pennsylvania" is outlined in the eighth year book of the Swissvale Woman's Club, which has just been issued. With the exception of the president's day reception with which the year will begin on October 13, the Christmas meeting on December 8, and the June outing, some phase of the study subject will be taken up each month at the regular session.

For the president's reception the usual schedule of music, addresses and greetings has been prepared. The history and the settlement of the state will begin the regular study in November, papers on the Indians, the Dutch, Swedes, English, Moravians, Mennonites, Dunkards, Schwenkfelders, Shakers, Economites and Scotch-Irish making up the program.

Only one paper will be given and that on "Christmas in Colonial Days" at the December meeting and among the topics to be discussed in the latter part of the season are "Historical Pennsylvania," "Pennsylvania Poets," "Old Inns and Early Transportation," "Pennsylvania Musicians," "Picturesque Pennsylvania," "Educational Opportunities in Pennsylvania," and "What Pennsylvania is Doing to Preserve Her Native Wild Flowers." Congressman Clyde Kelly and the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty are the only speakers listed for the year.

The book has been compiled by Mrs. G. A. Thompson, Mrs. C. S. Caldwell, Mrs. W. R. Stitt, Mrs. J. R. Calihan, Mrs. J. C. Forman, Mrs. O. J. Hauger, Mrs. W. O. Whitmarsh, Mrs. J. A. Ross, Mrs. G. F. Long, Mrs. Albert Oskin and Mrs. W. A. Drylie.

Appoints Workers

Anna Laura Cree, prominent member of the Tuesday Musical Club, has been named chairman of the Western Pennsylvania division for the annual Atwater-Kent audition for young singers, and has set the Pittsburgh district audition for Tuesday, September 23, at the William Penn Hotel. Mrs. Cree has appointed several other Tuesday Musical members of her active committee. Mrs. T. C. Donovan, who is president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Club, Mrs. W. C. Dierks, a past president, Mrs. David Murdock and Mrs. Charles Yon. On the honorary committee are serving Mrs. Donovan, Mrs. Dierks, Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson and Mrs. Edwin Ruud, also members of the club, and William McCutcheon, J. Fred Lissfelt and Dallmeyer Russell.

The next event scheduled at the Congress of Clubs is a musicale and reception for new members and the new board of directors on Friday, September 5. The quarterly meeting is set for October 30, and on November 17 there is to be a theater party.

The customary Christmas festival will take place December 19, the Friday before Christmas.

The usual meeting for discussion of club problems is dated for January 9, the board's card party for January 29; the annual club presidents' luncheon, February 13, affiliated club day, April 30, and the annual election, May 22.

ALL LIGHT WEIGHT WOOLENS STRONG IN FASHION FAVOR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, AUG. 15.—Enlightened women will not take their light weight woolens lightly this season, for daily the fashion strength of this most practical and sartorially useful group of fabrics is being proven. Jacket suits, ensembles and one piece frocks of light weight woolens are heavily represented in the important current collections and couturiers report an impressive number of orders being placed by clients who are foreseeing the first cool days. For the between seasons' wardrobe there is nothing that can be more highly recommended than the light weight woolen costume which is comfortable, smart and adapts itself to whimsical weather. Generally these models are of a type suitable for both town and country wear, a factor which enhances their value at a time of year when traveling to and fro becomes increasingly necessary.

MANY OF THE CONVENTIONAL woolens and the knitted fabrics have rough surfaces. Nubbed effects are frequent and knitted fabrics are even woven with looped effects that suggest our well known terry cloth. Withal, however, jersey retains its place of perennial popularity although it, too, simulates a certain roughness by tweed and pin dot patterns.

* * *

A MODEL CHARACTERISTIC of those we are seeing many of these days and one that elucidates the advantages already set forth is that sketched here today as created by Drecoll Beer. It is of blue and white mixed jersey, developed with a solid blue yoke and a blouse cut to form a bolero in the back.

A CONVINCING PROOF of the fact that the pajama costume has discovered itself in a newly beauteous expression is offered by the model from Jabe Regny. It is destined to brighten the outlook of the hostess who is preparing for a busy season of entertaining. The pajamas which are pleated all around with pleats stitched down to well below the knee where they are allowed to fall open, and the short sleeveless jacket are of dark red crepe de Chine. The jacket is interestingly tucked horizontally while the blouse of a pink, red and blue print adds further verve.

"Fine, Mr. Hoover. The old swimming hole is still there and things are going along in pretty good shape," young Meier said he informed the President.

TRAFFIC LIGHT CHECK BEGUN

Members of the Pittsburgh Motor Club today began a check-up of all electric stop-and-go traffic signal lights in the Pittsburgh district.

In a letter to Burgess Lee Donaldson, of Etna, the club asked that amber lights following red at signals on Bridge and Freeport streets at Butler street, be made to conform to the state limit of three seconds. Complaints that the yellow lights following red at the two signals in Etna last approximately 10 seconds have been received by the traffic problems committee of the club.

Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre was asked to check a signal light at Butler and Fortieth streets. The club stated that the yellow following red at this signal exceeds the maximum set down by the vehicle code.

Gross Ordered to Pay Back Wife's Quarter Million

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(Universal Service)—Christian Gross, whose Paris parties were gay social events when he was a secretary of the American embassy there, has been ordered by Supreme Court Justice Collins to return $250,000 of an $850,000 trust fund given him by his wife.

Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, daughter of a more distinguished diplomatist, Francis Burton Harrison, once governor general of the Philippines, contended she gave Gross the money to hold his love after the birth of their child. It was shared from her father's $1,500,000 estate when his love cooled in Paris after a torrid courtship in Algiers.

Gross, now secretary of the American Legation at Berne, Switzerland, was ordered to pay up when Justice Collins yesterday granted Mrs. Gross an injunction restraining her husband from further prosecution of a temporary injunction he had obtained against her.

After he had obtained a Chicago divorce, the validity of which Mrs. Gross attacked, asserting she was never served with papers, she told New York courts he had promised to return the $250,000.

Gross hotly contested her suit for that amount and promptly got the temporary injunction against its collection while he sought to have Chicago declared the proper jurisdiction for a retrial.

FATHER REGAINS TWO CHILDREN

HONESDALE, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP.)—Search for Norman and Frances Thompson, young children of Scott Thompson, Camp Highlake, Pa., ended when Thompson informed C. R. Schweizer, chief of county detectives, that the children had been returned to him.

Disappearance of the boy and girl, aged 9 and 7, was reported July 23, when Thompson told county officials his housekeeper, Irma Clark, had taken them away.

Detectives traced the woman and children to New York state and learned they had bought railroad tickets for Buffalo. The trail was lost and there was no further word until Thompson reported their safe return.

Raquel Is Introduced to Wealthy Young Man

CHAPTER XXVII

Raquel slept late the morning after Greta confided to her the incident of the lost "emerald."

Alphonse did not come down to luncheon. He sent word he was busy with sketches in his cabin.

"Guess who's on the boat," Greta said when she and Raquel were settled at luncheon. Roses had replaced the carnations in the table's center. Yellow roses with golden hearts that gave out a delicate perfume.

"That's it," complained Greta. "It's hard to sort the sheep from the goats. It's such a relief I've found one nice white woolly sheep."

"Yes," Raquel knew she was expected to show interest.

"Absolutely. At least he's a woolly sheep, though I guess he's not so very white at that. He's nobody cute, dear. But Bertie Adams."

"Bertie."

"Adams, dearie. Adams. Doesn't that mean anything to you? Adams. Polo. Baby Adding-machines."

"I'm afraid not," Raquel admitted. "You see I'm almost a stranger in New York."

"Even so, the name Adams ought to get a rise out of you. Why it's nation-wide, like Ford or Morgan or Rockefeller. Say, dearie, where have you been all your life, unconscious?"

Society's Bad Boy

"I've been more or less cut off from things sort of what you might say buried. She must not mention Hermosa to Greta. It might not be safe.

"Then it's time you snapped out of it and showed some signs of being among those present," declared Greta. "Bertie Adams is society's bad boy. His folks gave him a gold spoon to cut his teeth on, but he threw it away and howled for a cocktail-shaker. Good egg, though, when he's sober."

"And that is?"

"Not any oftener than he can help. He's a good looker. Meant for a collar ad, but somebody made a mistake and wished him on an adding-machine makes. He's seen you, dearie, and you've knocked him cuckoo. He's got to meet you."

"I don't know. We'll speak to Monsieur Alphonse."

"What? And crab the party? You don't tell Frenchy everything, do you, just because he's blotto about you? What he don't know won't hurt him."

Raquel's blue-white teeth gleaming in the scarlet bow of her mouth. Her black eyes wide with the flares lighting in them. Greta had gone too far. She realized it.

"Don't pay any attention to me, old dear," she said uneasily. "My bark's a lot worse than my bite. Bertie Adams got to drooling about you, and I told him nothing doing. So he offered to give me a ticket to the best jeweler in the Rue de la Paix for anything I wanted to pick out if I'd fix it so he could meet you."

Raquel's anger was gone. It was useless to be angry with a girl like Greta. She was not deliberately mean. Just incorrigible.

"He'd do that, for an introduction to me?" exclaimed Raquel, incredulously. "Let you pick what you want?"

"Sure. Up to a certain point, of course. He'll tip the jewelers off to a limit—you can bet you're silk socks on that. But it'll be a fat limit. Bertie's no dime savings bank. Why should he be? He's got all the dimes now that Rockefeller missed."

Meet Bertie Adams

"If you're really set on having this bribe, I'll do my part," agreed Raquel.

"Good egg," Greta, inveterate little gold-digger that she was, bubbled over with delight at her project. "I'll see that he comes through with a ticket for you, too."

"Please don't. I'd rather not."

"Put it in the other stamp-album, dearie. A girl can't gather too much hay while the sun shines, dearie. It's liable to be a long, cold winter."

Luncheon finished, Greta suggested that they go to their chairs on deck. One of the chairs was occupied. Greta's Bertie, a tall, lanky young man who sprawled himself lazily and who affected an air of complete ease with the world, including the two radiantly beautiful young women before him. He was Bertie Adams.

To Greta: "How do you do, Miss Rojos," he drawled at Raquel. His restless gray eyes were quick-looking at pleasure, fastened on her with gratitude in that she offered him a new toy. "How about a libation?"

"I didn't ask you to go swimming," Pervishly.

"Yes you did. Big Boy. I know you. Champagne."

"I thought perhaps a slight nip." Looking at Raquel.

"Nothing doing," said Greta. Raquel and me take our baths we don't drink them."

"What else is there to do in a hole like this?" Bertie demanded.

"Well, there's horse-races for one. You can take us to the races, my good man, and let us pick a few winners."

Raquel thrilled over the suggestion. Horse-races on a ship, in the middle of the ocean? Where was the race track? Where were the horses?

"I'm not very lucky at games of chance," she said a trifle timorously.

"What do you mean, you're not lucky?" Greta demanded.

Well, Raquel's mind flew back to the adobe hut of Pancho Rojos in Hermosa. "I lost a lottery ticket once. My father dropped it somehow, and I picked it up. I was just a little tot, but I knew what it was. I thought I'd show it to the children. I played with, but when I went to get it out of my pocket it was gone. The number was 3633. It won quite a lot of money. But we couldn't find the ticket, so father couldn't claim the money. He was ready to—to—whip me."

Raquel Gambles

She would not tell these two that Pancho had beaten her until Lucy, her mother, fled from the house, screaming in terror, begging someone to come quick and save her child from the terrible wrath of a mad bull.

"Let's test your luck, Miss Rojos," suggested Bertie. "Maybe it's changed. We'll match coins."

He dove into his pocket and brought out a handful of change from which he selected two quarters.

"Let me in it, too," Greta clamored.

"No," said Bertie, "you're the banker. You keep track of the points."

They began tossing the coins on the foot-rest of Raquel's steamer chair. She was, as she had predicted, a poor gambler, as far as winning was concerned. But she liked the game. It set her blood racing. A single flip of a silver disc, a gesture, and one won or lost. Life was a silver disc. It must be played with dash, with reckless abandon.

"You're minus twenty," Greta sang out to her. "Gosh, if you're that kind of a loser, you ought to be lucky in love."

"I think not," said Raquel, returning her quarter to Laddie Adams. "I'm through. I owe five dollars. I'll go and get it."

"You'll what!" expostulated Greta.

"Wait," Adams said. "I have a proposition for you. We'll wait until the races. If you win on the horses, you owe me nothing. If you lose, you owe me double."

Correct Manners

Fruit Salad Silver Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In a restaurant I ordered a fruit salad which was served accompanied by a service plate, two teaspoons and a dinner fork. The weighty problem confronting me was just how to dispose of the salad with a fork or teaspoon. I would appreciate your advice. A. S.

With the spoon in your right hand and the fork in your left you would serve a part of the salad to your own plate, from the serving dish. Of course it would have been better serving if the spoon had been a tablespoon or at least a dessert spoon.

Then either you could have asked for another fork with which to eat the salad, a salad fork or at least a fork smaller than a dinner fork, or you could have used the fork that was given for the serving.

Fork or Spoon?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the proper way to take bread from a plate when it is being passed to you—with a fork or with your fingers?

2. Which is the proper way to eat the following—with a spoon or with a fork: Rice pudding, tapioca pudding, cup custard, crullers, doughnuts, eclairs, pound cake, baked apple, cornstarch pudding, jello? B. G.

1. With your fingers. To use a fork is very bad form.

2. With a spoon: Rice pudding, tapioca pudding, cup custard, baked apple, cornstarch pudding, jello. With a fork: Crullers, doughnuts, eclairs and pound cake. The crullers, doughnuts and pound cake may be eaten with the fingers, if you are a "tidy" eater.

Fay King Asks Girls: Does It Really Pay to Be 'Hard-Boiled?'

By FAY KING

Women are having quite a fling at acting hard-boiled these days. Some resent nothing so much as being considered "nice" and placed upon a pedestal.

But regardless of whether they pretend to be hard-boiled or really are hard-boiled, every man looks upon the woman he really loves as "an angel," and sees only the good in her.

That is the wonderful way of love. Nothing can change it. Though she be in the gutter and everyone else considers her unworthy of his love, he sees only the beautiful thing she represents to him.

Flint-hearted little diamond diggers have gained more in life with pretended goodness and sincerity than the nice girl who pretends to be hard-boiled.

So why bother to be so "hard-boiled?"

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Hastens Preparations for Long Journey to Catskills

To my gratified surprise, my mother-in-law was in a most mellow mood and received the news of my forthcoming trip to New York with no irritation whatever.

As long as you have to go shopping there anyway, it doesn't matter when you go," she said reasonably. "I have my list of things almost finished," she added and I felt my heart travel toward my boots, so you won't have to wait for it. I'll finish it right now and give it to you. I do hope you'll be able to get everything I want within my price list."

What about the stories?" Roderick asked plaintively and Junior looked as if he would like to echo the question.

"Granzie won't be a minute," my mother-in-law explained hurriedly, and I secretly blessed the impatience of the small boys. I knew of old what Mother Graham's Christmas lists meant. Long hours of shopping for me with far more attention to detail than I gave to my own and equally long hours of manipulating price tags, so that she should not suspect Dicky had added many dollars to the sum her old-fashioned ideas of prices considered sufficient for the things she wished to buy.

I was in a tearing hurry, but I knew better than to betray any wish to get away. So I sat down and waited quietly until she had finished her list.

I had no time for self-abasement or any other emotion, however, as I hurried through my preparations for the journey, reassured Junior, who had followed me out of his grandmother's room, that I would be gone but a day or two, and intercepted Harry Underwood on his way to Lillian's room.

"Will you tell me the absolute truth about something?" I said.

"Cross my heart!" He smiled down at me, but I knew that a sincere promise lay behind his absurd words and the equally absurd gesture accompanying the phrase.

"Lillian says you are hurrying back to New York because of an important conference. When is it?"

"What does that matter now?" he demanded, his voice suddenly serious. "I'm not—"

"Everything," I interrupted crisply. "Tell me."

"It was scheduled for tomorrow morning at 11," he said reluctantly.

"Well then," I returned, "everything is all right. I had planned to stay in New York tonight, and drive Lil up tomorrow morning, starting before daylight. But if you could—"

"I get you," he said promptly. "You want me to drive on up there tonight. It's about 100 miles from the city, isn't it?"

"Something like that," I told him. "You'll get there in time to get a late bus to down Kingston and a train to the city—there's one about 1:30 in the morning."

"We'll have to step on it if we carry out that program," he admonished.

"I have my foot on the gas right now," I told him. "You can start as soon as you've talked to Lillian. And when we get to New York I can telephone a rooming house near Mrs. Cosgrove, Robert's sister, and engage rooms, while Lillian is getting some things together, and you are seeing that the car has gas, oil and water."

"You have the litany, I see," he grinned, "and I salute your efficiency. But you've forgotten the eats. We'll have to take time off for dinner."

"We're eating while we drive," I told him firmly.

"Katie is putting up an ample lunch with containers of hot coffee and hot soup. We're not going to waste a minute."

His face was suddenly grave. "That means Lil's obsessed with the fear that she may be too late," he said. "Well! It's on the knees of the gods, of course, but she'll be up there as soon as it's humanly possible to get there."

"I know that," I told him and stepped aside from Lillian's door.

"Anything you want me to tell her?" he asked, and as I saw the lines about his mouth, I realized that he was snatching at anything which would postpone the coming talk with his wife.

I considered a second.

"You must use your own judgment about telling her that Mary is going with us."

"Mary!" he ejaculated. "Why?"

"Katherine wants to get her away for a little while, and this seems a heaven-sent opportunity," I returned. "She's a natural buffer against depression, and of course up in the mountains she will not appear at the Savarin house at all."

"Oh!" her going would be all right as far as Lil is concerned," he said. "I can see where it would be a good thing to have her along. But—"

"But what?" I asked sharply as he hesitated and looked at me with grave troubled eyes.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

At the first sign of wrinkles, there should be a daily routine of oiling and ice rubs. Use a heavy cream at night after the face has been washed with pure soap and water. Every morning apply an astringent and then ice.

Sallow skin will not reform under the influence of external remedies. On the greenery-yallery epidermis bleaches are wasted. The pigment takes on a sallow hue because of disturbances of the elimination organs, especially the intestinal tract or kidneys. The permanent cure is found in a diet of fruits, vegetables, lean meats and milk, and in drinking six or eight glasses of water a day.

The right kind of complexion powder will produce an appearance of freshness. It should not be too heavy with oil, though powders of this kind adhere better than lighter ones. Begin by powdering the neck and work upward. Put the dull finish on the nose when the powder pad carries a light load. Don't forget the lobes of the ears, which should have a faint touch of rouge if coloring is applied to the cheeks and chin.

Why Wives Have the "Gimmes"

All that a woman asks of the man she loves is that he will SHARE things with her. But that is the last thing a man ever thinks of doing. He would rather play Santa Claus and "give" her things that he can't afford than to share his business secrets with her.

That is why so many wives are afflicted with the "gimmes." A man may look upon his wife as a "pet," a luxury, a liability or a household utensil; as a cherished possession or a bitter dispensation—but never as a PARTNER.

No matter how much money a woman may be able to MAKE or to save, you never can convince a man that she "knows how to handle it."

* * *

Yet no man and woman can really know each other until they have had to SHARE the same dollar bill! That's why so many husbands and wives live and die, total strangers!

A man will tell the woman he loves all about his past, his religion, his suffering, his digestion, and his sins, but he will never tell her anything about his BUSINESS or his money.

There seem to be just three kinds of husbands in the world.

Those who hand over their weekly salary check to the "Little woman," keep their bank accounts in "the Wife's" name—and then have to beg for car-fare.

Those who regard a wife as a bond servant, squeeze a quarter until it hurts, and dole out the pennies like radium.

And those who "throw money around like a Prince," no matter WHOSE money it is, and have to rob the baby's bank every Tuesday.

The wives of the first love them—and boss them.

The wives of the second hate them—and cheat them.

The wives of the third nag them, weep over them—and finally divorce them.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Rest Your Eyes Now and Then

In these modern days we put the eyes to task calling for a high degree of muscular and nervous effort. People go on without ever thinking of giving the eyes a rest even for a brief interval. This is a mistake.

Employers of labor sometimes neglect to provide proper conditions to guard the eye comfort of their employes. These precautions, if taken, prevent wear and tear of the eyes, organs essential to best efforts on the job.

And on the other hand, many workmen are perfectly reckless with their eyes. Only too often symptoms of eye defect develop, and then if they are neglected serious damage to the vision is sure to result.

The organ of vision is such a delicate structure that when the vision is once lowered it can rarely be restored. This distressing effect may be from anyone to a number of different causes.

The skilled workman should be allowed frequent rest periods so that the eyesight may be saved. It is a great mistake to work all day long without eye rest, except the briefest interval of blinking when the eyelid covers the eye for the fraction of a second.

There must be no rule against the workman's urge to take a look away from his work to his neighbor. This eye-rest business is a part of nature's way of preserving the sight.

The wise industrial leader or foreman or physician would do well to have the glaring lights in the workroom properly adjusted so that workmen shall have adequate protection from their glare. By rearranging the shading of the lights, the irritating glare is removed. By the simple changing of the workman's position the same result may be had.

No matter what the vision record of an individual may have been previously there comes a time in the life of nearly every man and woman when the eyes need examination and the application of some optical aid. The individual who does any extensive amount of study—reading, needlework, or other work requiring close vision, is sure to feel a declining power of vision around the age of 40 to 50 years.

This condition comes from two causes. The first of them is a slight hardening of the crystal-clear lens situated just back of the pupil of the eye. It does not change its shape or "focus" so readily as it did earlier in life. Second, there is a lesser degree of elasticity of the focusing muscles inside the eye. These muscles are continuously acting to reshape the lens so as to make it give good vision at different distances.

When you find you have to push your work or your reading a couple of inches farther off, or when the finer lines or markings of your work are seen with effort, then the time has come to have the eyes examined carefully. Properly fitted glasses or spectacles will usually clear up the trouble.

It may be that in two or three years a pair of glasses a little stronger than the others will be needed. And possibly another change in five years' time will carry one through life very comfortably. Then probably the eyesight will continue normally useful barring disease and accident.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, August 16

An important and progressive day is indicated by the lunar aspects to major planets, these wielding an expansive and generally benign influence. There is augury of an abrupt change, following close upon the breaking up of long obstructing and crystallized conditions. With diligence and determined effort, accompanied by freedom from petty vexations, all may prosper and gain solid growth.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of an important year, with the prospect of a sudden change, offering fresh opportunities for prosperity and advancement, following a reign of long frustrating and crystallized conditions. The promise of expansion and solid growth with financial returns is strong, but the inclination to impetuous and quarrelsome outbursts should be suppressed.

A child born on this day will be skillful, ingenious, inventive and also a hard worker, practical and ambitious, through which qualities it should attain stable fortunes and position. But it should learn to suppress tendencies to rash and irascible acts.

Household Hints

To cool a dish of pudding or any hot food quickly, set in a pan of cold water which has been well salted.

In one family of several children each child is permitted to order the dinner on his or her birthday. It makes just one more interesting bit of fun for that day.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Wounded Conceit, Not Love, Causes All This Uproar!

"I wish I were dead!" cries she, turning her face to the wall.

Who and what's causing the commotion? You guessed it. A girl. A boy. A broken engagement. A busted heart. And now Ann has taken to bed and tears and has the family Scared Pink. So we're invited to join the party.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I am a daily reader of your column, and because I have a problem that is breaking my heart, I am going to turn to you for help.

"I can hardly be recognized by anyone who has seen me in the past few weeks. People just wonder what is happened to me until I explain the reason, in tears.

"You see, I went with Ted steady for three months, and certainly did care for him a whole lot. I am 18 years old and was called very attractive and very lively. In fact, I was the life of any party until recently. Now I look like an old washed out rag. I've been crying and grieving so much.

"Friends are pleading with me to cheer up and forget him and become myself again, but it is impossible. Nobody will understand as well as you do. I am done. I know you will know how I feel. I have many opportunities to go out, but the more I go out and meet different fellows, the more I miss my dear boy friend and wish that the party I am with would be he.

WILD ABOUT HER

"I don't understand why things had to be this way. He was wild about me. I was the only girl he ever brought home for his folks to meet. His mother liked me, and asked me up again. He was well liked by my people, too. But what good is that now, Sally?

"I am writing this with tears just streaming down my cheeks, to think that it all went on the rocks and to see what is becoming of me. I didn't see him last for two weeks, and seeing him then made me lie down in bed. It was then that he told me he thought it was best for us to part, because we are different types, I being very much against petting and he very demonstrative.

"Why didn't he tell me that before he started telling me he cared for me? Oh, I am broken hearted. I cry so. Just to think that he would suggest breaking off made me cry myself into a faint spell. When I woke up out of it he cried and begged me to forget and forgive him. But how can I? If he would only see what he did to me I would take him back, but I know he won't. He is very stubborn. People say he only used that as an excuse to break off, but how can that be? How can I believe it when his mother told me that he liked me?

"Mother does not know what to do with me. She had the doctor up for me and he told her I am very much underweight and run down, and if I don't stop crying and worrying so much I will pass right out of the picture. Isn't it sad? I wish I was dead, anyway. I wish weekends would never come, too, because I used to spend them going out with him, so now they just bring tears and more tears . . . and many times, doctor bills. Sally, I am going crazy and making everybody crazy with me.

"BROKEN-HEARTED ANN."

WOUNDED CONCEIT

So if I don't help you "you'll end it all?"

Well, believe me, baby, if I were riding herd on you, you would end it all—pronto. I'd have you out of that bed and those tears so fast your brakes would smoke. For if ever I saw a hysterical young female giving her family the well-known Run Around, you're it.

Hurt to lose your love? Yes, of course, it hurts. But that isn't what hurts you worst, young lady. It's wounded conceit, not wounded love, that is causing all this uproar. As an Engaged Young Person of 18 you had plenty of importance, and you were putting it all over the other girls. Loved him? Maybe. A little. But mostly, you loved the excitement and flattery of it all. And when he threatened to leave you you saw yourself losing your place in the sun. So you fainted. And for a little while your fainting frightened him and held him. Then the effect wore off—and he went.

Now you're trying to regain your shattered importance by the same tactics. For you're determined to be in the spotlight, and if you can't do it with romance you'll do it with tragedy. And you expect me to sympathize? Why should I? You're getting the bang of your life out of all this attention.

But it won't last, Ann. You can't make yourself important for long by being a nuisance. You'll just end by being unpopular—and utterly miserable.

So cut out the act, kid. Dry your tears—they're buying you nothing. Take that pretty face of yours out into the sunshine where it belongs. Postpone that beautiful death-bed scene for a couple of centuries and get busy and meet some nice boy. For that's the cure for what ails you, honey.

STUPID BASERUNNING HURTS BROOKLYN

IF WILBERT ROBINSON succeeds in leading the Brooklyn team to the National League pennant he will be doing the trick with a club that looks less like a championship outfit on the bases than any other that has won a big league flag within memory. Some of the blunders committed on the paths by the Robins would have shamed the greenest amateurs. The Brooklynites have all the mechanical strength required to win ball games consistently, but there have been times when they appeared a bit shy on the mental stuff. They are hitting above .300 and fielding around .970, but some of them seemingly are not thinking better than .013.

Wilbert Robinson

Attention was first drawn to their shortcomings in that respect when with Babe Herman on first base, Del Bissonette hit a fair ball over the right-field fence. While Herman stood near first base watching the ball clear the barrier, Bissonette ran past him, and, of course, was called out under the rules. Herman was allowed to score, but Bissonette got only a single on what should have been a clean home run on a ball hit out of the park.

RECENTLY THE ROBINS have contributed a few more to the well-known book. Lopez singled the other day with Gilbert on third. Herman on second and Bissonette on first. Gilbert scored, but when the ball came back to the infield both Herman and Bissonette were found occupying third base. Only Bissonette would have been out when touched, as he had no right to the bag, but Herman evidently didn't know he was entitled to the base and he, too, was retired when he stepped off the sack and wandered toward the plate. The game was lost by one run.

It is terrible baseball to try to score from third base on an infield tap with none out, as even after that batter has been retired, making only one out, there will still be a chance to come home on a fly. But Herman attempted it on Wright's grounder to Grimm and was easily caught. Bissonette, who was on first, could have reached third while Herman was being run down, but stopped at second, with the result that he was caught at the plate trying to count on a single by Lopez. Then there was the memorable mix-up that has been called the greatest base-running act of any era, when three Brooklyn players were discovered on third base at one and the same time. And yet a club can be a pennant possibility in spite of that kind of stuff. If the Robins lose out, it won't be hard to find the reason.

STEPS HAVE BEEN taken by E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, to halt a practice which he feared might not only put innocent players in a false light, but might also, in event of possible happenings on the field, lead to a situation harmful to baseball itself.

E. S. Barnard

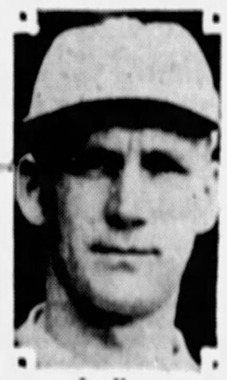
Barnard has issued orders that there must be no more "visiting" by players in uniform with spectators in the ball yards. He refers to the athletes' custom of going to the front of the grandstand, when called, and conversing with patrons. Umpires have been instructed to report any violation.

"IT HAS BEEN recently called to my attention," says the American League chief in a letter to every club manager, "that certain undesirables have made a practice of calling players to the front of the stands and engaging them in conversation. A ball player is at a big disadvantage in a case like this. He has no way of distinguishing between this sort of person and a reputable patron of our games. It will be easy to explain to your friends and relatives the necessity for this order, and no player need be embarrassed by complying with the rule. It will protect you from being made the innocent victim in what might develop into an unhappy situation."

BARNARD'S ACTION IS said to have been prompted by conditions at the Yankee Stadium in New York, where several notorious gamblers with criminal records, at one time under arrest as suspects in connection with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, were observed almost daily to call members of the New York club to their field box and converse with them as though they were on very friendly terms.

Wishing not to offend any patrons of the park, the players naturally were respectful and obliging, even though the men who wanted to fan were not counted as friends and in some cases were not even acquaintances. But it didn't look good and it caused talk, being commented upon unfavorably by many persons in the stands. It soon reached the ears of President Barnard, and when it did he acted without delay.

WHETHER OR NOT Babe Ruth succeeds in beating his record of 60 home runs, there is hardly a doubt that his mark will be passed in the minors, at least. Having already reached the 54 line for Baltimore in the International League, Joe Hauser appears certain to go beyond 60 before the season ends.



Joe Hauser

On the strength of his tall slugging this year, the former first baseman of the Athletics is said to be ticketed for a major league trial again in 1931. Whether he can show the same ability higher up to hit the ball out of the lot is another question, however, Gus Suhr made 51 homers in the Coast League last year, but in the National, with more than two-thirds of the season gone, he has turned in only eight.

SPEAKING OF THE difference between major and minor league hitting, some convincing figures present themselves in connection with the Suhr-Earl Sheely deal. The Pittsburgh club made the trade, giving up a large sum of money besides, for the purpose of adding a punch to the Pirates. Whereas Suhr, who batted .381 in the Coast loop, has dropped to near .280 in the National, Sheely, who could do no better than .293 in the National, is now leading the Coast League batters with an average of .403, having made 192 hits in 121 games, with 22 home runs to his credit against only six during all of last year. There's a double instance showing that the hitting difference between these two grades of baseball company is approximately 100 points.

THAT EVEN A world champion ball club can be made to look like a bush-league outfit when an opponent happens to combine a slugging spree with good pitching, was shown in the 15-to-0 pasting handed to the Athletics on their own grounds by the Indians.

Strangely, the mighty A's have been the victims of the most crushing defeats suffered by any club in either of the big leagues this season. On May 11, the Indian beat them by the year's record score of 25 to 7, making 25 hits, and on May 22, the Yankees spilled them, 20 to 13, making 20 hits.

EARL WHITEHILL, Tiger left-hander, is still far from the major league record of 19 straight victories, set by Tim Keefe in 1888 and equaled by Rube Marquard in 1912, but he set a new mark for the present season when he pitched his tenth consecutive win yesterday at the expense of the Yankees.

During his streak, Whitehill has toppled every other club in the American League except the Browns. He has defeated the Athletics,

M'CLURE, BRAND ELIMINATED AT OAKMONT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Watts Gunn, of Oakmont, runner-up to the Pennsylvania state amateur champion last month at Allegheny, and the old war-horse from Stanton Heights, Fred (Dutch) Weppner, who has been among the leaders in the district's big tourneys for the last six years, but who has not yet won anything of consequence, were battling this afternoon in the 18-hole final match for the Western Pennsylvania amateur championship at the Oakmont Country Club.

While the former intimate of Bobby Jones easily disposed of George G. McClure, of Chartiers Heights, 4 and 3, this morning, Weppner had to go to the twentieth hole and see his opponent, young Fred Brand, Jr., of Shannopin, former West Penn amateur and junior champion, miss a one-foot putt for a half before he advanced to the titular round.

SPECTACULAR MATCH

The Weppner-Brand fight was one of the most spectacular matches ever returned in semi-final round championship golf. They were even until they reached the fifteenth hole, where Weppner became one down by three—putting himself out of a break. They remained thus until the eighteenth—and Brand missed his chance to advance when he failed to sink a 10-foot putt that would have given him a halved hole and the match. On the first extra hole, they were both just off the green with their second shots and halved it in 5's. On the second Weppner made a spectacular pitch within three feet of the pin with his second shot, hurting Brand, who was at that time playing under a nervous tension. Brand was 12 feet from the cup and slid past it on his first putt.

STOPS AT CUP

Weppner was off with his short tap, and it left Brand a half stymie. With a one-foot makeable putt for a half staring him in the face, the Penn State Star hit the ball too lightly and it stopped on the lip of the orifice.

In the upper bracket match, Gunn was playing a safe game from the outset. He demonstrated this time and again by playing his shots safe when he was putting for birdies. After the pair had played nip and tuck, Watts won the eighth, which put him 1 up at the turn after they had halved the ninth.

Gunn was out in 39 and his opponent needed one stroke more.

OHIOANS NEAR SHARON TITLE

SHARON, Aug. 15.—Every step toward the finals in the men's singles of the twenty-fifth annual Northwestern Pennsylvania tennis tournament in progress here is a step toward an all-Youngstown final.

Howard Cooper, Carl Dennison and Williard James, all of the Ohio city; Tom Galbreath, of Sharon, and Robert Redfield, of Smethport, remain in the classic. Cooper is to play Redfield in the semi-finals while James will meet the winner of the Dennison-Galbreath match.

James defeated the Rev. John Cummings, New Wilmington, 8-6 and 8-6, in a great match; Cooper won over William Fehrs, Grove City youth, 6-0 and 6-3; Redfield downed Sam Wilhelm, of Clarion, 6-1 and 8-6, while James eliminated a fellow townsman, Joe Hoffer, 12-10 and 7-5.

Youngstown also stands a good chance to take the doubles honors., Hoffer and Santangeld meet Cooper and Buckhart in a quarter-final match.

Miss Catherine Crawford, Slippery Rock, 1929 champion, and Miss Eileen Turner, of London, England, have advanced to the quarter-finals in women's play.

Abe Cohen, of Erie, and Robert Clark, of Beaver Falls, are quarter-finalists in the junior tourney. Cohen won two matches yesterday, defeating Cliff Gregory, Grove City, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4, and Tannenbaum, a fellow player, 6-4 and 8-6. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Tom Galbreath, Sharon, defeated Cliff Gregory, Grove City, 6-2, 6-2; Willard James, Youngstown, defeated John Cummings, New Wilmington, 8-6, 8-6; Howard Cooper, Youngstown, defeated William Fehrs, Grove City, 6-0, 6-3; Robert Redfield, Smethport, defeated Sam Wilhelm, Clarion, 6-1, 8-6; Willard James defeated Joe Hoffer, Youngstown, 12-10, 7-5.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

McMillan and McMillan, Evans City, defeated Thompson and Palmer, Butler, 6-0, 2-6, 6-3; Behr and Keck defeated Getz and Vollmer, St. Marys, 6-0, 8-4; Hoffer and Santangeld, Youngstown, defeated Daugherty and Howells, Butler, 6-4, 6-4; Redfield and Cummings, defeated Detloff and Morteuse, Sharon, 6-2, 6-3; Dennison and James, Youngstown, defeated Wilson and Meidahl, Sharon, 6-1, 6-1; Hoffer and San-

Believe It Or Not — By RIPLEY

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: ROBERT MANNING AND HIS HORSE JUMPED OVER A DINING TABLE—Manning performed this feat as a result of a dare by a group of friends. After ascending a long stairway, horse and rider leaped over one of the dining tables without upsetting it. The Sporting Monthly hailed this feat with a great deal of enthusiasm. IT TAKES TWO YEARS TO MAKE A BILLIARD BALL—Billiard balls must be perfect in shape, size, weight and smoothness or they are valueless. When the balls are made from ivory the rough-shaped ivory block is kept in a seasoning room for at least a year and another year of the most painstaking seasoning is required after the block has been cut to approximately its ultimate size. When the balls are made from cheese the time required for seasoning and shaping is practically the same.

QUINCY ROWERS WIN AT LIEGE

LIEGE, Belgium, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The Quincy, Ill., four-oared crew scored a victory in its first start in the international rowing regatta today, defeating Hungary by two lengths in an eliminating heat over the 2,000-meter course.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, the rain has a lot more important right now than any ball games, so there won't be any kickin' around our clubhouse over postponements or doubleheaders.

Fred Hunter, who coached for the Phillies and who played first base for the Pirates a long time ago, won the big argument about the rain yesterday when Jule and a lot of Pirates and Phillies were standin' around the field. Some of the gang was worryin' about whether we'd get to play or not when Hunter said:

"Listen, brother—I'd rather lose a ball game or two now than lose my cakes during the winter months, and that's what's liable to happen to a lot of us if we don't get rain."

The drought sure enough is a long one, but the ball players are gettin' a good break when there is no scarcity of pay checks every two weeks. And here's one rookie that is thankful he can walk up there every first and fifteenth and get that important piece of paper.

It wasn't hard for me to think up that little bit of philosophy, for if you will look at your calendar you will see that this is the fifteenth, a date that is always welcome to a player in the summer months.

And the old game isn't doin' so bad. When they have to have ground rules in the middle of a week for a single game like they did in Chicago, you might add that there is nothing much the matter with baseball. I guess all the fans want is something unusual and they'll get out to see it.

I see there's another southpaw on the way. If he's a fungo hitter like Larry he might as well start right back, because two like Larry would run the Jule ragged.

SCHRADER IN RACE

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Leo Schrader of Youngstown, O., winner of the Sandusky-Cleveland marathon, has entered his boat in the Penn-Ohio regatta, here tomorrow and Sunday. J. E. Thomas, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is another entry.

COAST LEAGUER HEADED FOR MAJORS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The $100,000 demanded by his San Francisco employers for the services of Shortstop Frankie Crosetti, 19-year-old Italian boy, may keep him out of a major league uniform for quite a spell, yet the colorful boy may land with some club in the next campaign.

Joe Devine, lynx-eyed Pirate scout, is said to have detected a flaw in the play of the youth and refuses to O. K. him for the Buccaneers, especially at the exorbitant price. Agents for the Chicago Cubs also are on the job, and it would not be surprising if the lad is purchased after the Coast League race is decided.

Devine generally knows the inside of everything in a baseball way on the coast, and perhaps Crosetti is not ready for the big show, but his feats in the present campaign do not bear out the conclusion.

AVERAGE IS .319

Up to last Saturday, the recruit, batting in the lead-off position for the Seals, was hitting .319. His season's card showed 161 hits, including 18 homers. Leadoff batters who can hit better than .300 are to be desired.

It may be that Crosetti has gone into a fielding slump which has hurt his chances with Devine; the youngster is too tender in years to be finished; he should overcome any unsteadiness as he reaches manhood.

Devine, by the way, did not "boot" Joe Cronin. More than once the scout insisted that Cronin was a sure-shot to be a star.

"He can't miss," was the way the Pirate sleuth put it, and Cronin didn't cost the Pirates anything but his carfare to camp.

O'DONOVAN STARS

Another young player who should and probably is getting the attention of the Pittsburgh scout is Outfielder Jerry Donovan of the Seals. Jerry, a tall, fast performer, is batting .347.

The leader of the league is none other than popular Earl Sheely, who is batting .402. Earl has whacked out approximately 200 hits for the Seals, 22 of them being homers.

Sheely played much of last year in the Pirate lineup with a bruised shoulder that spoiled him at the plate. The big firstbaseman always was better than a .300 hitter in the American League.

Wet grounds yesterday gave the Pirates and Phillies a day of rest, forcing the clubs to wind up their season's series here in a doubleheader this afternoon.

Mrs. Budd Wins Event at Montour

With a low gross score of 99, Mrs. A. R. Budd won the one-day tournament of the W. G. A. at Montour Heights yesterday. Mrs. Budd, with a handicap of 24, had a net 75 to lead the field.

Mrs. Walter Curley, of the Field Club, and Mrs. Beverley Shriber, of the home club, tied for second with low nets of 79. Mr. S. K. Colby, also of Montour, was next with 107-27—80.

ROBINS, CUBS CLOSE CRUCIAL SERIES TODAY

DUEL FOR LEAD LIKELY TO CONTINUE

Associated Press

Unless today's final clash of the "decisive" series between Brooklyn and Chicago finally brings something like a decision it looks as if their race for the National League pennant might continue indefinitely or at least until they meet again in September. Despite the big margin they hold over the Robins in their season's play, the Cubs have not been able to get far ahead in the three games of their current series.

Chicago has won two clashes and went one full game ahead yesterday as Pat Malone pitched a fine game for a 5 to 1 Cub triumph. But still the big advantage for the Bruins is that the difference is in the losing column where Brooklyn is two games to the bad. The future schedules show little possibility of a break for either team.

MALONE STRONG

The Cubs held in check to some degree through the second game were completely superior yesterday as Malone stopped the thunder of Brooklyn's big bats. They went out ahead in the very first inning and did all their scoring in the first three to win without much difficulty.

Bill Clark, Brooklyn's southpaw ace, lasted less than two innings and Clise Dudley could not check the Cub slugging until the damage had been done. Malone his speedball working at its best clip gave the Robins only three hits in the first six innings and had a shutout in hand until two were out in the ninth when a Cub letup let the only Brooklyn run across the plate.

With four teams kept idle by rain and wet grounds the National League as a whole made little progress yesterday. The St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves divided a close doubleheader that was principally notable for the appearance of some of the league's older pitchers.

SEIBOLD BEATEN

Socks Seibold lost a tough struggle in the first game as the Cards put on a two-run rally in the ninth to win 4 to 3. Although outhit, 11-9, in the second old Tom Zachary outlasted Burleigh Grimes and held St. Louis to six hits while the Braves pulled out a 3-to-2 triumph. The Card winning streak went to six games before it was broken in the second game.

Three pitchers, Wes Ferrell, Earl Whitehill and Eddie Durham provided the features of the American League's day. Ferrell won his twentieth victory of the season as Cleveland came back from five straight defeats to pound out a 15-to-0 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics. It also was the first game the Indians have won in Philadelphia this season.

WHITEHILL WINS TENTH

Whitehill won his tenth successive game, setting a major league record for the season as he beat the New York Yankees, 5 to 1, on a seven-hit and 11-strikeout pitching performance. Elias Funk's triple with the bases full in the fifth gave the Tigers most of their runs.

Durham pitching in a lesser cause, turned in the best hurling job of the day. He shut out the St. Louis Browns with four singles and without a free trip to first to give Boston a 3-to-0 victory.

At Washington, Fischer, Liska and Crowder pitched for the Senators against Caraway of the White Sox, the Nats winning 5 to 4. The victory gave the Nats a clean sweep of the three-game series.

FAIRIES WIN CLOSE FRAY

Jeannette and Fairmont were the only teams in the Mid-Atlantic League able to play yesterday, rain and wet grounds keeping the others idle.

The Jays lost a well-played, closely contested struggle to the league leaders and sank deeper into the cellar. The score of the contest was 4 to 3. Fairmont rallied in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to win out. In the eighth inning, Jeannette filled the bases, but failed to score.

RAIN PREVENTS RYE TENNIS PLAY

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Rain caused a postponement of play this morning in the eastern grass court tennis championships. Efforts were to be made to stage the women's singles semi-finals this afternoon when the men's singles semi-finals also are to take place, weather permitting.

William T. Tilden, national champion, who created a furor yesterday by defaulting when trailing Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate champion, in a quarter-final match, checked out here last night and will make his next appearance in the Newport (R. I.) invitation tournament starting Monday.

The youthful Tulane University star had won the first set 6-1 and was leading 4-love, love-15 in the second set when Big Bill took offense at the heckling of the crowd, which packed its way into the bleachers at the Westchester Country Club. Preceding Tilden's walkout, the referee frequently requested the crowd to refrain from showing any signs of partisanship. As the ace of the American Davis Cup team left the court he said:

"I can't stand this any longer."

CROWD LAUGHS

Tilden throughout the match limped and let ordinary easy returns drop for placements to Sutter's credit. After several such plays a portion of the crowd began to laugh at the lanky Philadelphian's style. Two or three times before defaulting he paused and cast his famous glare in the direction of the hecklers.

After the match Tilden refused to blame his showing on a bad leg, although he fell Wednesday and was under a masseur's care two hours before taking the court yesterday. Later, however, he admitted to Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, that his right leg bothered him.

After a short rest Tilden took the court with his doubles partner, Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, but the veteran combination lost to Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Cal., and Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Pasadena, Cal., national junior doubles champion. The score was 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, and placed the youthful West Coast pair in the semi-finals.

HUNTER BEATEN

Hunter also lost in his singles match, falling before Johnny Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., 6-1, 6-2.

Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., and Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., were the other favorites to come through to the semi-final. Mangin turned back Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., youth, 6-3, 6-4, while Bell managed to eliminate the young Harvard freshman, Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., 4-6, 7-5, 8-6.

The survivors in women's singles were the two Californians, Miss Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, and Miss Helen Marlowe, of Los Angeles, the Italian entry, Baroness Giacomo Levi, of Rome, and Miss Clara Louise Zinke, of Cincinnati.

All but Miss Gladman were forced to their best tennis to win, the Santa Monica girl defeating Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere, of East Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 6-4. Baroness Levi, the sensation of the tournament, eliminated Miss Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., 6-1, 7-5, while Miss Marlowe disposed of Miss Alice Francis, Orange, N. J., 6-2, 6-8, 6-4. Miss Zinke scored an upset when she turned back Miss Mary Greef, of Kansas City, 8-6, 7-5.

NEAR TRAGEDY MARKS HICKEY PARK BOUTS

Sports Editor.

Exhausted from a bad beating he had been taking for several rounds and saved by the bell at the count of eight in the fifth round, Urban finally went down full length backward in his own corner under a hard right to the jaw. His head struck the ring boards with a thudding impact and bounced up and he took the full count in a sitting position, trying in a dazed manner to pull himself together on the lower rope.

It was some time after he was placed on the stool in his corner before Urban could be revived, and he began to sink away again in the dressing room later. Dr. J. A. Munster, serving as the commission physician for the first time, was summoned and he immediately ordered the boxer removed to the Allegheny General Hospital for observation, fearing a brain concussion or fracture of the skull, with the possibility of a hemorrhage. Urban could not keep his eyes open and complained of a severe headache and drowsiness.

ORDERED TO HOSPITAL

Jack Burke, former nationally-known heavyweight, a brother of Urban, whose real name is Eddie Burkowski, and their father took the injured boxer away in an automobile, presumably headed for the hospital, but they changed their minds en route and took him home instead. Few of the fans were aware of what had occurred as the show continued to its natural ending. It was said today Urban was making a good recovery.

Urban formerly served as a sparring partner for Jack Sharkey and has boxed a number of well-known opponents. His brother, Jack, boxed Gene Tunney and other stars and was a sparring partner for Jack Dempsey.

The tide turned against Urban after he had carried the first three rounds and had punished Williams severely with a solid left and a short, straight, jolting right. It was not until Johnny tired that Williams began to reach him with his own blows and gradually wore him down for the knockout. The end came after 1 minute 30 seconds of the eighth round. Williams weighed 175½ pounds and Urban 187½.

In the windup 10-round bout, Tiger Joe West, of Donora, 157½ pounds, easily outboxed and outpunched Lynn Jordan, Negro, of Akron, O., in every round. West was entirely too fast and clever and too straight a hitter for his foe.

BECKER STOPS BARRY

Al Becker, of Sheraden, 156½ pounds, punched around Jack Barry, of McKeesport, 152½, until Deputy Boxing Commissioner Mike Kane ordered the referee to halt the slaughter after 45 seconds of the fifth round of the scheduled eight-round semi-final. Barry was down for two counts of nine and fell down twice in the second round, was floored for two counts of nine and another of two before the bell saved him in the fourth and took another count of nine before the bout was stopped in the fifth.

Ross Fields, hard-hitting southpaw, of Weirton, W. Va., 114, gave a pleasing exhibition in shellacking Anastasio Vaquerio, Panama, 111¾, in the six-round second bout, and Mose Butch, of Oakland, 121½, defeated Jackie Wilson, Negro, of the East End, in the six-round opener. The fans razzed the unanimous decision on this bout, but unjustly so, for while Wilson did nothing but clown and slap and play to the crowd throughout, Butch was doing some earnest fighting and all of the clean hitting.

RODGERS-THOMAS NEXT

A good-sized turnout favored the promoters, despite the chilly weather. It was announced that Jackie Rodgers and Joey Thomas, of Chicago, will box the main bout next Thursday night.

Joe Keally refereed the first, third and main bouts, and Eddie Kennedy the other two. The judges were L. K. Meininger and Freddie Lux, the timers Chappie Couch and Steve Russell and the announcer Henry Klaas.

Between Rounds

Ted Yarosz, Monaca welterweight who boxes Billy Holt in one of the eight rounded preliminaries to the Emmett Rocco-Pete Pitobro fight at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night, meets Johnny Rich of Cleveland in a 10-round main bout at Parkersburg, W. Va., tonight. Bombo Chevalier, the Negro heavyweight who gave Primo Carnera a lot of trouble in California, boxes Charley Retzlaff at Duluth.

Mike Sankey and Tony Graziello have been matched for one of the bouts on the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. amateur boxing card next Tuesday night. They are lightweights.

Lloyd Waner and Heine Meine of the Pirates and their wives were among the ringside spectators at the Hickey Park bouts last night.

P. R. R. SECTION TRACK MEET TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER.

The annual track and field party of the Western Pennsylvania Division of the P. R. R. will be run off tomorrow afternoon at the Pitcairn Athletic Field, with athletes from the Pittsburgh, Conemaugh and Monongahela divisions competing.

The individual champions crowned at this carnival will represent the Western Pennsylvania section in the annual system championships in September, to be held either here in the Pitt Stadium or at the Cricket Field in Altoona.

You see, this West Penn division is very important cog in the Central Division (there are so many divisions to this Pennsy choo choo line that it keeps you dizzy remembering), and the boys who grab themselves off fistfuls of laurels at the Western Pennsylvania meet usually score plenty points in the system championships. Local stars have played important parts in the last two system meets, in which the Central Division won the title in 1928 and successfully defended it in '29.

ENTRY STRONG

Looking over the list of entries, which Bill Croasman very kindly dumped on my desk, I find that there are some clever boys enrolled. In the sprints, Hank Schnelbach, the former Duquesne University flash, who skips over the 100 in 10 seconds or better consistently, and who is capable of 23 flat furlongs, will pace the field.

Joe Pesci, another former Duke star; Jim Watkins, Had Amick and Paul Thomas, are entries in the middle and long distance runs. Both Pesci and Schnelbach will compete for Conemaugh, auguring ill for the ambitious lads from the other two divisions.

Besides the track and field competition, there will be tennis, trap and rifle shooting and baseball championships to be decided. It looks like a very busy afternoon. I hope Brother Croasman lays in a goodly supply of those long, brown stogies, if he can't get hold of anything else.

The Tipoff

Karl Ennis, as smart a basketball coach as you'll find in the scholastic ranks, head hoots, has been signed by Follansbee W. Va., High School. Ennis starred in all sports at Bethany, and later played basketball in the International and Florida State Leagues.

Among Pittsburgh's celebrated visitors yesterday was Jack Cannon, who made himself famous as a guard at Notre Dame last fall. The last time I saw Cannon was in Palo Alto, where he was threatening to throw Dick Secrist, of Wash-Jeff, out of a window. They were members of the all-Eastern team.

Bob Higgins and his staff at Penn State (which is the best looking coaching staff in the game) will work with a squad of 57 varsity candidates this fall. The steak eaters will report September 8.

At Wash-Jeff, Bill Ames and Pete Henry have ordered their Pirate hopefuls to turn out on September 7. Approximately 35 players will report to the Red and Black outfitters.

As a native of Ambridge, Pa., I protest the actions of Jess Quatro and Jim Mc-Murdo, Pitt linemen, who started their football drill in one of our best restaurants this week. Tch, tch, such a way to act.

Hartz Enters Pair In Altoona Race

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 15.—Intent upon winning the American Automobile Association's rich championship, Harry Hartz, himself a veteran of the roaring road, has entered Billy Arnold and Lou Meyers in the Labor Day race here.

Arnold will pilot the Hartz-Miller Special with which he won at Indianapolis and at Tipton Bowl here Flag day. Meyers is to drive a car being built in California. The mount he raced here on Flag Day has been junked.

BIG HAUSER BID DENIED

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—George M. Weiss, general manager of the Baltimore International League club, said today that no offer had been received by him for Joe Hauser, slugging first baseman. It was reported that Charley Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox had offered $75,000 for Hauser.

Weiss said he had held an informal discussion this month at Chicago with officials of the White Sox, but that no definite offer had been made. "However, I only wish it were true. That is an attractive price, to say the least," Weiss said.

The heavy hitting first baseman has been in the big circuit twice, coming to the Orioles for $7,500 from Cleveland, where he went on waivers from the Philadelphia Athletics after he had broken his leg. He formerly was with Milwaukee and Kansas City, of the American Association, after starting with Providence, of the Eastern League.

ARMY RIDERS LOSE

KNOCKDOWN AT HICKEY PARK

REFEREE KENNEDY WILLIAMS URBAN

Photo shows Harry Williams, Negro heavyweight, on the floor for a short count in the third round of his bout with Johnny Urban at Hickey Park last night. He came back to knock out Urban in the eighth round, Johnny being badly dazed when his head hit the floor. For a time it was thought Urban had suffered concussion of the brain.

Two important games will be flashed in the Commercial and Industrial League this evening. Carnegie Steel will make the trip to Carrick Park to hook up with the undefeated Reliance Life aggregation, and Mine Safety Appliance meets the Reick-McJunkin team.

Naturally all of the interest will be centered around the efforts of the Carnegie Steel nine to put a crimp into the winning streak of George Miller's Insurance nine. There is little doubt regarding the ability of the Reliance team to cop the league title, but still there is a feeling that one of the six other clubs will beat the leaders before the season closes.

DOELFELS FACE TEST

In the Steel City League, the Doelfels will hook up with the Lincoln Place team at Homestead. The Doelfels cannot afford to lose a game with the East Liberty Crimsons hot on their trail, and the Lincoln Place team can extend any team in the loop.

In the City League, the North Side Civics go to Homewood to meet Hank Daly's club. The Civics have not been getting much pitching and despite a heavy attack have been getting bumped around in the last few games.

Homewood will be out to put the race on ice with Dormont keeping very close. Homewood flashed its real strength by stopping Pitcairn.

The West Penn League race will swing into real hectic action next week. Wilmerding has been tied up in the Class A eliminations, and its shutout over the Crawfords was the finest piece of work on the sandlots this season. Shutting out the hard-hitting Negro aggregation is a tough job, but the Valley club did it to a queen's taste.

DORMONT WINS

Dormont, Pleasant Valley and Book Shoe turned in triumphs in the City League last evening. Dormont won over the North Side Civics, 9 to 7; the Smilers defeated J. L. Thomas, 5 to 3, and Book Shoe outslugged Pleasant Valley, 10 to 5.

In the Central League, Finlex downed the Beckmans, 4 to 1, and Lincoln Civics defeated the Y. M. H. A., 7 to 4.

St. Phillip's won over Ingram in the Crafton-Ingram Church League, 6 to 0. In the Philadelphia Company League, Equitable Gas nosed out Duquesne Light, 6 to 5, and in the North Side Twilight loop, Immaculate Heart defeated Ingomar, 5 to 0.

Verona took over Coraopolis 'n a Class A elimination tussle, 7 to 0. In independent battles, Homestead Aces defeated the Twentieth Ward nine, 5-4; Swissvale downed Jenkins, 5-1; Raybestos defeated Garfield, 4-3; Troy Hill Indies won over McKinley, 11-9, Pitcairn downed Wilmerding, 15-2, and Iroquois defeated Fineview, 6 to 4.

Jacobs, Cram Lose In Culver Doubles

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Larry Myers and Billie Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., had a field day in the national junior tennis championships here yesterday, winning their way into the finals of the doubles by upsetting two seeded teams.

In the quarter-finals Myers and Doeg disposed of Karl Kamrath, and Joe Bill Dralley, of Austin, Tex., seeded second, 6-2, 11-9, and then went on to eliminate Kendall Cram, Nashville, and William Jacobs, Pittsburgh, in the semi-finals, 6-4, 8-6.

Today, the California youngsters will face the first seeded team, Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., and Judge Beaver, Gainesville, Ga., in the finals.

Kelly Stops Solomen After 12 Knockdowns

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—K. O. Kelly, 146, Akron, O., knocked out Mickey Solomen, 153½, Pittsburgh, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. Solomen was down 12 times during the bout.

Bobby Vogel, 138, Erie, defeated Tusky Hazlett, 139, Franklin, in six rounds. Joe Boler, 121, Erie, won a six-round decision over Sammy Paris, 129, Pittsburgh.

EQUIPMENT STOLEN

TILTONSVILLE, O., Aug. 15.—Thieves broke into the local high school gym yesterday and stole all of the school's football paraphernalia.

Sport Vignettes

Brains, according to Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians, are not an essential to pitching greatness . . . . He does not exactly say they are a handicap, but he holds that ability counts for more . . . . Any fellow who can control a good curve ball and get a hop on his fast one and keep his spirit up when the going is tough can get by, he avers . . . . Brains generally give a fellow imagination, according to the Peck, and that is bad, for it provides a mental hazard when the breaks aren't coming his way or leads to situations that otherwise might be avoided . . . . In other words, Peckinpaugh gives us the impression that all a guy has to have to be a pitcher is a strong back and—shall we say the rest of it?—a weak mind . . . . Now, we know better than that, for all pitchers aren't lefthanders . . . . That fellow Max Baer, Coast heavyweight, who knocked out K. O. Christner in a hurry the other night, is slated to be hooked up with Jack Kearns shortly . . . . The young sensation has a great knock-out record and the former manager of Jack Dempsey has been angling for his contract for some time . . . . Ollie DeVictor, former Pitt trainer, who now is happily located at Washington University in St. Louis with Coach Al Sharpe, was a visitor in Pittsburgh yesterday with his family, en route back home from a motoring trip in the East that began the first of July . . . . As an added attraction to the Shikat-Kwariani wrestling bout in Philadelphia tonight, Zaro Agha, 156-year-old Turk, will appear in person, completing the circus act . . . . Pete Bowen, of Pitt, will be the only local man defending a title in the National A. A. U. games at the Stadium next week-end . . . . Two contestants won two titles each at last year's meet . . . . They were Eddie Tolan, Negro sprint star, of the University of Michigan, who won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and Steve Anderson, of the University of Washington, who carried off the laurels in both hurdles races . . . . Bowen is the 440-yard champion, and he also holds the National Intercollegiate crown for that distance . . . . Boxing conditions are so bad in Chicago that preliminary boys fight for as little as one-half of 1 per cent. One of them received a pasting and $11 on this basis recently . . . . Marty Fox, New York heavyweight, is being called Gallant Fox, after the turf champion . . . . Won't Gallant Fox be sore when he hears about that? . . . . Battling Terry, a good lightweight around these parts some 15 years ago, when he boxed Packy McFarland, Harry Trendall, Joe Welling, Johnny Kilbane, Milburn Saylor and others of note, now is managing a string of boxers in New Castle, Pa. . . . . They include Frankie Frey, 155 pounds; Billy Murphy, 150; Johnny Jones, 150, and Billy Mido, 118, and work out in Terry's own gymnasium . . . . "Billy Petrolle Stops Another," says a headline. That's a new one on us; we never heard of the bird.—HARRY KECK.

ALL-SLAVIC TEAM

The following is an all-Slavic-American football team, which was chosen by the same group of coaches that picked the all-Irish and all-German teams. So far as I can see, it looks like a very hefty organization. Back in the old days, in the 90's, not a single Slavic name appeared on any of the all-America teams, but today they are among our greatest players. The Slavs are going to be more prominent in football as more and more of their descendant go to college.

One witty Irishman made the remark that it was hard to find a Slav quarterback. I resented this, as the Polish, Bohemian and Lithuanian lads whom I have had under me have been just as smart as they make 'em.

Wood Whiffs 14 In Wichita Finale

Charley Wood, sensational southpaw on his way from Wichita to join the Pirates, won his farewell game and in doing so fanned 14 batters. His final trick for the Western League leaders netted him 197 strikeout in 197 innings of pitching, a truly remarkable record.

Vice President Dreyfuss, of the Pirates, this morning stated that Wood was due to reach Pittsburgh tonight. He worked a night game befor leaving the Western circuit, he winning 5 to 2, for his twenty-second victory. He lost only three games.

UNIONTOWN AGAIN VICTOR

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Uniontown and Baltimore yesterday reached the finals in the regional American Legion junior baseball tournament and meet today for the right to go to Charlottesville, Va., to compete in further competition in the march to a national championship.

The Lafayette Post team, of Uniontown, champions of the state, in the first game yesterday afternoon eliminated Wilmington (Del.), champions by the score of 22 to 0.

In the other semi-finals game, the team sponsored by the Baltimore and Ohio Post, of Baltimore, defeated Morgantown, W. Va., 8 to 2.

The Uniontown-Wilmington game went seven innings, due to rain and approach of the scheduled time of the second contest. The Baltimore-Morgantown contest went the full nine innings.

Uniontown put the game on ice in the second inning, scoring eight runs. To make things sure, however, they sent three more runs over in the next inning, eight more in the sixth and another knot of three in the seventh. The score:

Yankees, White Sox and Red Sox twice each, and the Senators and Indians once each. He has not lost a game since June 26, when the Senators knocked him out in the first inning and Fred Marberry got a 12-to-4 decision over him. That started Marberry on a winning streak of nine straight, which Whitehill has just beaten. Last year the big league record was made by Tom Zachary, who won 12 games for the Yankees without being defeated during the season.

S. Davidson Herron

WHEN HE ELIMINATED S. Davidson Herron yesterday as a contender for the Western Pennsylvania amateur golf championship in the annual tournament at Oakmont, Fred Brand, Jr., defeated one of only eight golfers holding the distinction of having beaten Bobby Jones in United States amateur title match play. Herron won the national honors in 1919 by vanquishing Jones in the final match at Oakmont, 5 and 4, after Bobby had defeated such opponents at Bob Gardner and W. C. Pownes, Jr. The seven others to triumph over Jones in American amateur champion competition were Bob Gardner, at Merion in 1916; Francis Ouimet, at the Engineers in 1920; Willie Hunter, at St. Louis in 1921; Jess Sweetser, at Brookline, in 1922 (8 and 7, the worst beating of Bobby's match-play career); Max Marston, at Flossmoor in 1923; George Von Elm at Baltusrol in 1926, and John Goodman, at Pebble Beach in 1929.*

Bears Become Disorganized For Third Successive Day And Market Advances

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The bear forces again trod on each others' toes in today's stock market, and for the third successive day became disorganized and sent stocks moderately higher as they withdrew their short positions.

The bear faction appears to have attracted what is perhaps an unprecedented following with some brokers estimating that the short interest amounts to between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 shares.

While many observers insist that these estimates are too high, the feeling that some unexpected piece of good news might create a sudden demand for some 4,000,000 shares to cover short contracts has definitely impaired bearish courage. Some professional traders have begun to try for a quick turn on the upside although there has been little or no inclination to organize any new bull campaign.

MARKET RALLIES

The market sold off about 1 to 5 points in spots during the morning, but important shares held about steady and before midday most of the losses were regained while a long list of issues sold up 1 to 3 with a few making wider gains. The tobacco issues were strong. American Tobacco B shooting up more than 8. American Machine and Foundry, which makes tobacco machinery, traded for the first time this week, shooting up more than 20 shares, making advances of about 2 to 3 points included U. S. Steel, American Can, Eastman Kodak, National Biscuit, Public Service of N. J., DuPont, Johns-Manville, Air Reduction and one of yesterday's weak features, Republic Steel common.

Extensive rainfall apparently breaking the drought over some of the most seriously affected areas, was one of the most bullish developments of the day. Such developments as unsatisfactory earnings reports and rumors of reductions in dividends appeared to have been pretty well discounted marketwise although the coppers sagged somewhat in response to reports that both Kennecott and Anaconda may make further reductions.

The International Paper and Power issues which were acutely weak yesterday, firmed up after publication of the statement showing a June quarter deficit of $1,300,000 after dividends. It was learned at the offices of the company that the drought had not affected its hydro-electric properties. Warner Brothers sold off 3 points after announcement of the issue of rights, then rallied. Chrysler was steady to firm in response to its June quarter report, showing the dividend practically earned, and cash position further strengthened.

The breaking of the drought, while causing some unsettlement in the grain markets, was regarded in banking circles as enhancing the prospects of business recovery, despite the damage already done. One banker who was conspicuously optimistic in July, now describes prospects in somewhat less glowing terms, but says that August will make a better showing than July, and that improvement will be continued in September, but adds that betterment will come slowly.

SENTIMENT LAGS

"The Business Week," which also has been optimistic for several weeks, states:

"Sentiment in financial quarters continues to lag behind sentiment in commercial circles. Banking caution, not to say timidity, is retarding business. Too much importance is still being attached to figures on the ticker tape; stock prices rise and fall in a purely professional market."

The Annalist's preliminary index of business activity in July, as announced today, however, gave an indication of the extent of the decline. The index finally broke through the low levels of 1924, and recorded the lowest point since the 1921 depression.

Credit was about unchanged. The reduction of $59,000,000 in brokers loans to the lowest level in three years gave a measure of the deflation that has been accomplished. Call money was abundant, but held at 2½ per cent, perhaps reflecting the heavy payments to be made on Monday in connection with the treasury bill offering.

Kansas City Bank Cuts Discount Rate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Board announced that the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City had established a rediscount rate of 3½ per cent on all classes of paper on all maturities effective today. The former rate was 4 per cent.

The action of the Kansas City bank leaves only Minneapolis and Dallas with a 4 per cent rate. New York has a 2½ per cent rate. Boston a 3 per cent rate and the remainder of the banks a 3½ per cent rate.

Rubber Market.

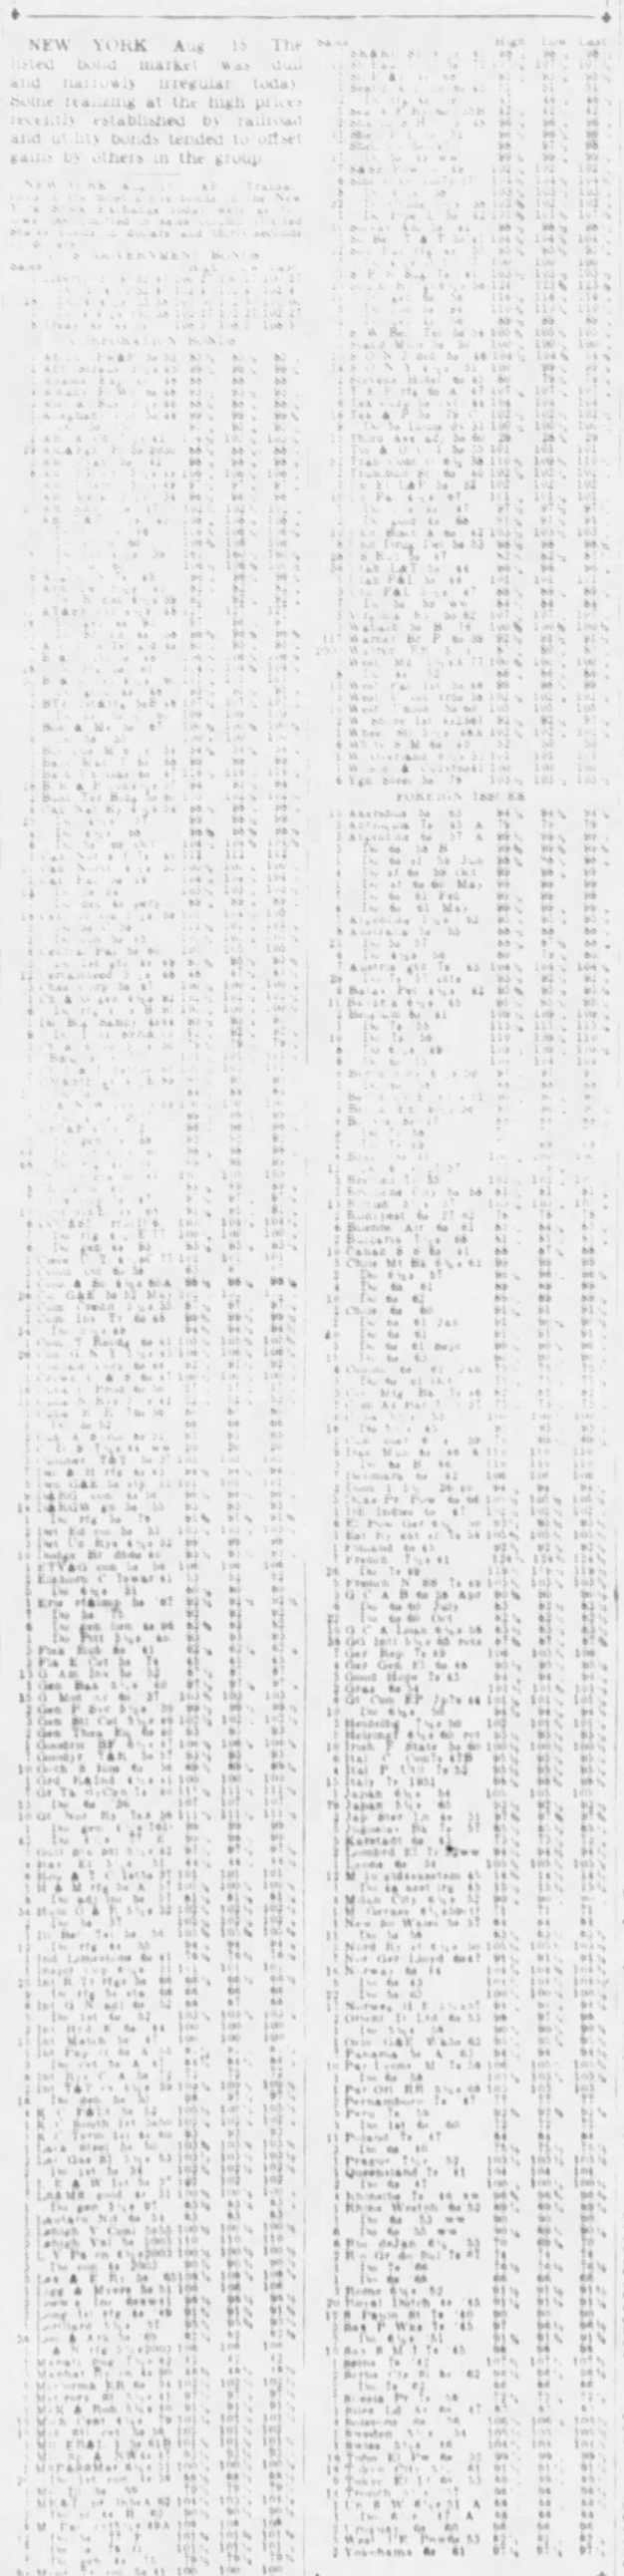
NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Rubber futures opened steady. September, 10.00c; December, 10.80c; March, 10.80c. New contracts: September, 10.10c; December, 10.20c; March, 10.91c.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 15.—Wheat was quiet, 1⅛ to 1⅜ pence higher. Opened ⅛ to ¼ penny up, and at 1.20 p. m. was ¼ to ⅝ penny up.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The listed bond market was dull and narrowly irregular today. Some trailing at the high prices recently established by railroad and utility bonds tended to offset gains by others in the group.



Decision Cancels Interstate Gas Taxation

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 15.—Judge John S. Cotteral of the United States Circuit Court at Guthrie handed down a decision concurred in by United States District Judges Edward S. Vaught of Oklahoma City and R. L. Williams of Muskogee, granting the application of air line operators for a permanent injunction restraining the State of Oklahoma from collecting tax on gasoline engaged in interstate commerce.

The decision applies to all transport lines operating in Oklahoma and is retroactive in the cases of those lines that have been paying this tax for the past two or three months under protest. The state will not appeal the decision.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of 2 to 19 points under selling promoted by relatively easy rabies, diminishing nervousness over the drought situation, and expectations of small July consumption figures from the census bureau later in the morning.

The break into new low ground brought in considerable covering and trade buying, but the demand was readily supplied and by the end of the first half hour active months showed net losses of 13 to 15 points. The new December contract sold off to 11.81 and March to 12.10.

WALL STREET HEARS

That automotive price cuts this week have been due to individual situations and do not foreshadow central reductions; that earlier reports of a reduction by a leading maker of low priced cars are unfounded.

That a few bull operators are considering a drive against the large short interest in the stock market.

That important Wall street interests believe trade reports will show improvement within a fortnight.

That dairy companies have greatly improved their inventory position since the first of the year, and are not concerned over the drought effects upon earnings.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Trading on the curb was dreary today and prices shifted irregularly. Admission of Warner Brothers Pictures rights enlivened the tape somewhat, but transactions in the familiar leaders were exceedingly light.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

BETTER TRADE CONDITIONS FORECAST

Near Term Improvement Viewed as More Than Seasonal by Col. Ayres

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, of Cleveland, a sight of the forecasters, is one of those who has set his teeth against the tide of gravitating to Wall street. He gets numerous flattering offers to settle in New York. A coalition between [illegible] Company [illegible] interests has [illegible] found a [illegible] for many [illegible] attractive [illegible] the Cleveland [illegible] contends [illegible] residence [illegible] Middle West.

Mr. Rukeyser

In his [illegible] ly business [illegible] east for [illegible] Cleveland [illegible] Company [illegible] Ayres [illegible] viewing [illegible] untoward [illegible] developments [illegible] asserts [illegible] term [illegible] will probably [illegible] merchandising [illegible]

SEES BOND ADVANCE

The [illegible] of the bond market [illegible] the [illegible] that the new [illegible] as long [illegible] as [illegible] violated [illegible] old-fashioned [illegible] bonds. Col. Ayres, the sound saver does not subscribe to this view, but says:

"Bond prices will probably continue to advance as improved conditions appear and develop. Banks, institutions and individual investors will probably hurry to buy after they are sure that an advancing price trend is well established and long after really low prices have been left behind. As this buying wave develops the volume of trading will increase and we shall once more have an old time active bond market with most of the purchasers getting in well up toward the top of the price advance."

In spite of the recession and the curtailed buying of new automobiles Col. Ayres, interpreting statistics of gasoline consumption, points out:

"Probably it would require a much prolonged and more serious depression than this one to cause any serious curtailment in the use of gasoline in automobiles. Nevertheless, it is a bit astonishing to discover that there has not only been no decreases this year, but that there has actually been no slackening in the rate of increase. Clearly more people are riding more miles in more automobiles this year than ever before."

COMMODITY PRICES

If the rise in commodity prices following the focussing of attention on the drought has checked the decline in commodity prices, the development is of first importance to business according to Theodore H. Price, former nationally known cotton speculator and now editor of Commerce and Finance and an authority on the staple commodities.

Mr. Price says:

"Many close observers are agreed that as soon as commodity prices are stabilized and held steady to firm for a convincing period, buying will be heavy as deferred requirements are covered. Under this buying the commodity surpluses are likely to disappear almost as rapidly as they appeared.

"At the same time advancing prices of raw materials will stimulate purchasing of goods made from them."

Giving his interpretation of the speculative significance of the probabilities Mr. Price added:

"In an upward price movement those commodities which are now selling below the cost of production will fall into line one by one. In some cases this may happen as spectacularly as in wheat and corn, and it is probable that diversified purchases of the low-priced staples of civilization that are traded in one of the cotton exchanges, the coffee and sugar exchange, the rubber exchange, the cocoa exchange, the hide exchange, the silk exchange, the produce exchange and the Chicago Board of trade, will show good profits hereafter."

TROUGH SEEN

Discussion of business improvements deals mainly with futures. Actual data since the beginning of summer have registered a decline in activities which some capable observers believe marks the trough of the recession.

Mergers often reflect the aspiration toward grandeur on the part of executives. In a thoughtful survey of the subject, Thomas R. Jones, vice president and general manager, Harris-Seybold-Potter Company, pointed out:

"Probably the greatest, though least mentioned, reason for mergers is the desire of executives to be big. The desire to have increased opportunities against which they may measure their stature. The wish to beat the other fellow—and the wish not to be outclassed are manifestations of this feeling. If you doubt in the least that this factor is a big one in business, just think of the recent contests between the various large New York corporations to have the tallest building in the world regardless of economies or costs.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

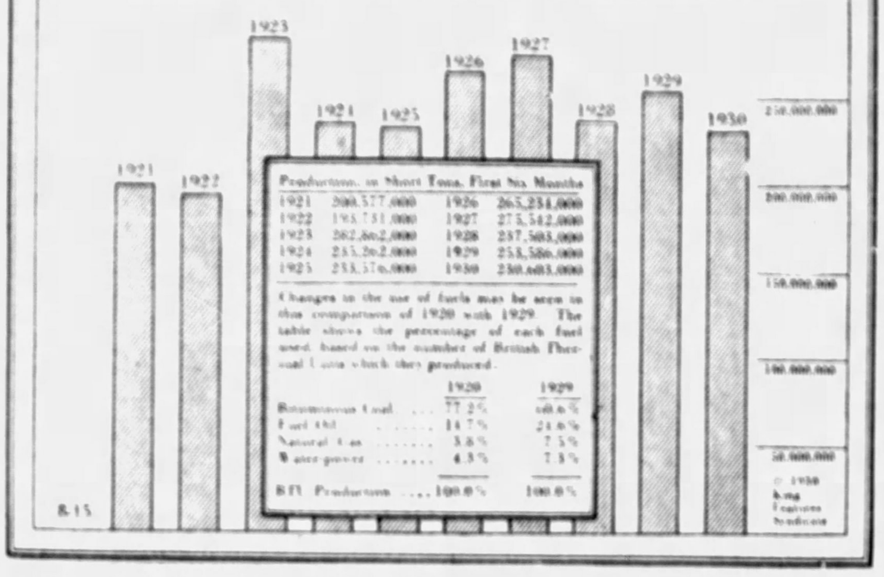
ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

By ERELING FOSTER

Coal Production Has a Natural Decline

The production of bituminous coal throughout the United States during the first half of 1930 is compared with the tonnage mined in the corresponding periods of the past nine years. Source: U. S. Bureau of Mines.

The production of coal has long been one of the leading indexes of business activity. But the increasing efficiency in its use, enhanced by the growing competition of fuel oil, natural gas and water-power, has gradually reduced its tonnage and therefore weakened its value as a standard of business measurement over a period of years. 1930 is 9.5% below the average from 1923 to 1929.



Production, in Short Tons, First Six Months
1922	195,751,000	1927	275,542,000
1923	262,862,000	1928	237,503,000
1924	255,262,000	1929	253,586,000
1925	253,376,000	1930	230,603,000

Changes in the use of fuels may be seen in this comparison of 1920 with 1929. The table shows the percentage of each fuel used, based on the number of British Thermal Units which they produced.

	1920	1929
Bituminous Coal	77.2%	68.6%
Fuel Oil	14.7%	24.6%
Natural Gas	3.8%	7.5%
Water-power	4.3%	7.3%
All Products	100.0%	100.0%

Steel Profits Outlook Still Uncertain

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

WHILE MANY STEEL MEN are optimistic about the industry's prospects for a revival in the latter months of this year, it appears quite certain that the earnings of most companies for the third quarter will be slightly below those of the second quarter.

Steel mill operations have slumped to the lowest levels of this year. The average production is at about 52 per cent of capacity with many independent producers working at even lower rates.

Little progress has been made towards price stabilization. The Iron Age average price for steel products is at the lowest point since February, 1922.

No Evidence of Gains

THE STEEL TRADE has been on the down grade since July 1. Half of the third quarter has passed with no concrete signs of a revival. It is quite generally expected that demand for steel will be more active next month. It seems likely, however, that it is too late for improvement to be of any particular help to earnings for the present quarter. At best only part of the ground lost during July and August can be regained.

While most steel companies made fairly good earnings statements for the first half of the year, in consideration of the drastic cuts in production and prices, first quarter profits showed sharp declines from last year and even more ground was lost in the second quarter. All signs point to a further slump for the third quarter although it will not be great.

Drought to Have Effect

MILLS PRODUCING TIN PLATE and large sizes of line pipe have been the most active this year. The drought threatens to seriously reduce the canning of food products. This may curtail tin plate production to some extent, although the producers in this field still are likely to do better than the general average for the steel industry. Tin plate makers have shown large profits this year as a result of a good rate of operations and low prices for tin and semi-finished steel.

The continued development of the natural gas industry insures the production of line pipe for the balance of the year at capacity rates. This pipe has been sold at lower prices than a year ago which tends to reduce earning in this branch of the industry.

Prices Remain Low

THE FAILURE OF A REVIVAL in steel to make its appearance has darkened the prospects for 1931. Even though the steel mills may make long strides towards restoring a high rate of production this year, prices will still be far lower than during the summer of 1929.

A long period of time is always required to put higher steel prices into effect. This is due to the custom of allowing customers to place orders at old levels before the advanced quotations are established. If steel price advances were to be announced next month, they would not be likely to apply to actual shipments before the first quarter of 1931.

Even if production of steel next year were to duplicate the level of 1929, it is quite probable that earnings would be lower than the records established in that year. Declines in steel prices have ranged from $5 to $7 a ton. It may take the better part of a year for the industry to go through the slow process of pushing these quotations up to their former levels and the stimulus of a brisk demand will be needed to keep producers in line.

Dividend Prospects of Leading Companies Closely Watched

More attention is being given to the question of dividend prospects of leading companies than ever before. Operations and earnings of all concerns will be studied with greater care in an effort to select the stocks which might be affected by unfavorable dividend action. While distributions are in danger the tendency is to liquidate the shares on which into others with a more favorable outlook. Part of the recent decline in individual issues has been the result of doubt regarding maintenance of current dividends. Such selling is likely to be continued in the market for some time.

A business authority states that although there is little reason for optimism at the moment, the fact remains that many corporations must replenish their supplies for the fall and winter trade requirements. This buying should start within six to eight weeks, and ordinarily has some influence on business sentiment. It is likely, however, that the buying to replenish inventories will not be as large or confident as it has been in more normal years.

Price reductions in motor industry have been temporary moves to meet individual situations. There is little likelihood that permanently lower levels of automobile prices will follow such individual reductions. The industry is more interested at present in establishing profitable operations than in building up volume in what is recognized as a buyers' market.

Several Wall street houses report steady buying of American securities from abroad, particularly from London, Paris and Amsterdam. This buying is seen in both stocks and bonds. Foreigners are buying our high-grade railroad bonds and shares in the largest and best known industrial companies. Foreign investors, as a rule, show far greater discrimination in their buying than Americans and they have a great deal of faith in the future of the United States.

That the bond business faces some radical changes is generally admitted. The question in the minds of bond men is whether these changes will gradually tend to eliminate the bond salesman or whether they will only serve to increase high pressure salesmanship. The important question before independent bond dealers right now is, of course, the competition from powerful commercial banks many of which now have well rounded out retail selling organizations. Commercial borrowers can now be fully accommodated at their banks. The bank can underwrite and sell securities and accommodate borrowers in the meantime. As the banks control the new financing their salesmen can offer better terms to investors than the independent members of syndicates.

The system of commercial banks having their own retail bond selling organizations is entirely American. The large English banks have no security affiliations of the same character. It really is a system as yet to be tested and seems to promise increased competition in bond selling. On the other hand should the large banks be permitted to open country branches, and each branch be equipped with a security department, the business may follow the English system where investors come to the banks to buy bonds instead of relying on salesmen to come to their doors.

Atlantic and Pacific Sales Show Gain

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company reports sales for July amounting to $96,723,670, compared with sales of $93,671,398 in July, 1929. Seven months' sale total $644,783,464, compared with $600,308,970 for the same period of 1929.

CHRYSLER NET SLUMPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Chrysler Corporation reported second quarter net profit of $3,228,139 against $9,567,066 in the same 1929 period. Profit for the entire first six months of 1930 was $5,408,856 compared with $18,096,259 in the first half of last year.

Earnings for the second quarter were equal to 77 cents per share of stock against only 4 cents a share in the first quarter. In the second quarter of 1929 the corporation earned $2.97 a share.

Walter P. Chrysler, president, said that despite the "temporary depression" the company's engineers have been developing new lines of motors.

LOANS DECLINE $59,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Loans to brokers and dealers held up by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending August 13 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board as $3,155,000,000, representing a decrease of $59,000,000 as compared to the preceding week.

The loans for the week ending August 14, 1929, were $5,952,000,000.

Claude Troubled

When Beauty Jones, the young doorkeeper and addict to African dominoes suggested to Claude that he let the Twins shake dice for him, Claude popped him one in the jaw. "Beany" being an amateur boxer, tried to pop back and Claude floored him.

This was all in supposed good fun, but it gave the staff at the studio to understand that the Wallace twins were not to be the subject of any jokes.

After that the boys satisfied themselves with making bets as to whether Claude would take Mildred or Maud.

If the boys had only known that it was this most momentous question that was troubling Claude to the verge of distraction, they would have enjoyed betting all the more, because then it would appeal to them as a genuine wager on the great god Chance.

Maud and Mildred had black hair and blue eyes and pink cheeks and the pert noses that go to finish off the perfect Irish brunettes, despite their Scotch name.

But, nevertheless, it wasn't a case of not knowing "t'other from which," as Aunt Sabrina used to say. One could differentiate almost at once, because Maud was nearly an inch shorter than Mildred. Of course, they had to be together to enable anyone to do this.

Apart, Maud was often addressed as Mildred, and vice versa. They were quite used to it. In their high school days they had a lot of fun over this. Some of the boys who had been out with Maud would meet Mildred, call her "Maud" and try for a kiss. Not being Mildred's boy friend, he would get a rebuff.

It worked the other way, quite as well.

At the time he signed his new contract and had more money on hand than he ever dreamed of possessing a year before that, he gave the twins birthday presents, emerald rings, and real emeralds, at that.

"You may be Scotch," he told them, "but you look like Killarney roses and I'm giving you emeralds."

Problem Solved

Mildred's was equally beautiful, but it was oval.

The rings cost exactly the same. Claude would play no favorites, and he patted himself very frequently after this. A glance at the hand of either girl, when one was away from the other, and he had solved the identity problem.

If the emerald was square cut, the girl was Maud. If it was oval, she was Mildred.

This saved embarrassment at such times as the girls dressed alike, which they did most of the time solely because they got a lot of fun out of it and they made a better impression when out together.

Claude gave them the rings when they were nineteen.

On their twentieth birthday he gave them each a self-winding wrist watch. He thought he had a wonderful plan. He proposed putting his picture in the back of one of the watches, closing the case, shuffling them up until he didn't know one from the other and giving them to the girls.

The girl who got the watch with his picture would thus understand, when her twin was found to have no picture in her watch, that she was the one he wanted.

In their room that night they had a long discussion, and one that was rather unusual for sisters.

"Are you madly in love with Claude?" Mildred asked.

"I don't know—he's awfully nice, but I wouldn't curl up and die if he married you," Maud assured her.

Work Can Be Given Many By Building Subway Now

There has been much discussion lately of the traffic congestion in downtown streets, and also of the problem of unemployment. Partial relief from both conditions could be obtained by immediate construction of the street car subway in the First and Second Wards for which the people authorized a bond issue of $6,000,000 in 1919.

The subway, of course, should not be built until some kind of arrangement has been made for its operation. The city does not want to be left with a white elephant on its hands. Inquiry among those chiefly concerned suggests, however, that with a little extra effort and the exercise of a conciliatory spirit the contract with the Pittsburgh Railways Company might be negotiated.

The Department of City Transit has drawn plans for a subway running under Smithfield street from Water street to Seventh avenue, from which it would loop west on Liberty avenue to Wood street, to Sixth avenue, to Smithfield street, with an additional subway from Penn avenue at Sixteenth street to Liberty avenue at Sixth avenue.

The proposal has been made to the Pittsburgh Railways Company that it pay as rental for the use of the subway the amount that would be saved by running its cars under-ground instead of on the surface. The company's position is that it must know what this amount would be before it can enter into a contract.

Engineers of the department are now working on that problem. If the project is to be speeded it is for them to act promptly.

'Sawmill Run' Meant Something to Washington

As was to be expected, members of patriotic and historical societies object to the proposal, made by the Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners to the County Commissioners, to change the name of Sawmill Run boulevard to Liberty boulevard. Certainly if sentiment counts for anything, the suggestion should be rejected.

The name "Sawmill Run" dates back to the earliest days of Pittsburgh, to a time when this was still British soil. It is a landmark that definitely locates a section of the city. The name has been familiar to many generations of Pittsburghers.

George Washington probably was acquainted with the name "Sawmill Run," for it figures in grants of land made here about 1770, when Virginia claimed sovereignty, and when Washington himself was granted land on Chartiers Creek. If Washington were to return to Pittsburgh today, there would be little that was familiar to him except a few old names—and they should be preserved.

As Mrs. Carol Miller, descendant of a Revolutionary soldier, points out, we have already lost a number of interesting historical names, one dating back to the French occupation of Fort Duquesne, through the tampering of politicians with our street nomenclature, and it is time a stop were put to it.

W. H. Stevenson, president of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, offers a practical reason for not changing Sawmill Run boulevard to Liberty boulevard. He calls attention to the fact that we already have several thoroughfares named "Liberty." With still another there certainly would be confusion. Mail intended for a Liberty avenue address, through carelessness, would be addressed or delivered to the corresponding address on Liberty boulevard, or vice versa.

The County Commissioners have changed the name of the old Three Degree road to Babcock boulevard, and have named tunnels for Armstrong. If they feel they MUST change the name of Sawmill Run boulevard, they might, to be consistent, call it McGovern boulevard!

Fish Commissioner Has Good News for Anglers

Nathan R. Buller, state commissioner of fisheries, reports, on his return from a tour of Pennsylvania's major streams, that the drought has caused no serious loss of fish. That is good news for anglers, and for others, too; for, whether they are caught or not, it adds to the attractiveness of our creeks and rivers to have them inhabited by trout and bass and pike. One does not have to be a fisherman to take delight in seeing a trout leap for an insect.

Thanks are due sportsmen's associations in Western Pennsylvania for keeping down the casualties of the finny inhabitants in some of the smaller streams. These creeks had gone almost completely dry, and the fish were huddled together in pools. The sportsmen removed them with seines and transferred them to other streams or pools in which there was less danger of their destruction. In seining the fish the conservationists were guilty of a technical violation of the law; but under the circumstances they are to be commended rather than condemned.

It is interesting to note that beavers are playing a part in the conservation of fish by building dams and forming pools in streams which, but for these animals' activity, would go dry in seasons of prolonged drought. Probably, by thus saving the trout, the beavers more than pay for the little loss they cause by flooding farmers' fields.

Scientific conservation has made Pennsylvania the best state in the Union for hunting. Industrial pollution of the streams makes it almost hopeless to try to give Pennsylvanians correspondingly good fishing. But there is still fairly good sport angling for trout in the mountain streams. It gives pleasure and wholesome recreation to hundreds of thousands of the citizens, and it is reassuring to know that the dry spell has thus far not played havoc with the fish.

"Bugs" Baer

We think we would look better if Paris turned over the fashions to the Swiss toy-makers.

The latest indictment is the hourglass figure. Which means wide at the top, narrow at the middle and wide again at the base.

If you wanted to tell time by your silhouette it would be much easier for most dowagers to look like the old town clock.

Can you imagine a Colonial dame saying to Smithkins, the butler, "Look at my shadow and tell me what time it is, will you, Smithky, old spud?"

Smithkins turns his halibut-eyes on the shadow and sees that the outlines of the hips are not registered with Orthodox Greenwich time.

So Smithkins says, "Sorry, my lady, but you are 15 minutes slow. And your waist is casting too big a shadow."

We know that the hourglass figure was quite esprit d'corps in the gay nineties. But it was accompanied by muttonchop sleeves, choked necks and bustles. Also stays and corsets.

Corsets haven't been seen in these sections of the big timber since Hector grabbed those dog biscuits.

We pity the stouts who are going to try for the hourglass contours. And we advise the ladies to keep the figure that nature and home cooking gave them.

For, no matter what they do, they are going to keep them anyway.

CIVILIZATION AND POWER

By Archibald Henderson

Until we can see the present age in a long perspective, it will probably be impossible to settle the great debate concerning the contributions of power to our civilization. But already we feel sure, from a material standpoint, power has served as a mighty agent of release for the work-faculties of mankind. The case for power has been admirably put by C. F. Hirshfeld in the arresting book edited by Charles A. Beard—"Toward Civilization."

Machines, notably the engine and water-wheel, are called prime movers. In 1849, through prime movers, some 10,000,000 horse-power were available to the inhabitants of this country. By 1923 this figure has been multiplied 70 times. Today the total primary power in the country is 100 times what it was in 1849. The great advance is indicated if we compute one horsepower as equivalent to 10 men in work-producing ability. On this basis, each man, woman and child in the country in 1849 had the equivalent of five human slaves available for service. Today the power available per capita is so vast that each man, woman and child now has the equivalent of about 100 slaves!

The triumph of such a civilization is that none of this power represents human slavery. There are no shackles, no auction blocks, no servitude. Power is at the service of every one, doing his or her work as part of the distribution of the power age to the development of a new culture. It is a distribution of power throughout the population which is unprecedented in the world's history. It is laying the basic foundations for the superstructure of a great new world culture. The contemporary, from the power standpoint, is 50 times as well off as the famous freemen of ancient Greece.

The contribution of the automotive industry toward the new civilization is far vaster than is popularly supposed. In 1923 almost three-quarters of all the prime-mover capacity in the country was installed under the hoods of automotive equipment. Even more astounding is the fact that about 90 per cent of this huge fraction, or 67 per cent of all the prime-mover capacity in the country, was contributed by the pleasure type of automobile!

Is Power serving to bring man nearer to those heights which idealists of all ages have pictured as his goal? Or will Power prove to be a veritable Frankenstein monster now actually engaged in destroying his maker?

There is no authoritative answer possible at the moment. But there can be no doubt that man's destiny lies within himself. Power has liberated man from innumerable forms of economic slavery. The problem is as to how man will use his new freedom.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You hear it long before you catch its glimmer through the pines.

Not a loud sound—just a soft, busy murmuring, nearly lost in the chattering of squirrels, the squawling of jays, the bustle of the wind through the branches. A quiet sound, but your heart lifts to it—

You have been on the trail since morning. Throat and hair are caked with dust—flesh scored scarlet with the long lashing of the heat. Your feet move stiffly—wooden stumps in the rancid leather of your high boots. Indeed, all your body feels wooden—drained of sap and emotion. But now, at that sound, you quicken—shoulder hurriedly through chaparral and wild gooseberry—cross a wide open space where tar weed is thickening to blossom and the air smells of cinnanmon and dried apples. Then, suddenly, in the strong blue shadow of the tall pines, you come upon it.

Clear and deep and quiet, between its straight walls, the Ditch flows in a moving band of crystal. No bubble and splash and spray here—no tumbling wet turmoil through fern root and sedge. For the Ditch is not a scatter-brained mountain brook. It has work to do. Mile upon thirsty mile it flows, cold and strong and pure, down from the summit, through deer brush and manzanita, past pine and oak and alder, giving its strength to orchard and vineyard and home.

This is not merely water, this quiet brightness, pouring itself through the splintering, saffon sunshine and scented violet shade. This is Life. Life for man and beast and growing things.

In all that wide drama of peak and forest, green lowlands, burning desert—with the tame life and the wild life moving about on their various bushiness—there is nothing more important than the Ditch. It is the true settler of frontires. Without it man could not break the wilderness. Scarcely seen, scarcely heard, it still decides human destiny.

There are lives like that . . . plain lives without dash or sparkle; gentle lives that never make the headlines. Yet, they are to other lives what the Ditch is to the ranges and ranches and desert homesteads. Other lives, fierce and colorful, or shy and weak, drink of their deep strength or rest in their cool serenity. Quietly they pass through the world, giving their abundance to all who need. And often—how often!—those who take, forget. As the orchards and the beasts forget the source of their refreshment. But the Ditch goes on—and these simple lives go on—Living Water—drawing their pure, deep beauty from some far, stainless source.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

There was a new efficiency man took charge of an iron foundry in Ohio lately. He posted a lot of new signs to make the men work harder. One sign said, "Any man caught smoking around this foundry will be fired immediately."

So, one day, as the new efficiency manager was walking in to hang up his hat, he seen a man in overalls smoking a cigaret where some goods was being unloaded.

"Here," says the manager, "you seen that sign over there, didn't you?"

"Sure, I seen it."

"Well, I'm going to make an example of you. What's your pay per week?"

"Thirty-five dollars."

"All right, here's a week's wages."

The man stuffed the thirty-five bucks into his pocket and said "Thanks."

"Now go," says the efficiency man. "You're fired. That's the way I dispose of such inefficiency."

"Well, excuse me," says the man, "but I ain't fired that I know of. I work for the express company, and I'm just waitin' here for to get this receipt signed. But I appreciate the thirty-five bucks, anyhow."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

A Soprano

Supremely clear and pure it rises,
This voice beyond all others sweet,
To soar above Earth's sad surmises
And dim defeat.

It lifts on its unfaltering pinions
The spirit up to hidden things
Of love, to faith's serene dominions
Its message wings.

The golden flames of candles flutter
Back to the darkness whence they came,
The incense drifts while echoes utter
Sounds pure as flame.

When through the fragrant dimness ringing,
The music cleaves the silence there,
It is as though white souls were winging
In lyric prayer.

As though white souls rose up, exploring
Fairways where never men have trod,
Still seeking, in their joyous soaring,
The face of God!

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The plumage of male birds is thus unlike most male secondary sex characters; it can develop perfectly well in the absence of the testis, but the ovary produces something which inhibits its growth.

Grafting experiments give confirmatory results. A capons' comb, for instance, can at any time be made to grow to full size, and the bird revived into full activity of crowing, fighting, courting and mating, by grafting a piece of cock's testis anywhere into the body cavity.

H. G. Wells

The grafted testis cannot function in its reproductive capacity, since there is no connection between it and the reproductive ducts. But its glandular function continues, for a grafted piece of tissue always acquires a blood supply, into which the internal secretion can be shed.

In the same way a hen, the removal of whose ovary has brought about the development of male plumage, can be made to redevelop henny feathering by a grafted ovary.

Still more remarkable are the deliberate reversals of sex-characters. Steinach was the pioneer in this field, and his results have stood firm against much hostile criticism.

If a male baby guinea pig, a few days after birth, be castrated, it grows up into an animal not unlike the ordinary male, save that it is completely neuter in instinct and behavior. But if at the same operation an ovary from a young female is engrafted the creature grows into a passable imitation of a female.

It is smaller than a normal male; it is pursued with sexual intent by males; the milk-glands and nipples enlarge as in a female and the animal may even produce milk and, if a foster-child is provided, suckle it and care for it like a normal mother.

These "feminized males" are, of course, not complete or normal females; the physical differentiation of the internal organs of reproduction had proceeded so far before birth that it cannot be completely reversed.

The feminization is, however, complete for all characterists developing after the operation. Equally successful results were obtained in the converse experiment of masculinizing young females. And precisely similar successes have been achieved with fowls.

By grafting both ovary and testis into a guinea pig Steinach even produced an animal which had a double personality—it oscillated rapidly between masculine and feminine instincts. It is one of the most remarkable experiments to see an animal thus made over in its most intimate anatomy, its outward appearance and its mind, by the substitution of one small piece of tissue for another.

Sometimes nature makes these experiments. When twins are conceived by a sow their embryonic membranes meet and join and the blood vessels in them unite; they acquire a common circulation and the hormones of one can flow through the other.

Apparently the male hormones are earlier formed and more potent than the female, for when the twins are of opposite sex the male is born normal, but the female suffers more or less transformation toward maleness. She is known as a free-martin, and is always sterile.

Now, this is a very interesting qualification of our idea of the ruling influence of the gene.

In that male guinea pig of Steinach's every living cell (except those of the graft) had its complete chromosome outfit unimpaired, and normally it would have produced masculine characteristics wherever they ought to have appeared.

Similarly with that free-martin, which ought to have been a proper cow. But sexual hormones, from the graft in the one case and from the bull twin in the other, pour in and swamp the influence of the original genes.

In these higher vertebrate the machinery controlling the development of sex characters is a double one, a two-stitch mechanism. The chromosomes and their genes set the first switch.

If it is set one way the animal travels on to produce a reproductive organ that is male; if the other, to produce one that is female. Here is situated the second switch.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

BREMEN.—This was the last stop before shoving off in the fastest Atlantic liner, "Europa," for New York. Bremen is a cultivated patrician-like city with ancient moats entwining it in a garland of green. The rhythm of medieval life has changed, but the melody is unspoiled. It suggests the sturdy tick of a clock.

I thought—and I bet most of you do too—boats sailed directly from Bremen. By mere lucky chance I learned while rubbernecking around the sailing point was Bremerhaven, a fast hour's motor drive. We made the dock by an eyelash and I'm still afraid to count the baggage.

Winches whirred and ropes were being cast off when we galloped up the gang-plank, and even so Billy, the fat head, tried further to delay things by lazily taking in some fascinating smell enroute. The yank I gave him! I heard Germans were the most persistent farewell wavers of all, and it's no exaggeration.

From the time the schnell-dampfer—Heinie for fast boat—nosed out to sea until Bremerhaven was a speck, handkerchiefs fluttered. The liner band played "Home Sweet Home," and I somehow stood gazing out a porthole on the verge of a sniffle. "Auf wiedersehen," to me, is the most beautiful of all farewells.

Will Hogg and I hate goodbys, so we parted with a quick "So long!" He and his sister are on their way across Russia. Last year Will toured South America with Irvin Cobb. I asked him how I compared with Irvin as a traveler. "Fine," he replied and added, I think unnecessarily, "I don't know which is the nuttier."

The "Europa" rises 14 stories with rivets the size of pie plates. Its Commodore, N. Johnsen, sailed before the mast on the Chinese coast and is now a graybeard with leathery cheeks. "Passengers are listed as "Herr," "Frau" or "Fraulein" as the case may be. "Herr Sing Toy Hop" won a sly giggle from me.

Most voyagers appear to be retired German-Americans on visits to the Fatherland and a number suggest the late Sam Bernard's version of "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer." The bar is a whirligig of tall pilseners, goosenecked pipes and a diapason of thick "Yah, yah, yahs!"

I determined to eat every meal in the dining room this crossing, but tossed that idea with a few other knick-knacks, overboard at lunch, when a man nearby decorated his table with a bottle of brownish sticky medicine. It reminded me of Grandma's remedy for vapours.

This boat reaches Cherbourg in 24 hours and New York in four days and 20 hours—maybe. The ocean is glass slick and the sensation is of a Santa Fe flyer breezing through Kansas flat lands. It is a skimming gull, and if I can keep what I facetiously call my mind off icebergs I'll enjoy myself.

For ten days I've been out of touch with my world, not having seen an English newspaper. So I snatched up the ship's daily — "Lloyd Post"—with fervor. The leading items were the Bambino smacked the apple over the garden wall for a circuit and two seditionists were arrested in San Luis Potosi. If I had been away 20 years I cannot think up two items interesting me less.

Among passengers is Mrs. Robert Edgar, of Scranton, returning from a honeymoon with her newspaperman husband. She is experimenting to keep an orchid corsage fresh throughout the voyage. This has been done by placing orchids each night in water mixed with aspirin. It is a trick discovered by Ganna Walska, whom Phil Baker calls "The Phantom of the Opera," and who feels declasse without orchids anywhere.

But the high spot of this junket was a summons to the purser's office for a $100 refund overpaid the Berlin booking office. That's picking it out of thin air. You have no notion how big $100 looks after two months in Europe. If I owned a steamship line I'd overcharge everybody and return it on the way home. It would make not only contented customers, but boom bar receipts.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Get rid of the idea that the world and the people in it are going downward rapidly because things are different from what they were when you were young.

Notwithstanding your attitude great advancement is being made.

You compare the present unfavorably with the past because you are of the past and have not kept up with the march of time.

You may not desire to be modern, which is an admission that you are a back number.

How can you expect to gain satisfaction and enjoyment out of the present and what it affords if you shut yourself off from what is offered.

No one suffers so much as you from your lack of adaptation to modern ideas.

Of course you are unhappy and discontented when practically everything at the present time is displeasing to you.

You can't bring back the past for which you long—why regret conditions over which you have no control?

Whiners are not wanted—you are here and you can select plenty of good things from modern ways and methods and be one with the world and your friends.
